Peace for a While.
Houdon's Washington.
A Billion for Farmers?
When Men Lack Hope.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

BIG nations fight when they choose, as Europe knows to its cost. But they don't want other nations to fight and disturb trade.

The French urge China and Russia not to fight. The British, also.

Japan won't allow the South Manchurian Railway to transport Chinese troops and munitions.

IT IS certain that China does not want war. She gets all the fighting she needs within her own borders.

It is a pleasure for Northern Chinese to fight Southern Chinese, as it once was for Cossacks, in Russia, to kill Circassians.

THE late Count Witte, here to negotiate the Russian-Japanese peace, over Theodore Roosevelt's head, said that Russia, speaking 40 languages, with 40 kinds of internal hatreds, would never get another stable government if it overthrew the czars. He was mistaken.

JAPAN'S feelings are hurt because Secretary Stimson, through France and Great Britain, tried to negotiate a Russian-Chinese peace without consulting Tokio.

Japan feels that Asia is her front yard and she should be consulted.

THAT is reasonable. If Mexico and Brazil threatened war and Japan started to intervene this country would ask WHY?"

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., is said to have purchased Houdon's bust of George Washington, made at Mount Vernon in 1785.

Newspapers will talk about the price, which means nothing. The important thing is to bring to this country the finest bust of Washington.

If you have seen Houdon's statue of Voltaire, you will believe that he did justice to Washington.

MR. ROCKEFELLER would oblige many if he would cause perfect bronze or other reproductions of the Houdon Washington to be made and distributed at low cost through department or other stores. The French government does that with its magnificent treasures in the Louvre.

FARMERS are told that the value of this year's wheat crop has increased $564,000,000 since June 1. How much of that the farmers will get, how much middle men, and especially wheat gamblers, will get nobody knows.

FARMERS might hire an intelligent wheat speculator to sell their crops for future delivery when prices are high. As it is, they wait until the wheat is threshed, then the price is lower.

PRESENT estimates show that the four big crops, wheat, corn, oats and rye, are worth $3,545,000,000, an increase of more than a thousand million dollars in two months.

A SAVAGE outbreak of convicts in New York's Clinton prison is easily explained.

Too many "life" and "long term" prisoners were herded together. Such men are willing to risk death because they are hopeless.

Lacking hope and its courage, you have a bad situation; Goethe said: "Money lost, SOMETHING lost. * * *

"Honor lost, MUCH lost. * * *

"Courage lost, EVERYTHING lost, better you were never born. * * *"

THE Prince of Wales yesterday flew, in an army plane, from London to a brewery at Burton on Trent, to inspect the making of a special brew of ale.

That is the brewery producing Bass' ale, to which Samuel Johnson referred, when helping his friend, Mrs. Thrale, to sell her dead husband's property. He said it represented "the potentiality of growing rich beyond the dreams of avarice."

NEW YORK is practical. A committee accepts the Woolworth Building, Holland tunnel and subway as "three of the seven wonders of New York." The Statue of Liberty and the Metropolitan Museum of Art are well spoken of, but not included.

A great scientist who called "the starry heavens and the moral nature of man" the two great wonders, would not do for New York's city commission—too abstract.

THE accomplishment of the steamship Bremen, is interesting, intensely important to Germany, and at the same time disappointing. It beat the ocean record a few hours, which is not important to the general public. To cut off two days, as flying machines will soon do, then reduce the time to 10 hours as flying machines also will do, will be really important.

COLUMBUS crossed in 71 days, the Mayflower in 63, the first steamship in 26 days.

Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris, 3,60. miles, in 33½ hours. That's REAL improvement.

Somebody will build an ocean steamship, perhaps with two hulls and multiple screws between them, to cross in 48 hours.

GIRL ELECTROCUTED IN HOME HERE

WOMAN ALSO BURNED BY WIRES ON WASHER

Pair Receive Shock in Laundry of Residence In Morrison Avenue

An electric shock from a washing machine today caused the death of a girl and serious injury of a woman in the laundry at the home of Walter Aydent, 1005 Morrison avenue, North Side.

The girl is Margaret Aydent, 15. She was dead when examined by Dr. R. H. King, who was called by neighbors.

Mrs. Sophie Johnson, who was employed by the Aydents, was burned seriously. She was expected to recover.

According to a report to police, the girl was killed when she touched the tub of the washer with her hand, which was wet. She had been rinsing the clothes in another tub.

The current evidently passed through her body and grounded through the floor, which was damp, police said.

Mrs. Johnson was at the wringer of the machine, and police believed, the increased current caused by the short circuit through the girl's body, caused severe shock to her.

Mrs. Aydent collapsed when she was told that her daughter had been injured. Her condition was regarded as too serious for her to withstand the news that her daughter's injuries had been fatal, and this was withheld.

PIRATES' LEAD THREATENED

The Pirates today faced the necessity of winning to insure their spot at the top of the league standing. Losing yesterday while the Cubs trimmed the Giants, the Buccos reduced the gap separating the two leading clubs to a very narrow margin.

Heinie Meine is the likely pitching selection for the home club this afternoon in the third battle with the Robins of Brooklyn.

Townsend, politician, photographed today on a cot at Homeopathic Hospital. His right leg was broken by one of the bullets fired at him when he opened the door of his Coraopolis Heights home in the dark hours this morning to answer the summons of a caller who wanted "to buy a cow."

H. H. TOWNSEND SHOT AT HOME

City and county authorities have combined their efforts today in a search for a mysterious stranger who shot down Henry Horace Townsend in his summer cottage, near Coraopolis Heights, last night.

Townsend, a West End politician and a son of the late Henry H. Townsend, former Republican leader here, is in Homeopathic Hospital, his right leg shattered by the bullet.

Townsend and his wife were preparing to retire about 11:30 when they heard footsteps on the gravel walk leading to the cottage.

TALKS TO ATTACKER

"Who's there?" Townsend inquired.

"Charley White," came the reply.

"What do you want?"

"I want to buy a cow."

Townsend opened the door.

"This is a funny time to be buying a cow," he complained.

A shot rang out, and Townsend slumped to the floor as the bullet pierced his leg. Another shot was aimed at him as he tried to rise.

"You've got me—why waste bullets?" Townsend remarked.

The hammer of the gun in the assassin's hand clicked again twice. Townsend tried to drag himself into

CHINA, RUSSIA NEGOTIATE

TOKIO, July 24.—(A.P.)—Advices from Manchuria today indicated that Chinese and Russian officials were endeavoring to get together at Changchun in an effort to arrange a peaceful settlement of the Chinese Eastern Railway controversy.

Dispatches from Changchun to the Japanese News Agency Rengo said that M. Melnikov, Russian consul general, had arrived there unexpectedly from Harbin this morning. He was accompanied by the Chinese commissioner for foreign affairs in Harbin.

PARLEY SIGNIFICANT

The consul general met Chang Tso-Hsiang, head of the Kirin provisional government and chief lieutenant of Chang Hsueh-Liang, governor of Manchuria. The conference was regarded as a significant approach to direct Russo-Chinese contact by which a peaceful settlement might be arranged. Several other incidents also pointed in the same direction.

STATE ORDERS INSPECTION OF ALL AUTOS

1,500,000 Owners Must Take Test and Pay Fees From Oct. 1 to Nov. 15

HARRISBURG, July 24.—Gov. John S. Fisher in a proclamation today fixed the period from October 1 to November 15 as the time for the compulsory inspection of all automobiles in the state.

Under the proclamation it will be necessary for each of the 1,500,000 automobile owners to pay a fee to have his car inspected.

The new motor code which the governor signed this spring prevents an automobile owner from running his machine within a month after the close of the inspection period unless it has been passed by one of the designated garages authorized to make inspections.

O. K. BY STICKERS

The code also legalizes the placing of inspection stickers on the highways. Cars will not be given a sticker unless they are mechanically satisfactory to the inspecting garage man.

During the spring of 1928, the Highway Department inaugurated its first inspection campaign.

Traffic on busy roads was held up while patrolmen stopped machines giving them warnings about having their cars inspected.

TO PICK STATIONS SOON

There were no penalties under the old act.

Enforcement of the inspection campaign this time will be in the hands of the Department of Revenue, which took over the Bureau of Motor Vehicles and the motor patrol.

Benjamin G. Eynon, deputy secretary of revenue, in charge of the motor vehicle work, said official inspection stations would be designated soon.

AUTOIST FALLS DEAD AT WHEEL

Pedestrians in Fifth avenue near Smithfield street at noon today gasped as they saw an auto driver tug at the wheel to turn his car to the curb, then slump over the wheel inert. The car swerved into the curb and stopped.

Police took the driver to Allegheny General Hospital, where he was pronounced dead of heart failure. At the morgue he was identified as John Trueman, 41, of 1724 Franklin street.

WOMEN THRONG SNOOK TRIAL, 2 ON JURY

Girl's Father Eager to Have Killing Avenged, Mother Calm as Hearing Starts

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., July 24.—Three jurors, two women and a man, had been tentatively accepted today at the trial of Dr. James H. Snook, the 49-year-old college professor, for the murder of 25-year-old Theora Hix, former Ohio State University co-ed, when court recessed until 1:30 this afternoon.

The trial, with its "college background," attracted a huge crowd. Nine-tenths of the spectators were young girls and women. Five bailiffs were required to maintain order in the crowded corridors.

Dr. Snook, the central figure, tall and scholarly looking, sat calmly at defense counsel table, fingering a gold pencil. He was immaculately dressed in a gray suit.

SNOOK AVOIDS FATHER

The defendant avoided the steady glare of Melvin T. Hix, silver-haired father of the slain girl, whose eyes seldom left the features of the confessed murderer. Hix, his hands gripping the sides of his chair, leaned forward, and stared at Snook for minutes at a time.

Hix, a former school principal, is on the verge of a nervous breakdown, according to his attorney. Mrs. Hix sat beside her husband all forenoon, her head drooped.

PROFESSOR CALM

Seventy-five prospective jurors, including 16 women, were summoned to the court room.

Judge Henry L. Scarlett warned the jurors not to discuss the case with anyone and not to read the newspapers.

NURSE FIRST CALLED

The task of selecting the jury was then begun.

2 COWAN SONS DISINHERITED

Two sons of Joseph P. Cowan, of the Cowan Manufacturing Company, were cut off with $10 each in their father's will filed for probate today.

Mr. Cowan explained that it had been necessary for him to expend "enormous sums" because of "the profligacy of said sons," James L. and Charles T. Cowan.

Mr. Cowan, who moved from Pittsburgh to Daytona Beach, Fla., leaves his second wife, Catherine C. Cowan, the executrix, an orange grove, an apartment house and the Cowan home in Daytona Beach, and $29,000; and a daughter, Mrs. Margaret J. Curley, wife of Walter J. Curley, president of the Conley Tank Car Company, of Pittsburgh, receives two orange groves in Lake County, Fla.

The will was signed on April 20, five days before Mr. Cowan's death.

According to James L. Cowan, of the Italo French Produce Company, 501 Pressley street, steps have been taken to fight the will in behalf of his brother, of 1362 Goettman street, North Side, Mrs. Curley and himself. He stated Mr. Cowan, who was 68 years old at the time of his death, married his widow eight years ago. The first Mrs. Cowan was the former Miss Mary Lappan, daughter of the late James Lappan, founder of the James Lappan Manufacturing Company.

Though Mrs. Curley was willed two groves, her brother states they are of little value.

40 NATIONS AT KELLOGG CEREMONY

President Sounds Appeal to World's Conscience in Declaring Treaty Effective

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—In a simple ceremony that contrasted strangely with the significance and solemnity of the undertaking, President Hoover today proclaimed the effectiveness of the world peace fact, under which 46 of the most powerful nations of the earth have bound themselves to renounce war, and never to seek settlement of their disputes by other than peaceable means.

Despite the simplicity of the ceremony, it was a glittering assemblage that took part in the momentous drama of "outlawing war."

40 POWERS REPRESENTED

Around a great horseshoe table set up in the historic East Room of the White House sat former President Coolidge and the representatives of 40 of the powers, duly solemn and impressive. They may have their doubts as to the ultimate value of the treaty in preventing war, but if so it was not apparent in their grave mein today as they sat and heard Mr. Hoover repeat the words that, if lived up to, will delegate war to the limbo of impossible things.

Mr. Hoover did not attempt to gild the lily in his short and simple speech. Apparently, with war clouds hovering in the Far East between China and Russia—both of which are signatories to the treaty—he preferred to let the words of the peace document speak for themselves.

APPEAL TO IDEALISM

He did, however, declare that this was "a proposal to the conscience and idealism of civilization."

"It is suggested a new step in international law," he said, "rich with meaning, pregnant with new ideas in the conduct of world relations. It represented a platform from which there is instant appeal to the public opinion of the world as to specific acts and deeds."

"The magnificent response of the world to these proposals is well indicated by those now signatory to its provisions. Under the terms of the treaty there have been deposited in Washington the ratification of the signatory nations.

IMPOSING GATHERING

The asembly in the East room was probably the greatest gathering of the powers since the signing of the Versailles treaty in Paris 10 years ago. From the standpoint of representation alone, today's gathering was even larger, for there were states represented today at the U-shaped table that were not actually in existence 10 years ago in Paris.

For this occasion, the great East room, which has seen the pageant of American history, was cleared of everything except the great table at which the diplomats sat, and chairs for a cluster of invited guests, and apyaratus for more movie and still cameras than have ever been collected in one spot in Washington. There were more cameramen and reporters than diplomats and guests, and every kind of pictures were taken—sound movies, plain movies and stills.

The diplomats in their court dress and the statesmen in their formal clothes began gathering at the mansion shortly before 1 o'clock. They met in the blue room, where they were marshalled in order of their precedence in the diplmatic corps, with the handsome Sir Esme Howard of Great Britain in the lead as dean. Presi-

Lucky Bucks—New Money for Old

By LUCKY BUCK.

Ralph T. Harley, folks, is one local boy I'm rootin' for. Whatever he goes into, I know he's going to be lucky—plentee.

Ralph T. Harley, folks, is the bird that walked into the Sun-Telegraph yesterday, asks for Lucky Buck, and hands me a singleton in exchange for a bill for 20 smackers!

Ralph T. Harley, folks, had watched my numbers for just exactly three days when he crashed through with a bang. He lives at 3449 McClure avenue, North Side, and turned in Fortunate Suskin No. Z15923667D. Where he got it is more than he knows. I've a hunch it strayed to a store from a payroll buck I planted way up the Monongahela Valley, and that Harley picked it up in the store. Anyhow, folks, hats off to Harley—he found his smacker in just three days of watching.

Lucky Buck No. Y96335065D brought S. E. Newhouse, 422 Ross avenue, Wilkinsburg, joy, bliss, and felicitations. And a watermelon grin of sheer pleasure covered the map of brother Albert G. Mayer when he found Elusive Suskin No. A35383354E in the old sock.

My friends out in Little Washington have been looking for me of late. Little did they think that they had missed me when they called for my august presence in their festive community. Merrily, forsooth, do they hold in mind the celebrated visit of Lucky Buck and his assistant—they all saw the assistant. I like his Uncle Sam's uniform—in fact, I'm goin' to dress the butler in those togs.

But there's still a few of those bucks in circulation. They have a habit of wandering all over the district before they'll finally turned in. Back and forth they go, from town to town and ward to ward—all because the first person to catch hold of em dropped them.

Nowadays, folks, footsore and weary, I tread the paths that led to the original scattering of Lucky Bucks. Throughout the city, in every suburb, in tiny communities nestling 'midst the hills for miles around, I am a familiar visitor. But your battin' average is too low, an' then you kick because I don't get around enough. If YOU were as tired as I, you'd have a right to talk.

I've scattered some more today. Here they are—watch out for them. Dropped one in Sewickley an' joined the elite by buying a cigaret holder. There's another over in Beaver, and you can guess where the others are—north, south and east, folks. Here they are, expiring midnight, August 2:

RECORD FLIERS SOARING ALONG THROUGH 12TH DAY IN AIR

NOTE HINTS AT MOTOR TROUBLE

'Cylinders Act Like They Had Toothache,' Message Says After 266-Hour Mark

By ROBERT A. HEREFORD.
International News Service.

LAMBERT FIELD, ST. LOUIS, July 24.—In bald contradiction of the long respected theory that "what goes up must come down," the endurance monoplane St. Louis Robin, which soared into the air on the sunny morning of Saturday, July 13, showed not the slightest disposition to come down today as it soared through its twelfth day of consecutive flying.

The sturdy monoplane at 11:17 a. m. (Pittsburgh time), had added 20 hours of flying to the world record formerly held by the Angeleno, passing 263 consecutive hours of flying. The engine seemed to be functioning smoothly from the ground, but a hint that something might be amiss was contained in a message from one of the pilots which read, "Several of the cylinders act like they have a toothache."

PAID $100 AN HOUR

The brilliant orange-colored monoplane still remains the cynosure for all eyes in the St. Louis district. A crowd estimated at 50,000 was at the field last night to witness the fireworks demonstration prepared to celebrate the achievement of the St. Louis Robin in breaking the world record.

Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brine, the two pilots, are now receiving $2,648 a day for every day they continue to stay in the air. The Curtiss-Robertson Company is paying them $100 an hour for every hour over the record, and they are also receiving money from other sources.

TEXANS KEEP GOING

HOUSTON, Tex., July 24.—(INS.)—With their motor humming sweetly, Joe Glass and G. L. Loomis, in the Billion Dollar City, entered upon the seventh day of their refueling endurance record attempt as they passed the 174-hour mark.

Glass and Loomis dropped a note after yesterday's refueling which read: "After a good long sleep we both feel fine and confident of sticking it out a month if the motor lasts."

BRITAIN HALTS BUILDING OF WARSHIPS

MacDonald Announces Work On Cruisers, Submarines Suspended by Government

LONDON, July 24.—(AP.)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald announced in the House of Commons today that the British government had decided to suspend work on the cruisers Surrey and Northumberland, to cancel the building of the submarine depot ship Maidstone, to cancel two contracts for submarines and to slow down dockyard work and other naval construction.

BRITIAN'S POSITION

The prime minister said:

"I am now in a position to make a statement as to the immediate intentions of the government regarding the naval building program.

"The government's general position is that the defense of the country must be devised with two main considerations in view.

"First, the chances of defenses having to be used, and then the efficiency and economy shown in their magnitude and character.

"The government has kept in view the changes in policy and in the problem of national security as affected by the peace pact if that pact is to be made an effective influence in international relations.

AGREE WITH U. S.

"By happy coincidence our assumption of office corresponded in time with the arrival in this country of the new American ambassador, Gen. Dawes, who came to this country charged by the President of the United States with a mission to prepare the ground for an international agreement for reduction and limitation of naval armaments.

"Already the whole field of these dicerences with the United States has been surveyed and the two governments have made a fresh start in their solution.

"We have agreed upon the principle of parity. We have agreed that without in any way departing from the conditions of parity, a measure of elasticity can be allowed so as to meet the requirements of the two nations."

WOMEN THRONG SNOOK TRIAL COURTROOM

was Edith Dysinger, a graduate nurse.

The first indication that insanity would be the defense of Snook came when Attorney Seidel asked Miss Dysinger this question: "Have you any prejudice against the defendant pleading insanity at the time of the commission of the crime?"

"No," she replied.

She said that, as a nurse, she had treated about 35 cases of insanity at Soldiers' Hospital, Marion, Ind. She had not discussed the question of legal and medical insanity with physicians.

TENTATIVELY ACCEPTED

Miss Dysinger was tentatively accepted as juror No. 1. She is a stout, middle-aged woman, wearing spectacles. She took her seat in the jury box.

The most interested spectator in the courtroom seemed to be the elderly, silver-haired Mr. Hix. Attired entirely in black, he leaned forward, his hand cupped to his ears, listening to every word of the examination of talesmen.

Five talesmen were quickly excused because they were opposed to capital punishment.

The second tentatively selected juror was also a woman—Mrs. Leona F. Biven, a middle-aged housewife. She had read little of the Snook case, being out of town traveling with her husband when the crime was committee.

John V. Tarr, a portrait artist, formerly of Cedarville, was the third juror tentatively accepted. He had no scruples against capital punishment, had formed no fixed opinion in the Snook case and felt he could hear the case on the sworn testimony.

The trial of Dr. Snook is vastly different from the usual courtroom drama.

It is an absorbing drama with a "college background." It is replete with arresting "psychological angles." It involves people of education and refinement. In the background is a romance that developed in the atmosphere of a great university, Ohio State, and ended in murder in a "Lover's Lane" where Snook had taken Miss Hix for an automobile ride.

An element of pathos is injected into the case by the presence of the slain girl's heart-broken parents.

FATHER SEEKS REVENGE

"I am here to do anything I can to see that justice is meted out in the case of this man Snook," said the gray-haired father of the slain girl, a ring of vehemence in his voice.

Mrs. Hix remonstrated with her husband when he became denunciatory toward the man who brought tragedy into their lives in their declining years. She has little to say, but the sad, faraway expression in her eyes tells its own story.

The wife of the defendant, Mrs. James H. Snook, is incommunicado. She has been in seclusion in her home and has given out no interviews since the murder. She has steadfastly refused to see newspapermen. She has paid a surreptitious visit or two to the jail, where she has talked low and confidentially to her husband. Snook, interviewed in his cell by International News Service, said she was "standing by him loyally."

CONFESSION INCOMPLETE

Prosecutor Chester, in his effort to prove that the crime was premeditated, will seek to introduce a brief signed confession made by Snook after 24 hours of grilling. It is the prosecutor's opinion that Snook has not told "all of the story."

The defense openly scoffs at the ever-recurring rumor that a third party witnessed the crime and that Snook has been shielding someone. They repudiate the suggestion that he had an accomplice.

Press arrangements for "covering" the trial are elaborate, approaching those of other famous dramas, such as the Hall-Mills case and the Snyder-Gray trial. Seats have been mapped out for 33 newspaper correspondents and nearly a score of telegraph and telephone wires have been strung into the courthouse.

TROTZKY AID PLEDGED TO REDS

Soviet Elements Will Be United in War, He Says; Blames China for Crisis

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24.—(AP.)—Loyal to the creed of bolshevism, even though he languishes in exile, Leon Trotzky, former war lord of the Red army, declared the "Opposition" party in the U. S. S. R., which opposes the present Stalin regime, will, in case of a Russo-Chinese war, stand firm for the revolutionary principles which prompted the revolution of 1917 and resulted in the downfall of the Kerensky government.

Absolving the Soviet government of all blame as an aggressor, Trotzky was careful to state that his opinion was expressed only as a private citizen.

The conduct of the new Nationalist regime at Nanking which is responsible for the acts of its Manchurian subordinates, can be explained, according to Trotzky, by the fact that this government, which arose from the defeat of the Chinese laborers and peasant revolutionaries, feels its weakness before the forces against which the Chinese revolution was directed.

BLAMES IMPERIALISM

These forces, Trotzky declared, are British and Japanese imperialism. Nationalist China felt obliged to seek to strengthen its authority by making an adventurous gesture in the face of neighboring country.

"I do not believe war is imminent, because the government does not want war, and the Chinese government is unable to wage it," said Trotzky.

Trotzky insisted that America's intervention with the Kellogg pact seemed "unconvincing," because, he said, the United States has not yet recognized the Soviet government and, therefore, has no foundation for impartiality in the conflict.

DEFENDS SOVIET

Trotzky supported his charge that the Chinese have taken precipitate action in seizing the Chinese Eastern Railway by explaining that the administration of the line has been established in its present form for several years, and that the criticisms are not of recent foundation. He said a special commission under his own direction carefully elaborated the present regulations, fully protecting Chinese interests.

Trotzky reiterated he and his followers would dedicate themselves to the defense of the 1917 revolution should war develop in the Far East.

H. TOWNSEND WOUNDED

the house, calling to his wife, Beulah, to bring him a gun, and the man fled.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Assisted by Mrs. Townsend, the wounded man reached the house, where he lay on the floor unable to move further.

Mrs. Townsend brought a pistol. She propped her husband with pillows and side by side they sat waiting for Mrs. Townsend's brother, George Frazier, to return home. Frazier operates a dance hall and barbecue stand on Bower Hill road, near Mt. Lebanon.

After 2 o'clock Frazier arrived.

Frazier and Mrs. Townsend placed the wounded man in an automobile and drove him to Sewickley Valley Hospital; after receiving preliminary treatment he was taken to Homeopathic Hospital.

X-ray examination revealed that Townsend's leg had been shattered by the bullet. Physicians say the wound is serious.

SHOOTING MYSTERY

From his cot in the hospital this morning, Townsend said he was puzzled over the shooting.

"I know of no one who might want to kill me," he said, "and I cannot understand it unless robbery was the motive.

"They might have been gangsters, but I can't understand it because no demands have been made on me at any time."

Townsend, with his brother, Edward, superintendent of city properties, is part owner of Duquesne Garden. The brothers formerly owned the Pittsburgh Pirates hockey team and both have been active in politics, following in the footsteps of their father, once a political power in city, county and state. Edward is Republican chairman in the Twentieth Ward.

Prisoner Pleads For Mercy, Gets Sock on Nose

"He won't work, your honor," Mrs. Josephine Wiskowski, 46, complained in Morals Court today. "He eats a big breakfast, goes out to look for work, comes back drunk."

Walter Wiskowski, 46, dropped to his knees in front of the bench. In Polish he made a fervent plea to his spouse not to have him sent to the workhouse. He clasped his hands and sobbed a desperate prayer.

And what did Mrs. Wiskowski do? She pulled back a long, brawny right arm and let it go with the snap of a Dempsey.

It met the male Wiskowski nose. Its owner toppled backwards for a short but effective count.

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg turned the combatants over to social workers for a decision.

THIEVES LOOT 2 CASH BOXES

Thieves last night were successful in entering two stores and escaped with cash and merchandise. Gaining entrance to the establishment of the Pure Drug Store, 2178 Center avenue, through a trap door in the floor, the burglars took $27.50 from the cash drawer.

Breaking a rear window in an Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company store at 706 Larimer avenue, thieves took $60 from the cash register and a quantity of cigars, cigarets and candy.

Midland Murder Witness Arrested

BEAVER, Pa., July 24.—George Golian, 34, of Midland, is held for a hearing on a charge of being an accessory in the murder of Steve Chuckovich, 32, at Midland. Golian was arrested in Cleveland, O., yesterday by County Detectives C. J. O'Loughlin and Robert Branyan. They charge that Golian, a witness to the stabbing of Chuckovich by Peter Milletovich, fled. Golian told the officers he was threatened with violence if he appeared as a witness against Milletovich, they said.

Woman Suspected Of Stealing Cash

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., July 24.—A tall, thin woman is sought by police in connection with a daylight robbery at the Fair Hardware Store. S. J. Fair, the owner, told police he did not miss $200 in cash and checks, stolen from the cash register, until closing time. He recalled a strange woman had used the office telephone.

U. S. Tippler Finds Justice in Canada

TORONTO, July 24.—(AP.)—Tippling tourists from below the border are the same as Canadians in one respect to Maj. Eric Armour, crown attorney. Robert Droher, whose car had an Ohio plate, hit a bicycle and pleaded that tourists be treated as Canadian citizens. Droher was sentenced to two days in jail for operating a motor car while under the influence of liquor.

SHERIFFS NAME BRAUN CHIEF

Sheriff Robert H. Braun of Allegheny County, was elected president of the Sheriffs' State Association of Pennsylvania at the organization's closing session of its seventh annual convention in the Roosevelt Hotel.

Officers elected with Sheriff Braun were Thomas B. Kellow, Lehigh County, first vice president; John J. Snyder, Northampton County, second vice president; Dallas C. Schobert, Luzerne County, secretary, and John MacLuskie, Luzerne County, treasurer—the latter two re-elected.

The executive committee, with the above officers, includes Ray B. Johnston, Westmoreland; Ira A. Baird, Blair, and Ody Abbott, Washington.

The delegates selected Easton for the next convention city.

The organization passed a resolution condemning support of an organization soliciting support and advertising throughout the state by purporting to be a sheriffs' and police officers' association.

Greenville Crash Kills Pittsburgher

GREENVILLE, Pa., July 24.—Nelson Murrin, 26, of Pittsburgh, formerly of this place, died in a hospital here today from injuries received Sunday evening when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a Pennsylvania freight train here. Miss Josephine Schwartz, who was with him, will recover.

WASHINGTON AIR ROUTE TESTED

The first of a series of trips to be made between Pittsburgh and Washington, D. C., was started today at 6:30 a. m., when the Stinson-Detroiter plane, piloted by Jack Morris, of Pittsburgh, left Bettis Field. The plane arrived in Washington one hour and fifteen minutes later, carrying five passengers safely over the mountains. Jack Thompson assisted Morris at the controls.

Approximately three trips per day will be made by the plane during the next week. The flights are being conducted by the Pittsburgh Stinson Aircraft Company, of which Col. Harry Fry is president. The purpose of the tests is to prove the feasibility of passenger service over the mountains.

Smell of Liquor Jails Mother, Daughter

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 24.—Mrs. Bessie Everett and her daughter, Augustine, 17, are in the Lewis County jail at Weston.

When officers paid a surprise visit to the Everett home, the daughter seized a pitcher and smashed it. Some of the contents splashed upon her hands and those of her mother. Officers grabbed their wrists and smelled, then took both to jail, charged with violating the prohibition law.

STATE STANDS FIRM ON TAX

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 24.—(AP.)—As court papers in the case were being prepared here, state officials served notice that they would fight the attempts of gasoline retailers to restrain the commonwealth from requiring the filing of bonds for gasoline tax payments by July 31.

From two sources came information that the commonwealth intends to stick to its guns to insist on the posting of surety to assure payment of the 4 cent tax. Governor Fisher replied to the charge of unfairness claimed by the dealers in the nature of the bond required and Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles, decried claims that the proposed court action would threaten the validity of the entire act levying the tax.

RELIEVES STATE

In explaining the reason for requesting the dealers to procure a corporate surety bond, one of the must difficult to obtain according to them, the governor said it was the only kind which would relieve the state of the responsibility of investigating the reliability of the collectors.

"The minimum of $500 for a bond," said the governor, "was made no low that any responsible dealer can secure a bondsman. The state can hardly afford to entrust the collection of its revenue to anyone who is not responsible enough to produce so low a bond."

OTHER SECTIONS VALID

Commissioner Eynon, who is in direct charge of the tax collection from the dealers, pointed to the severable clause in the new gas tax act passed by the last Legislature.

"Even if that one clause of the act would be knocked out by the court, which I don't believe will happen, it couldn't possibly affect the rest of the law," Eynon declared.

Too Young to Drive, Boy Takes Car, Held

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 24.—Eugene Loucks, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Loucks, of Scottdale, has the urge to drive an automobile, although not old enough to procure a driver's license.

He took an automobile belonging to Raphael Morris, of Greensburg, and was arrested here. Patrolman V. Bert Ritchie stepped to the running board and when young Loucks tramped the accelerator, had to draw his gun to force the lad to pull up.

Former Highway Official Is Dead

FRANKLIN, July 24.—John McIntyre, aged 29, former senior draftsman for the State Highway Department here, died at Cresson sanitarium after an illness of several months. He was graduated from Allegheny College in 1923, and came to Franklin when division headquarters of the highway department were removed here.

now encamped within sight of Manchuli and the Chinese garrison is vastly impressed with the martial display on the outskirts of the city.

Civilians, it was reported, have dug first line trenches a half-mile from the city, a second 400 yards away and a third line on the border of the city.

TROOP TRAINS WAIT

The refugee also brought word here that six Red armored trains, with steam up, were awaiting on the Russian side of the border, and that he observed six Chinese troop trains carrying infantry and cavalry proceeding through Manchuria to the border.

The impressment of water carriers has resulted in a water famine in Manchuli, and a food shortage is also threatened because of inability to bring in a fresh supply of provisions, it was learned.

An inferior Chinese force is occupying Manchuli, it was stated by the refugee.

Sixty Red officials were deported last night and others are awaiting at Manchuli for the arrival of the Harbin consul-general. When he arrives they will be placed on a trans-Siberian train for Moscow, it is reported.

Chancellor Mueller Still Critically Ill

HEIDELBERG, Germany, July 24.—(AP.)—The condition of Chancellor Mueller, who is suffering from gall bladder trouble, was as satisfactory as could be expected today, but he was still critically ill. A heavy storm raged here during the night and the Chancellor had little sleep. In addition it was intensely hot and huge blocks of ice were placed in the sick room in an effort to make the patient more comfortable.

DOPE-CASE BOY RECAPTURED

Benjamin Pandaglia, 16, of Scottdale, who a year ago escaped from the National Training School for Boys, in Washington, D. C., after being sent there by federal authorities here, was arrested in Detroit yesterday and will be returned here as a fugitive.

Pandaglia was convicted of conspiracy to violate the Harrison narcotic act in May, 1928, along with his father, Joseph, his mother, Agnes, and an aunt, Mary Vigilante.

It was alleged they were members of a dope ring in Scottdale, where Joseph Pandaglia was a grocer. The older man was sentenced to three years in Atlanta, the mother was paroled, but a month ago was sentenced to two years in the women's prison, Alberson, W. Va., for breaking her parole, and the aunt was given a year in the same institution.

Court Halts Work On School at Brave

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 24.—An order has been granted by Judge A. H. Sayers for the school directors of Wayne Township to show cause why condemnation proceedings against land owned by Mrs. Dora M. Lantz in the village of Brave should not be quashed. It is the contention of Mrs. Lantz that the directors violated the school code when they failed to state what the land was to be used for in making an attempt to purchase it. It is also claimed that it is the plan of the school directors to erect a combination school building and gymnasium, the latter to be partly under control of the Peoples Natural Gas Company.

Seven Saved After Launch Rips Side

NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS.)—Seven persons aboard the launch Nomis were saved early today when the boat struck a submerged object in the Narrows and ripped a hole in her side. The police boat Gypsy answered distress signals made by the crippled launch and the Nomis was towed to a Brooklyn pier.

Chautauqua Light Display To Honor Edison

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 24.—(INS.)—Joint honor to two men closely connected with the Chautauqua Institution is being paid here today. They are Lewis Miller, co-founder with Bishop John H. Vincent, of Chautauqua in 1874, and Thomas A. Edison, son-in-law of Miller.

Today marks the centenary of Miller's birth. A gigantic electrical display honoring Edison and commemorating light's golden jubilee will be staged.

Among the distinguished guests attending are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford. At a concert a musical fantasy, "Fiivver Ten Million," will be played while Ford listens.

Edison will close the switch which will light the display. This is the first light celebration Edison has attended in person and is one of two which he will present each year. The second will be staged by Henry Ford at Dearborn, Mich., in October.

Harvey Firestone was unable to attend today on account of illness.

BOY SCOUTS THRILLED AS BEARS INVADE FOREST CAMP

CURIOUS PAIR ELIMINATE REVEILLE

Amazed Bugler, Greeted by Bruins, Is Shocked; 200 Boys Trail Them in Woods

Camp Bugler Slocum hastily buttoned on his Boy Scout uniform, snatched his bugle and made for the outside of his log cabin in Camp Echo, near Ligonier, this morning. He was shivering, for dawn up near Chestnut Ridge is a chilly affair.

He reached the outside, placed his bugle to his lips to call the 200 fellow scouts from bed. Reveille just begun, died on his lips. He stood as though petrified.

BACK TO BED!

Two black bears of sloppy gait and slinking feet hobbled a dozen yards from him. He was spellbound. Roommates who heard the first notes of the bugle came to the door. They dove back to their blankets. Doors opened and shut in the 20 cabins.

The bears came on, oblivious of hundreds of faces peering at them through cabin cracks and slit windows. They sniffed around the cabins, making their way from one to another. They sauntered through the improvised village to the assembly hall and mess room.

Cabin doors were opening cautiously. The bears moved on toward the swimming pool. And doors opening wider let hundreds of half dressed boys move out to see better.

The bears stood on the banks of the swimming pool. The human spectators tittered.

BEARS SCARED AWAY

One bear ventured on the diving board. He walked out to the tip and saw himself mirrored in the stream. A roar of laughter from his Boy Scout audience broke the animal's reverie. He looked up and sniffed. The less venturesome bruin on shore started for a clump of chestnut trees behind the camp. His partner followed.

When the bears had vanished Camp Director John Danton and Nature Instructor Bayard Wynn ordered the boys to dress. They tracked the bruins through the forests, roping off later a yellow clay patch where the animals left footprints clear enough for any Bertillon operator. They will be photographed and used in nature study, Wynn said.

Camp Bugler Slocum, of Wilkinsburg, was one of the gang. He had missed sounding reveille this morning for the first time, although unless he's lucky, there'll be none again tomorrow.

He lost, misplaced or swallowed the tip of his bugle.

ROME AVIATORS SEE AIR LINER DEMAND

Williams and Yancey, Bound For Home, Compare Flight With Travel on Ocean

By ROGER Q. WILLIAMS, Pilot, CAPT. LEWIS A. YANCEY, Navigator,

Fliers of the trans-Atlantic airplane Pathfinder, which completed its journey from Old Orchard Beach to Rome.

(Written expressly for the New York American and allied Hearst newspapers.)

ON BOARD S. S. REPUBLIC, July 24.—We are enjoying to the fullest the comforts of the good, old Republic and the hospitality of the entire crew and jolly Captain Moore.

We never realized the strain of the flight, its preparations and the celebrations in Italy and France until we arrived on board. The great advantage of ocean travel by air seems apparent, especially to a landlubber like Williams, when the speed of the ship and the speed of a plane is compared.

The ship made less than 400 miles in 24 hours, while the same distance could be made in less than four hours of flight.

NEED AIR LINERS

This proves that there should be a big demand for an ocean line by air. This is further strengthened by personal interviews with business men who are constantly traveling by boat.

One man in particular, a mining engineer with interests all over the world, spends eight months a year on boats. The airplane would enable this man to spend 10 months at home and cover the same distance in two months.

The trip so far has been very pleasant, and as we write we can hear the passengers enjoying themselves at various pastimes. Some are promenading, some playing shuffleboard, and some spending their time at miniature golf.

Sunday we passed quietly on board with services in the morning, lunch, then a walk around decks and a concert. The Republic is very stable and everything is going so smoothly that one would never know he is on board and in the middle of the Atlantic.

PLANE ABOARD

The Pathfinder is nestled on the aft deck and covered with canvas to protect it from weather and souvenir hunters. A fitting tribute for so noble a steed that has been so faithful in performance of its duties. The plane and the Wright motor functioned so perfectly during the trying moments of the big hop and the succeeding hops from Rome to Paris and Paris to Cherbourg that we hated to dismantle such a friend and put it on board the French navy barge.

It seemed as though the Pathfinder kept begging to be loaded with gasoline and flown back to its native soil. And it was only the shortness of the time for proper preparations that allowed the plane to be shipped home.

All the passengers seem to agree on one point as they inspect the sturdy craft on deck and that is how small it is to have crossed a big ocean.

We want to express our thanks to our French flier friends who escorted us to Cherbourg and say good bye and who were instrumental in securing the assistance of the French navy in safely putting our Pathfinder aboard.

PITTSBURGH WOMEN AT THEIR OWN STOCK BOARD

TOWN HALL BIAS HINT DENIED

Witness for Downtown Site At Meeting Admits Being Special County Engineer

Inference that he was paid by the county at the same time that he made a study of town halls in 15 cities was vehemently denied by E. G. Kaltenbach at the meeting of the County Planning Commission today, given over to consideration of downtown sites for the proposed $6,000,000 public auditorium.

After Kaltenbach had testified that in his opinion a downtown site is the only logical place for the building, he was interrogated by R. T. M. McCready, of Edgeworth, owner of large realty holdings in Pittsburgh.

ADMITS BEING EMPLOYE

"Are you an employe of Allegheny County?" McCready asked.

"Yes, I am a special engineer on a per diem basis," Kaltenbach replied.

"Are you approving the downtown locations for a hall from a public or a partisan standpoint?" McCready inquired.

"This study was not made for the county."

"Were you paid for it?"

"Yes."

"Were you paid by the county at the same time?"

"No, I cannot draw two pays at once. I did it simply as an engineer and my opinion is from an engineering standpoint."

McCready also questioned W. A. McElravey, manager of the Memphis auditorium, who testified at the hearing that "Pittsburgh is the first city he ever heard of that even questioned the matter of locating a hall."

MAGEE IN CHARGE

Kaltenbach, McElravey, R. E. Logsdon, manager of the convention bureau of the Memphis auditorium, and John M. Rice, consulting traffic engineer, testified that from all standpoints the only site to consider for a town hall should be a downtown location.

Former Mayor William A. Magee conducted the hearing for the Allegheny Town Hall Association and presented letters from convention hall managers from all over the country who were unanimous in their conclusions that the downtown site is the only logical one for a hall. No particular site was recommended by the Town Hall Committee, and Magee asked for another hearing.

Seven tentative sites, Magee told the commission, are a combined town hall and Baltimore and Ohio Railroad station, just east of the present station in Water street; a site bounded by Grant and Water streets, Second avenue and the Panhandle Railroad tracks; Exposition Building; Duquesne Freight station, Pennsylvania Railroad; combined hall and Pennsylvania Railroad station on site of present station; site bounded by Ferry and Wood streets, Boulevard of the Allies and Water street; Duquesne way between Tenth street and Garrison way.

3 NEW JERSEY BANKS CLOSE

PASSAIC, N. J., July 24.—(INS.)—The State Department of Banking and Insurance today took over three local banks directed by the New Jersey Bankers' Securities Company.

They are the Hobart Trust Company, the Merchants Bank of Passaic and the Service Trust Company of New Jersey.

The Bankers' Securities Company was the storm center of a legislative investigation last year, and its affairs are scheduled to be aired still further at a special meeting of the April grand jury on Friday.

The closing of the Hobart Trust Company follows close on the heels of the mysterious kidnaping four weeks ago of Willard Elliott, executive vice president. Elliott was held prisoner in a secluded spot in New Jersey for six days and upon his release severed his connection with the bank.

WOMEN INVADE STOCK MARKET

They cut their hair man-fashion, they inhale like veterans, they push mere men off the golf course, they swim channels and play baseball, they fly airplanes, they crowd the ringside at fights, they've invaded the courts—and now they've taken possession of the stock market.

They is just a synonym for women. You find 'em everywhere these days.

Their newest meeting place is in front of "the board," looking for a rise in the oil stocks and gathering in shekels for permanent waves from the strong steel market. Meet your wife or sweetheart at the market—the stock market!

If there was any suspicion that woman was only fooling, cast it aside, for Moore, Leonard & Lynch, brokers, have opened a department for woman customers.

It's the same as the men's. The big board is there, the tickers are distributed over the room and the women sit about, leisurely discussing what's wrong with the market.

And Miss Marie D. Werner, manager of this new department, tells you things that add to your doubts of male supremacy.

"Don't," Miss Werner advises, "let anybody tell you the women haven't the courage to play the market. They've got just as much as men. They know when to take their profits or when to hold on for those few extra points. They've learned quickly.

"You'll find the women in the same strong stocks that the smart operators are playing. And they play on margin, too. That day is gone when women didn't know the difference between a bearish or bullish market."

BOGIE FUELS AT MISSOURI PORT

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., July 24.—(AP.)—The speedboat Bogie, with its three companions, arrived here at 9:25 o'clock this morning, making the 115-mile run from Memphis in a little more than nine hours. The river here was rising and Dr. Louis Leroy, owner of the craft, seeking the record of the Robert E. Lee, was encountering swift water. They still were here 25 minutes later taking on fuel. They said they had had no motor trouble.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 24.—(AP.)—Dr. Louis Leroy, driving his speedboat Bogie up the Mississippi River in an attempt to lower the 59-year-old record of the Robert E. Lee between New Orleans and St. Louis, stopped for 45 minutes early today near Osceola, Ark., and changed propellers. The trip was resumed at 5:15 a. m. He left Memphis at 11:38 last night.

MacDonald Coming To U. S. in October

LONDON, July 24.—(INS.)—Premier Ramsay MacDonald announced in the House of Commons today that October will likely be the date of his visit to the United States. His announcement set at rest reports that plans for his American trip might be canceled.

Aimee to Charter Boat for Trip To Holy Land

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, announced that she would sign a contract with officials of the United States lines for conducting on the steamship Republic of a "Twentieth Century Crusade to the Holy Land."

Accommodations for 750 persons aboard the ship will be made. The tour will start from New York March 28, 1930, and reach Jerusalem in time for Easter services there. It will continue 52 days.

WOMAN ROBBED, GARROTED

NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS.)—Mrs. Catherine Kirschoff, 55, wealthy Bronx woman, was garroted and found dead in the bathtub of her home early today. Jewelry valued at $12,000 is gone from the apartment.

A noose of double-stranded twine was wound tightly five times around her neck and the ends fastened to a fixture above the water tap. Police said an attempt was made to simulate a suicide.

BRITONS OUT TO BEAT BREMEN

BELFAST, Ireland, July 24.—(INS.)—Great Britain, long mistress of the seas, has no intention of allowing Germany to retain the speed record for trans-Atlantic crossing recently captured by the new North German Lloyd motorship Bremen.

Work is to be resumed shortly on the new giant White Star Liner Oceanic, suspended until the Bremen, and her sister ship, the Europa, were put into commission.

Meanwhile, officials of the Cunard Line, whose crack vessel, Mauretania, lost her speed honors to the Bremen, are contemplating construction of a new liner also designed to recapture the blue pennant of the Atlantic for England.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—The North German Lloyd liner Bremen, queen of the seas, lay at her Brooklyn pier as thousands sought permission to view at close range the ship which on her maiden voyage won the speed laurels held for many years by the Cunarder Mauretania.

No passes were issued yesterday, invitations having been sent to 3,500 shipping men and officials to inspect the liner on her first day in port. But for today 25,000 passes were issued and for Thursday 17,000.

Among the invited guests was Capt. S. G. S. McNeil of the Mauretania, the record of which the Bremen beat by almost nine hours.

North Siders Correct Statement About Costs

The following letter, addressed to the Editor, Sun-Telegraph, was received today:

"Knowing that you are anxious to publish accurate and complete news, we venture to direct your attention to a detail in connection with your report of the hearing of the Schenley Farms Town Hall site by the County Planning Commission in your issue of July 17. In this account the statement was made that 'Nicola is the first of any of the various advocates of the Town Hall sites to claim that the Town Hall can be built within the bond issue on the site advocated.'

"May we respectfully direct your attention to page 27 of the official record of testimony before this commission on the Monument Hill site? Congressman Porter, summing up the testimony and compiling all of the items of cost of land and grading in connection with the Monument Hill site and deducting them from the $6,000,000 bond issue, ends with the statement, 'You have $5,000,000 left for a building and this would erect a very handsome building.'

"As president of the North Side Chamber of Commerce and secretary-treasurer of the Town Hall committee of the North Side, I would ask you to publish this correction of your news column.

"Thanking you, I am

"Yours truly,

"W. H. NEWMEYER,

"Secretary-Treasurer."

MYSTERY CALL ON LOST SCOUT

Efforts to locate Howard Towers, 14, rear 242 Industry street, missing from his home for nine days, have failed. He put on his Boy Scout uniform last Tuesday and told his mother he was going to join his troop at Piney Fork, an amusement park.

When he failed to return, his parents learned that there was nothing scheduled for the troop at the park that day. Headed by Scoutmaster Thomas Twigger, his comrades have made an unsuccessful search for the boy.

A mysterious telephone caller told a neighbor, Mabel Anderson, of 244 Industry street, Sunday, that "Howard Trowers will be home tonight between 5 and 6 o'clock." But Howard did not come home. The missing persons bureau is investigating.

Police Boat Rescues Seven on Launch

NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS.)—Seven persons aboard the launch Nomis were saved early today when the boat struck a submerged object in the Narrows and ripped a hole in her side. The police boat Gypsy answered distress signals made by the crippled launch, and the Nomis was towed to a Brooklyn pier.

Forest Fire Nears California Town

ALTURAS, Cal., July 24.—(INS.)—Completely out of control, a forest fire in the Fandango district, Modoc County, today threatened the town of Fort Bidwell.

Five hundred men are battling the fire along a 12-mile front. Damage now is estimated at between $400,000 and $500,000.

CROWDS TO SEE POPE END EXILE

ROME, July 24.—(INS.)—There are many Americans in Rome today to see the historic ceremony in St. Peter's Square tomorrow, when Pope Pius XI will break the voluntary "captivity" of pontiffs in the Vatican for the first time in nearly 60 years.

Settlement of the Roman question—the conflict between the church and the Italian state—made it possible for the pontiff to leave the confines of the Vatican and he will make his exit tomorrow evening, although he will not venture beyond St. Peter's Square.

There has been a tremendous influx of visitors here and many will be disappointed, for there will not be room for all to occupy vantage spots. Modern barricades have been erected to hold back the populace and the visitors, and the government has placed large forces of soldiers at the disposal of the municipal authorities to help the police. Young Fascists will aid in handling the gigantic crowd.

The present date was chosen because of the presence in Rome of 5,000 seminarians, who will be in St. Peter's Square tomorrow night, the papal blessing will be extended to them and to the entire world.

Tired of Walking, 'Borrows' Car, Held

Mike Justo, 17, of 1416 Hossman street, wanted an auto ride. He was tired of walking. At Fourth and Smithfield he borrowed a machine, it is alleged, but was stopped by a red light at Fifth and Smithfield. B. Patricio, of 2022 Fifth avenue, missed his machine.

He saw it, yelled at Mike, and Mike, police say, fled. After a chase Mike was arrested in a Fifth avenue poolroom.

In Morals Court today Magistrate Leo Rothenberg held him for further investigation.

Perfect Bridge Hand Held at Huntington

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 24.—Mrs. H. D. Garst has achieved the ambition of every bridge player. She held a perfect hand of 13 hearts while playing auction bridge. The hand netted Mrs. Garst and her partner 325 honors and 56 points upon a bid of four hearts.

Billy Sunday, Jr., and Wife Part; Final, She Says

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—(INS.)—Billy Sunday, Jr., today was on his way to Winono Lake, Ind. With him were his father, the evangelist, and "Ma" Sunday. But Mrs. Billy, Jr., remained here and declared she and her husband had separated and that there would be no reconciliation.

"And that's definite," she declared.

Billy, Jr., admitted there had been "trouble," but that "everything is hotsy-totsy now."

To which the wife responded everything was not "hotsy-totsy."

"I went to Texas," explained Billy, Jr. "It was one of those little trips. My wife wasn't along. Well, anyway, I guess I got in wrong. But it's all smoothed out now."

Both parents denied the separation.

Mrs. Sunday is the second wife of the evangelist's son. Before her marriage she was Miss Mae Sanders, of Indianapolis.

'Coons Raid Hen Houses, Owners Demand Help

Raccoons preying on domestic fowl have become such a pest in the Windgap road district that residents have called on the Board of Health to wage a war of extermination against them—if it be one of the functions of the board to do so.

G. E. Curry, resident of the district, reported today that his hen house has been invaded and several of his prized springers had fallen victims to the nocturanal raiders.

Curry said that he caught one "coon" red handed in the hen house, but that there was a trap door in the floor found slightly open and the raccoon had lifted it up and escaped.

Several other residents of the district have complained. Curry lives in Windgap road between Ingram and McKees Rocks.

Hoover Proclaims Anti-War Pact in Effect

dent Hoover received them at the door of the east room.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the simple ceremony there, the diplomats and guests went to the great state dining room, where Mr. Hoover was their host at a luncheon, which was historical in that it was the first time that virtually the whole world broke bread at a White House table.

President's Address

The President said:

In April, 1928, as a result of discussions between our Secretary of State of the United States and the minister of foreign affairs of France, the President directed Secretary Kellogg to propose to the nations of the world that they should enter a binding agreement as follows:

"Article 1—The high contracting parties solemnly declare in the name of their respective peoples that they condemn recource to war for the solution of international controversies, and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another.

"Article 2—The high contracting parties agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin they may be which may arise among them, shall never be sought except by pacific means."

Appeal to Idealism

That was a proposal to the conscience and idealism of civilized nations. It suggested a new step in international law, rich with meaning, pregnant with new ideas in the conduct of world relations. It represented a platform from which there is instant appeal to the public opinion of the world as to specific acts and deeds.

The magnificent response of the world to these proposals is well indicated by those now signatory to its provisions. Under the terms of the treaty there have been deposited in Washington the ratifications of the 15 signatory nations —that is, Australia, Belgium, Canada, Czecho-Slovakia, France, Germany, Great Britain, India, Irish Free State, Italy, Japan, New Zealand, Poland, Union of South Africa and the United States of America.

Beyond this the treaty has today become effective also with respect to 31 other countries, the governments of which have deposited with the United States instruments evidencing their definite adherence to the treaty. These countries are: Afghaniston, Albania, Austria, Bulgaria, China, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Egypt, Esthonia, Ethiopia, Finland, Guatemala, Hungary, Iceland, Latvia, Liberia, Lithuania, The Netherlands, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Portugal, Peru, Rumania, Russia, Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, Siam, Spain, Sweden and Turkey.

Sees World Scope

Moreover, according to information received through diplomatic channels, the instruments of definite adherence of Greece, Honduras, Persia, Switzerland and Venezuela have been fully completed according to their constitutional methods and are now on the way to Washington for deposit.

I congratulate this assembly, the states it represents, and indeed, the entire world upon the coming into force of this additional instrument of human endeavor to do away with war as an instrument of national policy and to obtain by pacific means alone the settlement of international disputes.

I am glad of this opportunity to pay merited tribute to the two statesmen whose names the world has properly adopted in its designation of this treaty. To Aristide Briand, minister of foreign affairs of France, we owe the inception of the treaty and to his zeal is due a very large share of the success which attended the subsequent negotiations. To Frank B. Kellogg, then secretary of state of the United States, we owe its expansion to the proportions of a treaty open to the entire world and destined, as I most confidently hope, shortly to include among its parties every country of the world.

Praises Kellogg

Mr. Stimson has sent forward today a message of felicitation to Mr. Briand and to the people of France for whom he speaks. I am happy, Mr. Kellogg, to extend to you, who represented the people of the United States with such untiring devotion and with such a high degree of diplomatic skill in the negotiations of this treaty, their everlasting gratitude.

We are honored here by the presence of President Coolidge under whose administration this great step in world peace was initiated. Under his authority and with his courageous support, you, Mr. Kellogg, succeeded in this great service. And I wish to mark also the high appreciation in which we hold Senators Borah and Swanson for their leadership during its confirmation in the Senate.

"May I ask you who represent governments which have accepted this treaty, now a part of their supreme law and their most sacred obligations, to convey to them the high appreciation of the government of the United States that through their cordial collaboration an act so auspicious for the future happiness of mankind has now been consummated. I dare predict that the influence of the treaty for the renunciation of war will be felt in a large proportion of all future international acts. The magnificient opportunity and the compelling duty now open to us should spur us on to the fulfillment of every opportunity that is calculated to implement this treaty and to extend the policy which it so nobly sets forth.

Proclaims Treaty

I have today proclaimed the treaty to the American people in language as follows:

"Whereas, a treaty between the President of the United States of America, the President of the German Reich, his majesty the King of the Belgians, the President of the French Republic, his majesty the King of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the Seas, Emperor of India, his majesty the King of Italy, his majesty the Emperor of Japan, the President of the Republic of Poland and the President of the Czecho-Slovak Republic, providing for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy and that the solution of disputes among parties shall never be sought except by pacific means, was concluded and signed by their respective plenipotentiaries at Paris on August 27, 1928.

"And whereas it is stipulated in the said treaty that it shall take effect as between the high contracting parties as soon as all the several instruments of ratification shall have been deposited at Washington.

Duly Ratified

"And whereas the said treaty has been duly ratified on the parts of all the high contracting parties and their several instruments of ratification have been deposited with the government of the United States of America, the last on July 24, 1929:

"Now, therefore, be it known that I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, have caused the said treaty to be made public to the end that the same and every article and clause thereof may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States and the citizens thereof.

"In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

"Done in the city of Washington this twenty-fourth day of July, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and fifty-fourth."

Coolidge Back in Capital Received as Plain Citizen

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS.)—Calvin Coolidge returned to Washington today for the first time since he relinquished the the reins of office as President on March 4. He returned to witness the proclaiming of the Kellogg-Briand treaty outlawing war, which was conceived under his direction.

The short four and a half months of his absence seemingly had served to make the good people of the nation's capital forget their erstwhile chief executive. When the Federal express, which brought Mr. Coolidge from Northampton, rolled into Union Station, there wasn't the slightest vestige of the crowds of old that used to turn out to greet him.

Mr. Coolidge rode in the White House limousine to the Willard Hotel where he stopped to shake hands with Francis Robinson, chauffeur-extraordinary, who has driven every President who owned an automobile.

"It's good to see another familiar face," he told Robinson.

Another old face awaited him at the hotel. It was that of Mack Vogel, who has been running an elevator there for 30 years now. Mack really was all aflutter. And he, too, was rewarded with a greeting.

STATE CHOOSES ARCHITECTS

HARRISBURG, July 24.—(AP.)—Gov. Fisher and secretary of property and supplies Benson E. Taylor have approved the plans for the new building at the Warren State Hospital. It is expected that construction will start immediately.

Secretary Taylor also announced the selection of architects for seven state building projects. Lawrie and Green, of Harrisburg, designers of the State Farm products show, will draft plans for the Indiana State Teachers' College building, Wernersville State Hospital, and the Muncy State Industrial Home for women.

The other projects' architects are: Torrance State Hospital, Frank Crooks, Pittsburgh; Farview State Hospital, Charles L. Hillman and Sons, Philadelphia; Penhurst State School, H. W. Castor, Philadelphia; Norristown State Hospital, W. W. Hibbert, Philadelphia.

Missionary Killed By Chinese Bandits

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 24.—(AP.)—A cablegram to the Rev. John O'Donovan at Silver Creek, Erie County, from Bishop Edward J. Galvin of the Han Yang vicarate in China announced the killing by bandits of the Rev. Timothy Leonard, a missionary for the past nine years with the Chinese Mission Society of St. Columbus. Father Leonard was born in County Limerick, Ireland, but spent most of his life in this country.

4 FLEE PRISON, 2 CAPTURED

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 24.—(AP.)—Four prisoners escaped from the Schuylkill County jail here today, two of them being recaptured when they were injured in a leap from the prison wall.

Those who made a successful getaway are John Homan, 29, of Bethlehem, serving a sentence of five to 10 years for robbery, and Osman Hottenstein, no home address, serving a sentence of 1½ to three years for narcotic peddling.

The two men who were captured near the prison are Fred Hammel, of Lebanon, serving a sentence of 7½ to 15 years for robbery, and R. A. Clarke, also of Lebanon, serving a sentence of 7½ to 15 years for breaking and entering.

New York Beggars Make More Than Head of Mint

NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS.)—The average professional beggar in New York—and most of them are just that—makes more than the director of the United States mint, but they have to work Sundays to do it. John D. Godfrey, of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, said today beggars here average $20 daily. Uncle Sam's director of the mint gets only $6,500 annually.

FREEDOM OF PRESS HELD AT STAKE IN CONTEMPT CASE

EDITORS FACING PRISON FOR PRINCIPLE

Judicial Autocracy Seen If Appeal From Sentence For Criticism Is Denied

By SAM BLAIR

CLEVELAND, July 24.—It isn't necessary any more, of course, for an individual to die at the stake to sustain a principle—to deliver a glorious gesture of defiance against autocracy in defense of human rights.

But it may be required that two newspaper editors of this city go to jail for 30 days and pay fines of $500 each, in order that they may justify their contention that the constitution meant what it said when it declared that the right of free speech shall not be abridged.

The newspapers have carried day-to-day accounts of the open-court developments of the case. Here for the first time are assembled in print the complete details to date, including those under-surface elements which may have been actuating motives.

Row Over Betting

Race tracks, with the customary gambling mechanisms, have been operated in these parts for quite a time, the sacred statutes of Ohio notwithstanding to the contrary. There had been no popular outcry against race track betting, as such, and, consequently, no official thrust at the institution.

However, one of the local tracks—the Thistledown—recently came into the possession of Edward P. Strong, who announced that his partner in the venture was Henry Beckerman, of whom more later. Now, the Thistledown course, which was to open July 10, proposed to conduct its betting on the so-called "contribution" system. In the belief of many track enthusiasts, this arrangement does not give the "betting public" a fair deal.

Sheriff E. J. Hanratty was re-elected last fall on the pledge that he would put a stop to race track betting—meaning, naturally, betting of the type to which the "betting public" had objection.

The sheriff's advisors called his attention to the announcement of the Thistledown's opening. The sheriff was inclined to hedge (Again keep in mind Mr. Beckerman).

Links Political Boss

But the squawk against Thistledown was persistent and loud. The sheriff fidgeted and was uncomfortable. Finally, the day before the scheduled opening, he informed Mr. Strong that he would raid the gambling booths at the track if there should be attempted operation of them.

It might as well be mentioned now that Mr. Beckerman, proclaimed part owner of Thistledown, is generally recognized as chief advisor, intimate and counselor to Maurice Maschke, political boss of Cleveland and Republican national committeeman from Ohio.

Now enters Nathan E. Cook, local attorney. Mr. Cook was secretary to Harry L. Davis when he was mayor of this city from 1916 to 1919; he was secretary to Davis when the latter was governor from 1920 to 1922. Local political writers in 1921 printed stories to the effect that on the recommendation of Mr. Cook, Gov. Davis appointed Frederick Walther to fill an unexpired term upon the bench of the Court of Common Pleas here. Judge Walther was a successful candidate to succeed himself in 1924 and again last fall. At the last election the Cleveland Press opposed his candidacy.

Anyway, just before noon of the day Thistledown was to open for business, Mr. Cook dropped in at Judge Walther's court.

Puts Ban on Raid

Here is the language of the Judge, himself, on the subject of this visit, given from the bench in the later contempt proceedings.

"About 11:45 o'clock a. m., of said day, Nathan E. Cook, Esq., came to said Judge and inquired of said Judge how long the said Judge would remain in court prior to the regular noon adjournment, that said Judge informed said Nathan E. Cook that he, the said Judge, would not be in court later than 12 o'clock—and that said Judge informed the said Nathan E. Cook that he would recess promptly at 12 o'clock for the reason that said Judge's daughter was present and that she complained of being hungry and that said Judge would take said daughter to lunch with him.

"Said Nathan E. Cook then said to the said Judge that the reason he made the aforesaid inquiries was because one Mr. H. H. Felsman (Mr. Strong's law partner), an attorney-at-law, was preparing a petition asking for an injunction, which the said Felsman desired to present to the court prior to said Judge's leaving the court house. . ."

At any rate Mr. Felsman and Mr. Strong got to the courtroom before the judge and his hungry daughter had departed and the petition was presented. This petition asked that the sheriff be restrained from raiding the Thistledown track because, "petitioner alleged that he was conducting a legal business and that the plan known as the contribution system was legal in all respects," etc.

Judge Criticized

Well, Judge Walther signed the petition, but he interpolated words which restrained the sheriff from raiding the track only if the operation of the betting system "be not in violation of the laws of Ohio."

Mr. Cook is said personally to have served the injunction on the sheriff, but, the sheriff was advised that the injunction had been rendered meaningless by the judge's modification of its terms, so he arrested Mr. Strong—and the next day Thistledown was closed by Strong himself.

The next day Louis B. Seltzer editor of the Press, conferred with his chief editorial writer, Carlton K. Matson.

That afternoon the first edition of the Press carried an editorial captioned "If This Be Contempt of Court—"

Several paragraphs of the editorial read:

"Sheriff this racing mess is a 'dreadful thing.' You never said truer words. You probably understand now what has happened. It is perfectly clear to us what has happened.

"The interests which are behind Thistledown do not want clean racing. They want a big 'cut' for the track. They want a lot of other things. Which go with racing which is not clean.

"They had, as you know, a judge up their sleeve, who would do their bidding. They had that ace in the hole.

"Then comes the judge, Frederick P. Walther, who has long taken orders from the interests which wanted Thistledown to continue. The judge issues the most monstrous injunction order which has been put out from the bench in Cuhaygo County in our time.

Caption Changed

"Of course, it won't stand. Walther knows it, if he knows any law at all. The Thistledown gang knows it."

In the next edition the caption of the editorial was changed to "It Certainly is 'Dreadful'".

And the text was modified so that there was no reference to "they had a judge up their sleeves," nor to the allegation that the judge "has long taken orders from the interests," etc.

In a third edition of the paper the editorial was amended further, but only to restore part of the sting and vitriol.

Two days later Judge Walther cited Editor Seltzer and Matson for contempt. The hearing was conducted July 16 and was featured by a fiery address by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, in behalf of the defendants and the constitutionally guaranteed rights of a free press and free speech.

Judge Walther in his decision, a section of which has already been quoted, declared that the court had inherent authority to determine whether contempt had been committed. He asserted that he had considered the case from an impartial and impersonal standpoint and that the punishment he was about to mete out was for the protection of the court, as an institution, rather than for himself. He then inflicted the sentences of 30 days in jail with fines of $500 each.

Mr. Baker filed an appeal to the Appellate Court and the editors were given their freedom in bonds of $1,000 each.

Fear Gag on Press

"This case," said Attorney Marcellus De Vaughn, associate of Mr. Baker's in the defense, "is of far larger moment than in its relationship to Mr. Seltzer and Mr. Matson. If Judge Walther's decision is upheld by the highest courts—and we shall carry appeal to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary—it will make possible the establishment in this country of a judicial autocracy.

"It will mean that any judge may issue an edict that is shamefully contrary to the public good and that the newspapers may not inform the public of the terrible wrong that is being done to them."

Judge Walther was out of the city today and could not be reached. Neither could Attorney John A. Cline, appointed to represent the court, be found. Attorney M. A. Patterson, who aided Mr. Cline in prosecution of the contempt charge, answered Mr. De Vaughn, however.

"It is a strained hypothesis," he said, "to assume that any judge would ever issue an order entirely contrary to the best interests of the people. If such an order were issued, however, it could be dissolved or an appeal could be taken to the higher courts. I do not believe that the upholding of this contempt ruling means any infringement upon the freedom of the press."

Fight for Principle

The two editor-defendants express their position in the following statement, which they jointly prepared for the Hearst newspapers:

"The principle for which we were fighting was that of justice. We made our comment in what we thought was the furtherance of justice, not its hindrance.

"We have made no retractions or apologies. We intend to make none.

"This is a plain case of the freedom of the press to criticize court orders which it regards as lawless. The order which was the crux of the case before Judge Walther in Common Pleas Court was an order which purported to restrain an officer of the law from doing his plain duty.

"We criticize that order. We knew when we did it there was a hazard. The court's citation followed.

"If we have to pay the price of 30 days in jail and $500 fine, we consider it a small price to pay in a fight for a principle.

"Journalism is still a profession. Considerations of right and honor make it that.

To Continue Fight

"There comes a time when a word of common honesty, without consideration of hazard, is the greatest contribution a newspaper can make to its community.

"For the right to speak that word we have fought and we intend to fight. Newspapermen everywhere in this country would do the same thing.

"Every fact is disagreeable to some one. Practically every important expression of a newspaper, every story it prints, every editorial comment it makes, is likely to be objected to by some one.

"In every city room, in every editorial office of the country, the conflict against newspaper expression goes on. The newspaper always faces the pressure which demands suppression.

Obligation of Press

"In that conflict the interest of the whole people is deeply involved. If fact or comment can be easily suppressed, can be suppressed at all, the usefulness of the newspaper, as an organ of public opinion, is over.

"If fact or comment upon one matter, whether it be news of public events or proper comment upon the activities of courts, can be suppressed, any story or comment is likely to be suppressed.

"If such comes about, the clear vision and sense of obligation to his public of the newspaperman become obscured. The newspaperman then is no longer a newspaperman; he becomes only a pamphleteer with a private interest to serve.

"In this conflict over suppression, there comes the time when the newspaperman has to be the final judge. He has to meet the issue that the statement of a fact and the comment upon that fact is his obligation to his community.

"He cannot go behind that obligation. When he is clear that he is right, that he has the facts, he has no honest alternative but to go ahead.

"This is a statement of principle in which every newspaperman worthy of the name will concur.

"It is the principle upon which we have acted and upon which we would act again."

BRITISH TO SHUN TARIFF FIGHT

LONDON, July 24.—(A.P.)—Great Britain will not join other nations to fight high American tariffs.

Answering questions in the House of Commons, William Graham, president of the Board of Trade, said he was unable to act on the suggestion that he should discuss with European governments the possibility of forming an economic united states of Europe to resist the imposition of higher American tariffs.

The government had concluded nothing was to be gained by any policy involving discrimination, on whatever scale it was carried out.

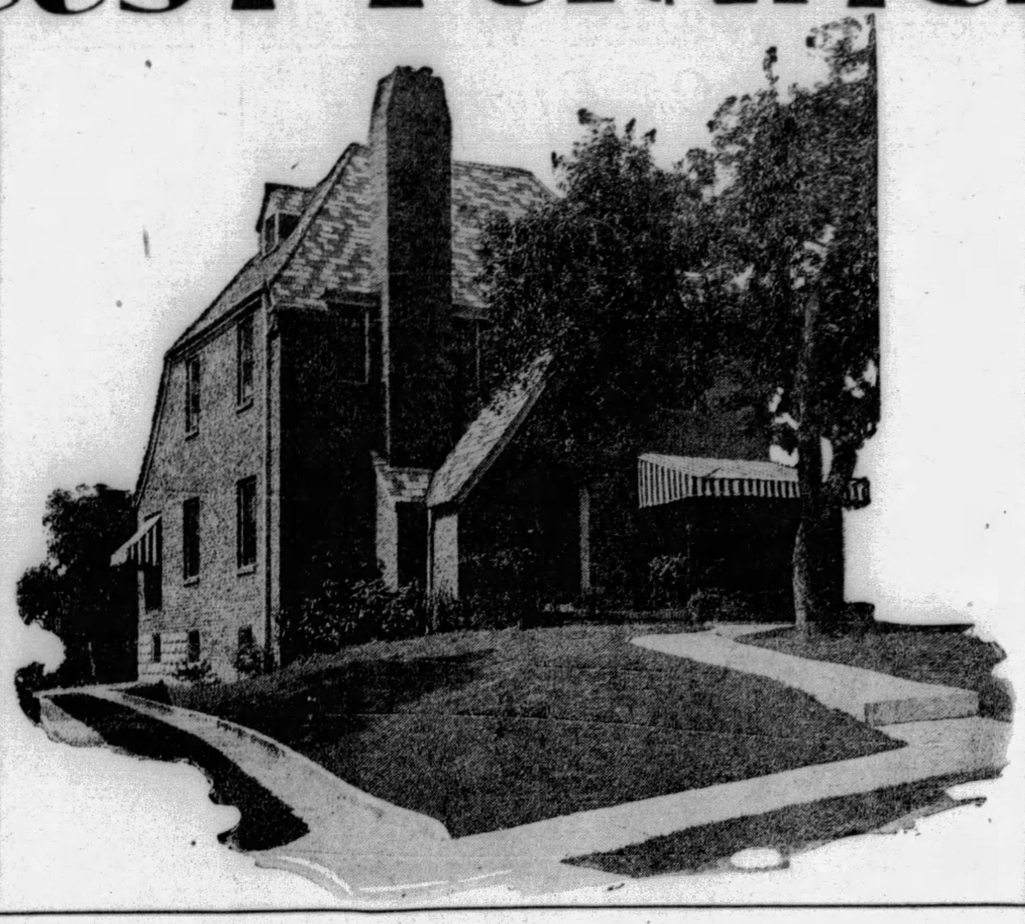
THE AUGUST FURNITURE SALE

A Plain Statement of Facts



Addressed to the Homes of Greater Pittsburgh

ADVANCE INSPECTION BEGINNING TOMORROW

THE complete stocks and the August Sale prices will be on view tomorrow, as a preliminary to the opening of the Sale. Advance selections and reservations will be permitted, subject to charge and delivery on, or after, August 1.

The full story is told in the August Sale price tickets and the great stocks of modern, distinctly Horne-type furniture. We cannot say more than—come and see!

Looking incurs no obligation. Everybody is welcome, and the displays of new furniture, and the decorative ideas and treatments illustrated will make a visit well worth anybody's time, entirely aside from the special price features.

Our Plan of Deferred Payments

Arrangements may be made with our Credit Department to purchase furniture on the deferred payment plan. A reasonable first payment is all that is required for delivery; the balance may be paid conveniently over a period of months. This plan is followed by thousands of our customers in the furnishing of their homes.

The August Furniture Sale is the biggest thing on this store's calendar of fall and winter events.

It is a time for presenting the new—new merchandise and new decorative ideas—in furniture, and is attended by substantial reductions from regular prices on a large part of our furniture stock.

Many stores have discontinued the August Furniture Sale, for one good and sufficient reason, namely: that the Sale is NOT PROFITABLE—for the stores. But it is highly profitable for the public . . . and for this reason August has become one of the two greatest furniture buying months of the entire year.

Some day this store, too, may discontinue the August Sale, but this is not the time.

Home Interest Increasing

A wave of home interest is spreading over the entire country. New houses are being built at a rate never before equalled in American history. Good taste, particularly with regard to the arrangement and furnishing of homes is being evidenced on every hand. State Federations of Women and Women's Clubs are interesting themselves in the modern profession of home-making.

The August Furniture Sale is the greatest possible stimulant and encouragement to the growth and spread of these movements.

As merchants we are naturally interested in home developments. Anything which inspires people to a desire for better homes must lead to greater business for this store which is so widely recognized for those very essentials which the better home movement advocates.

Economically Justified

The great amount of publicity attending the August Furniture Sale, serves to make the public furniture conscious, and the genuine inducements which are provided at this time bring opportunities for new furniture that would not otherwise come to the public.

Regular prices are NOT higher the rest of the year, because of the August concessions. This store's prices meet competition at all times. August prices are lower simply because we are satisfied to sacrifice profits for one month in exchange for greatly increased sales volume, and an enormous amount of public interest and good will.

Fair to All

There is nothing discriminatory about the August discounts. The sale is given the widest publicity; the whole proposition is fully set forth, and everybody has an equal opportunity to profit to the extent of his or her desires by these special August discounts.

The facts are ready for substantiation. You are invited to visit our furniture section, which occupies an entire floor in two buildings and spreads over into a third, and see the lovely, desirable things that are here, and the prices put upon them for this August occasion.

AT LEAST ONE PIECE of NEW FURNITURE FOR EVERY HOME

IT IS our highest hope to be able to contribute at least one piece of new furniture, during August, to every home in this district that has the slightest interest in the subject—if it is only a chair, table, bed, or some decorative occasional piece!

One piece of Horne furniture in a home will lead eventually to many pieces, and the August Sale provides inducements of the most irresistible sort to this end.

This is the time to act on the improvements which are contemplated in so many homes. The August Sale with its economic opportunities provides the urge that is needed to spur people to do the thing they ought to do and want to do but are constantly deferring.

Free Delivery Anywhere in the United States

Horne trucks now deliver regularly to East Liverpool, Steubenville, Greensburg, Uniontown, Beaver Falls, Butler and similar distant points. Beyond the area of our truck deliveries, we prepay shipping charges, to the nearest shipping point, anywhere in the United States. So that regardless where you live the opportunities of the August Furniture Sale are available to you.

BRENON, FINISHING 'LUMMOX,' TO MAKE RADIO TALKIE TITLED 'HIGH FEVER'

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 24.

VERY soon, Herbert Brenon, the director, is going over to RKO to make a picture, yclept, "High Fever."

Mr. Brenon has been busy editing his current offering, "Lummox," into public shape.

A few have seen this flick. They speak of it in superlatives. Likewise of Winifred Westover Hart's beautiful characterization of the name part. Miss Hart was in pictures some six years ago. Prior to her marriage to Two-Gun Bill. She returns in "Lummox."

Winifred Hart

It isn't surprising to hear picture satiated people enthuse over her performance in "Lummox." I chanced to be on the set one day when Director Brenon was giving Winifred the perfect bawling out. I kept mum about it, as it isn't square shooting' to give away a director's working methods while he's in the midst of a production.

But the story is too intriguing to keep any longer, particularly as "Lummox" will be released soon.

Brenon did nothing but "ride" Miss Hart during the entire picture. He would rehearse and rehearse a scene, only to stop it, finally, and ask with ill-restrained fury: "Miss Hart, you simply don't seem to catch the mood of this scene. Is it that you don't care to play the part?"

Tears would well into Winifred's eyes but doggedly she tried again. Once, as a matter of fact, she broke down completely and was shaken in a paroxysm of hysteria. Brenon was relentless. He drove her. He taxed her nerves to the breaking point, but his words penetrated. They whipped her on. She did what she didn't think she could do, and the result?

Brenon Keeps Stars Busy

THAT is the Brenon method of working. His leading players loathe and despise him during a picture. They would cheerfully murder him if they dared. And yet, when it is over and they see themselves on the screen they want to hug him. They'd give their spirit to work for him in another picture. I've heard them say so. For when it's over Brenon becomes himself. He showers them with compliments. What went before is forgotten.

Jeannette McDonald is Maurice Chevalier's heroine in "The Love Parade," an operetta that Ernst Lubitsch is megaphoning.

Maurice Chevalier.

'Tother afternoon, she was called upon to take a bath. 'M, for the benefit of the camera and the box office. She got into the tub. Four hours later—yeah, four hours later—she was blue with cold. The tips of her fingers had shriveled. Her face was pinched. She couldn't be photographed any more. So Mr. Lubitsch let her chatter out of the tub and traipse straight home.

Miss McDonald, by the way, goes to work with Dennis King in "The Vagabond King" as soon as she completes the present reeler. That is, if she doesn't shrivel 100 per cent in the event of another bath marathon.

"Hell's Angels" Gets Review

THEY do be tellin' a story about a certain flick actor who is prone to be gullible. Seems he'd swallow a whale if he could down it. Anyway, two of his friends jingled him late one eve and spun a wild yarn about being in jail and to come and get 'em out. So he dressed and sped to the jail. The jailer informed him no men by that name were in the caboose. He promptly gave the law an argument, with the result that a couple coppers threw him in a cell on the grounds of being goofy. The following day, his "pals" had to come and get him out! Sweet?

SCREENALITIES: August Tollaire, he capitalizes on his whiskers. Monsieur August has the most abundant crop of flowing whiskers in town. He washes the whiskers in milk every Sunday. . . . Bebe Daniels denies she ever trumped her partner's ace at bridge. Well, as Aunt Malena always said, trust a guilty conscience to spill the beans . . . Believe it or not, "Hell's Angels" was previewed in 11 or 12 reels in a nearby town. Only it was screened under another title. They do be sayin' it went over pretty yessirree. Despite the fact it was a celluloid silencer.

Bebe Daniels

Marilyn Miller spent most of a day on her toes in behalf of "Sally" and terpsichore. That, plus the heat, knocked her for a loop. Okeh, now . . . Hedda Hopper week-ending at Malibou with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Z. Leonard . . . Louise Fazenda is preparing to go "that away" in a two-reel outloud, yclept "Faro Nell —Or in Old Californy." Listens like a dyspeptic cure . . . Tom Barry found himself up a plot tree batting out a rick story for John McCormack, the W. K. Irish tenor. He was told Mr. McCormack wouldn't make love, he wouldn't do this or he wouldn't do that. "Oh, well," sighed the harassed Tom, "I suppose he'll sing." Indicating that every cloud has its silver speck . . . and—that's all.

Griffith Won by Talkies at Last

HOLLYWOOD, July 24. — (INS.)—David Wark Griffith, producer of the famous "Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance" and other colossal films, and one of the last of the old guard to stand out against film "talkies," confirmed today that he will shortly produce an oral picture.

Walter Winchell On Broadway

NEW YORK, July 24.

Greater Than Love.

SINCE I must love you as my heart commands,
Think of you, dream of you by day or night,
Since all my happiness lies in your hands,
I give my faith to you to guard or blight.

And if I give it with a hint of fear,
Who gave my heart without the slightest doubt,
'Tis only that I know so well, my dear,
It is the thing I cannot live without.

However great the anguish, this I know:
Hearts may be broken and then slowly mend,
And happiness, though crushed, again will grow,
But faith once cruelly shattered means—the end.

So take my love, my life's one perfect rose
Wrapped in the ferns of faith. Let no leaf fall.
For I have brought you from my garden-close
My love, my life, my happiness—my all!

—Romandra.

HE'S BREAKING MY HEART!

LESTER ALLEN is now buttonholing listeners in Paris with the one about the amazingly conceited actor who sought an engagement in a new play and the producer chirped:

"You claim you have every qualification of a first-rate actor?"

"I only lack one thing," responded the ham. "I am slightly deaf—the result of so much applause, you know."

OF ALL CRACKS!

And Walter Catlett wires from Hollywood that Warner Brothers will cut 600 feet of Joe E. Brown's mouth from his next flicker.

OH, MR. RIPLEY!

The creator of the "Believe It or Not!" craze is recommended to this fact which, if it were embodied in a movie scenario, probably would be rejected by the Hollywood supervisors. It is quite true, however. Olga Holtz, an immigrant, and 63 years old, mother of Lou Holtz, the millionaire comedian, went to night school in Manhattan when she was 58 so that she could learn to read and write letters to and from her son.

WHY NIGHT CLUBS ARE DEAD

IT is supposed to have happened in one of the heavier tariffed night clubs, according to Willard (New York Press) Keefe. A ciggie peddler informed the cluck that the price for a popular cigaret in the joint was four bits.

"What!" ejaculated the sucker, "fifty cents? I can go down to the store and get a pack for fifteen. What do you think I am?"

"I don't know," yawned the gal, "but whatever you are, you're the only one of it."

THE SQUELCH SWELL

Speaking of night clubs and chumps recalls Texas Guinan's ace squelch when a patron becomes too full of laughing soup and gets rowdy. Miss Guinan seldom fails to sober up or quiet clacker-throwers and the boisterous by shouting so all can hear: "Go right ahead, sucker, make all the noise you like. You certainly are entitled to it—it'll all be on your check!"

A FAREWELL FOR LOVERS

Let us part in such silence
That all we may hear
Is the beat of a heart
Or the fall of a tear.
—L. S. Salsburg.

ENTERPRISE

PERHAPS the neatest contact trick of them all is the one employed by George Coxey, Broadway's favorite insurance man. Coxey is persistent and all that when he out to insure you against fire, theft, accident, health and life, but he eventually gets his man by appealing to his prospect's vanity. Considering that most of his clients are in the public eye, on the stage, movies or newspaper profession, Coxey reads the theatrical and other columns in the newspapers thoroughly, and no matter how unimportant the person or the item printed about him, Coxey clips and files it away under the name of the potential victim. Then, six months later, he forwards the clipping with this note: "I wonder if you ever saw this about you?" Coxey encloses his card and insurance rates with the clipping, of course, and, nine times out of ten, the recipient says to himself: "Now isn't that nice of that fellow to send me this writeup of myself. He has my interests at heart. I guess I'll take out some insurance."

BY WAY OF VARIETY

And Jack White nifties: "The poor house isn't tough enough, so they put a hill in front of it!"

SAFE

Many a time I've thought our love through,
But you'd seek me out after ev'ry spat,
Then, like a fool, I'd return to you—
Lovers, they tell me are all like that.

But this time our love's really ended, dear;
All thoughts of you I will put behind me.
I'll murder some famous racketeer—
Then neither Whalen nor you will find me!
—Phil Donner.

IMAGINE!

MARC LACHMAN, one of the better exploiters of Broadway shows, relays the comedy-drama concerning a chum who returned to his apartment one day and discovered that his "heart" had left with every removable object in the place. The amazed fellow couldn't believe his orbs as he inspected the barren apartment, but he ripped a bit of paper from the walls and sent it to her home address—that is, after he scribbled across it: "You forgot this!"

SOTTO VOCE

R. Maxwell Joffe: You rhymed "Coney" with "you know me," which doesn't.
H. F. M.: So Jolson declared in person. Why not write him?
Holfash: "And I learned about her from women!" is hardly new.
Frank Ward O'Malley: A beautiful thing a herring

QUITESO, QUITESO

A celeb here for the first time from the west coast was discussing the lack of enthusiasm at a first-night. "You people are so cold in New York," she declared. "Now out in California at almost every premiere there are calls for 'Author, Author!' Is it because your audiences are so particular?"

"No, ma'am," someone answered, "they're afraid that the first two rows would stand up."

HERE, TOO!

Now that science promises us talking pictures by telephone, Leonard Hall says he can't wait to hang up on a courtroom scene.

Sign Mr. Wolheim For Coleman Picture

Louis Wolheim, Eugene O'Neill's "Hairy Ape" and the Captain Flagg of "What Price Glory" on the New York stage, today joins Ronald Colman, Ann Harding and Dudley Digges in the cast of "Condemned," Mr. Colman's second all-talking picture for Samuel Goldwyn. Wolheim will appear as David, a powerful and wilful prisoner who is condemned, as is Ronald Colman, to penal servitude on Devil's Island, the French prison colony.

Thus is Ronald Colman supported by the star of "What Price Glory," Mr. Wolheim; by the star of "The Trial of Mary Dugan, Miss Harding; and by the star of "Volpone" and numerous other Theater Guild successes, Mr. Digges.

The screen play of "Condemned" is the work of Sidney Howard, Pulitzer Prize playwright and author of "They Knew What They Wanted" and "The Silver Cord.

Louis Wolheim has appeared in several United Artists pictures prior to "Condemned." He was a player in "Sorrell and Son," "Two Arabian Knights," "Tempest" and "The Awakening."

OPERA PROTEGES

Madame Schumann-Heink, the grand old grandma of the opera stage, takes three proteges with her to Europe. They are Ellen Weekes of New York, and Grace Hopkins, and Mary Rose Barrons, both of Kansas City.

Screen's 'Rio Rita' Augmented by New Songs

Working in conjunction with Joe McCarthy, Harry Tierney has turned out two new songs for "Rio Rita," Florenz Ziegfeld musical now in the last stages of filming and recording at the RKO Studios in Hollywood.

The two songs are "Sweetheart, We Need Each Other" and "You're Always in My Arms." The principal songs of the stage version, "Rio Rita," "Following the Sun Around," "If You're in Love You'll Waltz," are being retained as is the famous "Kinkajou" song.

Bebe Daniels, according to reports, has come through with flying colors as the singing heroine, Rio Rita, with John Boles doing the tenor lead. Others in the cast, under the direction of Luther Reed, are Bert Wheeler, Bob Woolsey, Helen Kaiser, Raymond Maurel, Dorothy Lee, Nick De Ruiz, Eva Rosita, Fred Burns, Sam Nelson, Charles Stevens and Don Alvarado.

"Rio Rita" is to go into the Earl Carroll Theater, New York, in the early fall.

Henrietta Crosman In Pitt Next Week

The role Henrietta Crosman is to enact next week in the Pitt, where she is to be the guest star of the George Sharp Players, appearing in "Crashing Through," is not a new one to her. She has been playing the part for nearly a year, appearing in New York and throughout New England.

James Balmer Joins Harris Organization

Announcement has just been made that James M. Balmer, one of Pittsburgh's best known theatrical managers, has resigned from the Stanley organization and next Monday will attach himself to the Harris Amusement Company. Mr. Balmer has been manager of the Enright Theater since its opening and prior to that was manager of the Stanley and Grand. Coming to the Harris interests will be something like going back home for Mr. Balmer, as he began his theatrical career in February, 1908, as stenographer for the Harry Davis Enterprises, of which the late Senator John P. Harris was vice president and general manager.

Find Body of Man Dead from Gun Shot

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 24.—Mahoning County officials found body of an unknown man in Jackson's Gulch, near Liberty road. Apparently the man had been shot through the head with a shotgun. The body was hidden in the bushes and the man apparently had been dead for some time.

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., July 24.—Joseph Goldsboro, 42, of Fairchance, employed in the Kyle mine there was killed yesterday when crushed under a fall of slate. He leaves his wife and two sons.

EX-MRS. MACKAY GIVEN DECREE

NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS.)—Social registerites were surprised today upon learning that Mrs. Joseph A. Blake, the former Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, had obtained a final decree of divorce from Dr. Joseph A. Blake, 65, prominent and wealthy surgeon. Mrs. Blake was granted an interlocutory decree early in April. At the same time it was learned that Dr. Blake, who gained an international reputation in France during the World War as a surgeon, married a Toronto nurse last week and is now honeymooning at his country home in Eastbrook, Me.

Blake and Mrs. Mackay were married in 1914 after she had obtained a divorce from the multi-millionaire head of the Postal Telegraph Company. She had married Mackay in 1898. Their daughter, Ellen, married Irving Berlin, the composer.

'Leading Man,' Hit By Train, Killed

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 24.—Leonard Wolcott, 28, an amateur actor of West Farmington, Trumbull county, was killed yesterday when he stepped from a tool house in front of a passenger train on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Wolcott was to have taken the leading male part in a play to be presented at West Farmington by a young people's society.

JAILS HUSBAND, GOES WITH HIM

"I didn't like to see my husband go to jail alone, so here we are," Mrs. Irene Swartz, 48, of 1417 Arch street, told Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today in Morals Court.

And they were, both charged with disorderly conduct.

The woman told the court that Charles Swartz, 52, her husband, was boom-booming around the neighborhood last night so much and so loudly that she was called from a Mt. Washington party to attend him. She called an officer, who brought the police patrol.

In extolling her husband's virtues this morning, Mrs. Swartz told the court that she softened when she saw him riding the cushions towards the jail and asked the officers to take her along.

They did.

Both were discharged.

TRIO ADMITTING ROBBERY HELD

Three youths admitted the theft of $900 in merchandise from the Army and Navy Store, 6266 Frankstown avenue, and of an auto to haul it away, and were held over by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Morals Court today. They said they were George Worth, 16, of 6302 Station street; Albert Dalsamico, 17, of 527 Chianti street, and William Martinelli, 18, of 6310 Everett street.

Three other youths implicated in the theft are being sought by city detectives. More than half the merchandise has been recovered. The robbery occurred July 16.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A GRACEFUL EVENING GOWN.

This charming model was made in floral chiffon over taffeta. It is also attractive in crepe, satin or moire. The plain fitted waist and the capelet and skirt are finished in scalloped outline. The capelet may be omitted. The bow may be replaced with a garniture of flowers.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. To make the dress for an 18-year size will require 3½ yards of 39-inch material. To make capelet and bow of contrasting material will require one yard 39 inches wide. To finish the scalloped edges with bias binding will require 6¼ yards two inches wide. The width of the skirt at the lower edge with fullness extended is 2¼ yards.

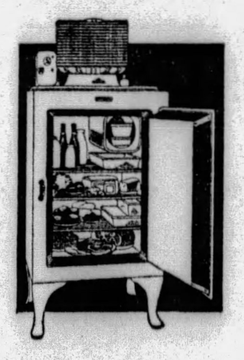
How's this for a hot-weather dinner?

One of these evenings, when you're exhausted from the heat and nothing tastes good, how would you like to sit down to a dinner like this? An ice-cold fruit cup, jellied chicken and ham, a salad of crisp lettuce with a stuffed tomato in aspic. And, for dessert, a strawberry sundae. Tempting, isn't it? And so pleasantly easy to prepare.

All the real work can be done in the cool of the morning. Then your General Electric Refrigerator will do the rest . . . chill new flavor into every course.

Fifty degrees is accepted by scientists as the "danger point" in the preservation of food. When the temperature rises even a degree or two above that, bacteria multiply, foods become unsafe to eat . . . a positive menace to health. In the General Electric Refrigerator the temperature is automatically kept several degrees below fifty—always. Countless superiorities give the General Electric Refrigerator its outstanding position . . . an hermetically sealed, dust-proof mechanism, mounted on top . . . an accessible temperature control . . . quiet operation . . . no oiling . . . no troublesome machinery . . . simplified installation . . . no radio interference—a two-year guarantee.



Now, in addition to all these proved superiorities, General Electric offers an all-steel cabinet! Beautiful. Non-warping. Strong as a safe. Mounted on legs with broom room underneath. There are now more than 300,000 General Electric Refrigerator users and not one has spent a single dollar for repairs.

Prices on the new all-steel models now start as low as $215 at the factory.

See them at our display rooms.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Man and Woman

FUNNY, but most of the money that men work so hard to make is spent for the things that women use to catch them with.

The thought of a man going to a beauty parlor has the same sort of nauseating effect on me as the vision of a woman smoking a meerschaum pipe—or wearing trousers.

Surely, there MUST be SOME difference between the sexes, or God would not have bothered to make two of them!

* * *

When a man dreams of matrimony, he sees only the cozy little breakfast table set for two, and never visualizes the note pinned on the chiffonier, reading: "You'll find your dinner in the ice-box."

HELEN ROWLAND

An Oklahoma Mayor is arranging a rolling-pin contest for wives, with a man's head as the target. "But, what IS a rolling-pin?" asks the modern girl, gracefully aiming her golf club at Hubby, "and, why not a corset-lacing contest?"

* * *

Those were the REAL thrills, back in the days, when standing on a windy corner and boldly eyeing a pair of lisle-thread ankles made a man feel positively devilish.

In Chicago, they pull a gun on you; in New York, they pull a bluff on you; in Los Angeles, they pull the climate on you—and in Boston, they pull a broad "A" on you. So WHAT chance have you got to escape?

* * *

The girl, who declares that common-sense heels hurt her instep is merely the true daughter of the sweet, old-fashioned girl who used to complain that leaving off her steel corsets strained her back.

* * *

These Beauty Corsets would be all right, if there weren't so few real BEAUTIES who feel that they have to prove it, by winning a prize.

Collector and Connoisseur

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

MR WEBSTER says, "Collector * * * One who collects or gathers together any special article. A compiler." It doesn't tack any idea of judgement, finesse, distinction, light-handedness or clever mindedness to the description of the person who is a "Collector."

Then says, "Connoisseur * * * One well-skilled in any art, an adept in judgement, a critic of any fine art." Ah-h-h-h! What a difference.

Most people, in choosing material things, or emotional, or spiritual, which means tables and chairs, or husbands, or beliefs, begin by collecting and end by connoisseur-ing! At first they gather in and think that's being bright-and-arty-minded. Humbly at last they begin to look into the texture and character, the inward meaning of the thing they want, and when at last they put a cagey finger upon their choice it is something to sit up nights over.

This light-minded little pic can be seen upon any beach, in any drawing-room, along any village street, in any peach-colored-lighted tea-and-dance rendezvous. Gloriette with her assorted court, with not one "haveable" among them!.. Gloriette the Collector. Gloriette, who is unhappy without numbers and not satisfied with them when she has them, except for the acid effect the spectacle has on the other girls—she HOPES. And Demura—with ONE devotee, a heart-waster for looks, with health, youth that's not too young, a splendid job, character like Gibraltar, stability and fidelity, one of the REAL men that there are quite a few of in the world, who are lucky enough to be blessed with good looks along with the character.

Gloriette is bound to have a lot of useless things in a big collection. Dumura waits and is "choosie" and doesn't have to throw away what she requires!

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, July 25.

WITH so many of the planets working at cross purposes on this day, it may be difficult to make much headway against their thwarting influx. There is likely to be friction, futility and obstruction in almost every line of endeavor, although there is shown some possible benefit following an abrupt change or removal. It is enjoined that financial losses be guarded against, and that affairs be not complicated by personal inharmonies, intemperate indulgences or mental depressions.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of opposition and obstruction, although there is a likelihood of some new avenue of opportunity to present itself, which may involve change, travel or removal. However, it would be ill-advised to take long chances either in speculation or investment as financial loss is indicated. Also loss of employment, dangers and personal inharmonies or hazards.

A child born on this day may have some peculiar talents or high aspirations, but generally may find it difficult to make progress, unless schooled in self-restraint, frugality and prudence.

Defeat may serve as well as victory to shake the soul and let the glory out.—Edwin Markham.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary Tells of Her Agreement With Philip Veritzen

"NOEL and Eleanor are engaged, I can't stand it."

As Mary's voice, still raucous from hysteria, uttered that broken cry, I gave her no verbal answer at first, simply tightened my grasp upon her hands, quiescent, but still quivering from the emotional storm which had swept over her. It was no time for words. All the girl needed was the sense of someone beside her to whom she could pour out the soul anguish which was hers—someone who could be counted on never to reveal or even to remember—apparently—the story trembling on her lips.

I knew that in a little while, Mary would be bitterly ashamed of her outburst. Her defiant pride is like that of an untamed young colt, and she also preens herself upon belonging to the hard-boiled, modern young generation to whom any show of emotion is anathema. But the years have many times affirmed to me the truth of the trite old saying that "Human nature never changes," and I know that heartbreak is still able to tear off the most carefully adjusted mask.

I waited until the quivering of her hands was stilled, then I spoke casually, as if she had told me a piece of ordinary, but surprising news.

"I hardly can credit that," I said. "Are you sure? Did Eleanor tell you?—"

A spark of angry contempt flamed in her eyes.

"No, but it's only because she hasn't had the chance. But I wouldn't take her word if she swore it on Bibles enough to fill the New York Library."

She gave her a hard little laugh and shook her head.

"I haven't seen Noel."

"Then—" I was sure of the answer now—"it must have been Mr. Veritzen. But you shouldn't take that statement from him too seriously, Mary. Remember how anxious he is to further that engagement. I'm afraid he wouldn't hesitate—"

"To lie like—seven troopers—if he thought it would make me believe the yarn." Mary finished the sentence for me viciously. "But I haven't seen him either. The answer is simple if shocking. I overheard the whole darn performance."

"Mary!" I exclaimed.

"Yes, I know." She gave a dry little smile. "It does put me in the Katie category doesn't it? But honest, I couldn't help it at first, and afterward I didn't want to."

I stifled my own qualms with my realization of the girl's need, and spoke quietly.

"Do you want to tell me about it?"

She twisted her hands out of my grasp, and raised herself to a sitting posture. I saw that there was no danger of any more hysteria. She had herself under control now, and the story she was about to tell me would be uncolored by emotion. Without comment or protest, I rose, slipped some pillows behind her and sat down again. With a smiling "Thank you," she wriggled herself into a comfortable position, and looked at me squarely with no tinge of embarrassment.

"How much time have you?" she asked.

"All that you wish—and more—" I assured her quickly.

"That's good. I'll need a lot, for I'm going way back to the beginning of this little comedy—melodrama—it's a wonder old Phil Veritzen wouldn't want to make a play of it."

There was sudden venom in her tone at her reference to Noel's father, the man who had promised to make her "the most famous Veritzen find." I was not surprised at the bitter, rancorous words which next came tumbling from her lips.

"He's the one who's to blame for all this," she said, "the darned old pole cat! He just naturally made up his mind that he wasn't going to let Noel fall for me and that he was going to toss him over to Eleanor, though why, the Lord only knows."

Her big brown eyes fixed on mine suddenly quickened into shrewdness.

"But you do, Auntie Madge, I can see that," she said, adding while I regretted my inadvertent betrayal: "But that can wait. I'm telling you something first. Do you remember the day last spring when I got a conscience attack and decided I ought to tell deah old Phil about that masked dancer stunt?"

"Yes." I had time only for the monosyllable, for she was rushing on excitedly.

"Well, what do you think the old hop-toad made me promise that day?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Keep Infant's Food at Low Temperature

SUMMER is a trying time for little babies. No matter how watchful the mother is all the rest of the year, she must take special pains in hot weather. No detail is too small to be overlooked.

DR. COPELAND

Even a husky grown-up suffers the effects of intense heat. If this is true, think of how trying the hot days and nights are for the frail infant.

Another factor is the danger of milk spoilage. That fine product of the farm reaches your door in perfect condition. It is delivered even in the large cities at a very low temperature. It must be kept so.

Exposed to room temperature, even for a very few hours, it is sure to be teeming with unfriendly germs. There can be no haphazard care of this precious food. The supply must be kept cold until feeding time arrives.

One of the first effects of giving contaminated milk is an upset digestion. The stomach rebels. Next, diarrhea is noted. This can be very weakening.

We look upon diarrhea as an effort on the part of the system to rid itself of the disturbing substances in the blood. These serve to irritate the intestine.

It makes no difference whether it is the acidity set up by the bad milk, or because the milk curdles and produces irritating curds. Whatever is the exact cause makes little difference. The infant has diarrhea and it must be checked.

The symptom may be the effect of a wrong mixture for the feedings. Too much cream—"top milk"—or too much sugar. These are causes for diarrhea.

Children differ a lot in their tendencies to intestinal troubles. Even in the same family there is a lot of difference. One of the twins may have this tendency and the other may appear to be safe from such ailments.

If there is such a weakness great care must be taken to guard the child from exposure to great heat. The coolest place in the house must be given over to the baby.

Sudden changes in temperature are disturbing. Fresh air is essential, no matter what the weather is. But on cool or cold days guard the child against the other extreme of weather.

Should a sudden attack of diarrhea come on, stop the feedings. Give only boiled or cool water. Plenty of this is recommended. Don't return to food until your doctor advises you to do so.

Sometimes very weak tea or rice water will be useful. I mention these for the benefit of some mother who is far distant from a doctor. In all cases, where he is within reach, the family physician should be consulted.

Household Hints

Steamed vegetables hold their flavor longer and are more healthful.

Eucalyptus oil can be used to clean soiled velvet. It should be rubbed on gently with a piece of clean muslin.

To paint the lower cellar stair white will save you many a mishap and rid one of that nervous fear when going downstairs at night.

A few drops of oil of lavender sprinkled on book shelves will destroy odor of mold which sometimes rises in damp weather in spite of the best care.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Declining an Invitation

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have received an invitation from the parents of a girl friend who are to announce her engagement at a dancing party. It is impossible for me to attend the party. What is the correct thing for me to do? Should I write the parents a letter telling them that it is impossible for me to attend and thanking them for the invitation?

AN ADMIRER.

YOU should acknowledge the invitation in some way, and the form of your acknowledgement depends on the form of the invitation. Was the invitation formally engraved, or was it an informal one? If it is formal—that is, written in the third person—you should reply "in kind." Like this:

Miss Anne Admirer
regrets very much that she is unable to accept
Mr. and Mrs. John Worthyman's kind invitation to a dance
on Friday, the seventh of August.

If, on the other hand, the invitation was informally written, in the form of a personal note, like a letter, then you would write a note of the same type, in acknowledgement. Like this:

"Dear Mrs. Worthyman:

"You were most kind to invite me to the dance that you and Mr. Worthyman are giving for Lillian, and I appreciate the honor of your invitation very much. I am so sorry that I shall not be able to come to the dance. Mother and I are to be away from the city for that week. I wanted very much to be there, when you tell the happy news of Lillian's engagement.

"Best wishes and friendliest greetings to you and Mr. Worthyman, and the anticipation of seeing you very soon.

"Most devotedly yours,"

It is always best to give a reason when we are regretting an invitation. However, this is not always possible, and then, the "regrets that she is unable to accept the kind invitation" is enough. In the letter I have indicated a reason, but you may omit that, of course, if you think it more advisable.

'The Check as a Bridal Gift'

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When one wishes to send a check as a wedding gift instead of buying something as a gift, should this check be sent before the wedding?

2. If so, what sort of note should accompany the check? The couple does not intend to go housekeeping right away.

MRS. ———

YES, the check should be sent before the wedding, as any other kind of wedding present would be.

2. Explain in your note, that since they are not to have their own home right away, you were perplexed as to the most convenient kind of present to give them, and that you hoped that they would take this check and either "invest" it in something now or keep it to apply in the purchase of some item for the home that they will plan later.

Comrades Court-Martialed For Hurling Insults At Himmelstoss

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Paul Baumer and his soldier comrades all enlisted at 18. During their training, they were abused and persecuted by a former mail-carrier, now Corp. Himmelstross. Hating him, they beat him up the last night. Later, at the front, he appears. One of the privates calls him a "dirty hound." He threatens court-martial.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER X.

MULLER hasn't finished yet. He tackles Kropp again.

"Albert, if you were really at home now, what would you do?"

Kropp is contented now and more accommodating.

"How many of us were there in the class exactly?"

We count up; out of 20, seven are dead, four wounded, one in a madhouse. That makes 12 privates.

"Three of them are lieutenants," says Muller. "Do you think they would still let Kantorek sit on them?"

We guess not; we wouldn't let ourselves be sat on for that matter.

"What do you mean by the threefold theme in 'William Tell'?" says Kropp reminiscently, and roars with laughter.

"What was the purpose of the Poetic League of Gottingen?" asks Muller suddenly and earnestly.

"How many children had Charles the Bald?" I interrupt gently.

"You'll never make anything of your life, Baumer," croaks Muller.

"When was the Battle of Zana?" Kropp wants to know.

"You lack the studious mind, Kropp, sit down, three minus—" I wink.

"What offices did Lycurgus consider the most important for the state?" asks Miller, pretending to take off his pince-nez.

"Does it go: 'We Germans fear God and none else in the whole world,' or 'We, the Germans, fear God and—'" I submit.

"How many inhabitants has Melbourne?" asks Muller.

"How do you expect to succeed in life if you don't know that?" I ask Albert hotly.

Which he caps with: "What is meant by Cohesion?"

We remember mighty little of all that rubbish. Anyway, it has never been the slightest use to us. At school nobody ever taught us how to light a cigarette in a storm of rain, nor how a fire could be made with wet wood—nor that it is best to stick a bayonet in the belly because there it doesn't get jammed, as it does in the ribs.

Muller says thoughtfully: "What's the use. We'll have to go back and sit on the forms again."

I consider that out of the question. "We might take a special exam."

"That needs preparation. If you do get through, what then? A student's life isn't any better. If you have no money, you have to work like the devil."

"It's a bit better. But it's not all the same, everything they teach you."

Kropp supports me: "How can a man take all that stuff seriously when he's once been out here?"

"Still you must have an occupation of some sort," insists Muller, as though he were Kantorek himself.

Albert cleans his nails with a knife. We are surprised at this delicacy. But it is merely pensiveness. He puts the knife away and continues: "That's just it. Kat and Detering and Haie will go back to their jobs because they had them already. Himmelstoss too. But we never had any. How will we ever get used to one after this, here?"—he makes a gesture toward the front.

"We'll want a private income, and then we'll be able to live by ourselves in a wood," I say, but at once feel ashamed of this absurd idea.

"But what will really happen when we go back?" wonders Muller, and even he is troubled.

Kropp gives a shrug. "I don't know. Let's get back first, then we'll find out."

We are all utterly at a loss. "What could we do?" I ask.

"I don't want to do anything," replies Kropp wearily. "You'll be dead one day, so what does it matter? I don't think we'll ever go back?"

"When I think about it, Albert," I say after a while, rolling over on my back, "when I hear the word 'peace time,' it goes to my head; and if it really came, I think I would do some unimaginable thing—something, you know, that it's worth having lain here in the muck for. But I can't even imagine anything. All I do know is that this business about professions and studies and salaries and so on—it makes me sick, it is and always was disgusting. I don't see anything—I don't see anything at all, Albert."

All at once everything seems to me confused and hopeless.

Kropp feels it too. "It will go pretty hard with us all. But nobody at home seems to worry much about it. Two years of shells and bombs—a man won't peel that off as easy as a sock."

We agree that it's the same for everyone; not only for us here, but everywhere, for everyone who is of our age; to some more, and to others less. It is the common fate of our generation.

Albert expresses it: "The war has ruined us for everything."

He is right. We are not youth any longer. We don't want to take the world by storm. We are fleeing. We fly from ourselves. From our life. We were 18 and had begun to love life and the world; and we had to shoot it to pieces. The first bomb, the first explosion, burst in our hearts. We are cut off from activity, from striving, from progress. We believe in such things no longer, we believe in the war.

The orderly room shows signs of life. Himmelstoss seems to have stirred them up. At the head of the column trots the fat sergeant-major. It is queer that almost all pay sergeant-majors are fat.

Himmelstoss follows him, thirsting for vengeance. His boots gleam in the sun.

We get up.

"Where's Tjaden?" the sergeant puffs.

No one knows, of course. Himmelstoss glowers at us wrathfully. "You know very well. You won't say, that's the fact of the matter. Out with it!"

Fatty looks round enquiringly; but Tjaden is not to be seen. He tries another way.

"Tjaden will report at the orderly room in 10 minutes."

Then he steams off with Himmelstoss in his wake.

"I have a feeling that next time we go up wiring I'll be letting a bundle of wire fall on Himmelstoss' leg," hints Kropp.

"We'll have quite a lot of jokes with him," laughs Muller.

That is our sole ambition: to knock the conceit out of a postman.

I go into the hut and put Tjaden wise. He disappears.

Then we change our possy and lie down again to play cards. We know how to do that: to play cards, to swear, and to fight. Not much for 20 years—and yet too much for 20 years.

Half an hour later Himmelstoss is back again. Nobody pays any attention to him. He asks for Tjaden. We shrug our shoulders.

"Then you'd better find him," he persists. "Haven't you been to look for him?"

Kropp lies back in the grass and says: "Have you ever been out here before?"

"That's none of your business," retorts Himmelstoss. "I expect an answer."

"Very good," says Kropp, getting up. "See up there where those little white clouds are? Those are anti-aircraft. We were over there yesterday. Five dead and eight wounded. It was a lot of fun. Next time, when you go up with us, before they die the fellows will come up to you, click their heels, and ask stiffly: 'Please may I go? Please may I hop it? We've been waiting here for a long time for someone like you.'"

He sits down again and Himmelstoss disappears like a comet.

"Three days C. B.," Kat conjectures.

"Next time I'll let fly," I say to Albert.

But that is the end. The case comes up for trial in the evening. In the orderly room sits our lieutenant, Bertinck, and calls us in one after another.

I have to appear as a witness and explain the reason of Tjaden's insubordination.

The story of petty persecution makes an impression. Himmelstoss is recalled and I repeat my statement.

"Is that right?" Bertinck asks Himmelstoss.

He tries to evade the question, but in the end has to confess, for Kropp tells the same story.

"Why didn't someone report the matter, then?" asks Bertinck.

We are silent; he must know himself how much use it is reporting such things in the army. It isn't usual to make complaints in the army. He understands it all right though, and lectures Himmelstross, making it plain to him that the front isn't a parade-ground. Then comes Tjaden's turn, who gets a long sermon and three day's open arrest. "It can't be helped," he says to him regretfully. He is a decent fellow.

Open arrest is quite pleasant. The clink was once a fowl-house; there we can see the prisoners, we know how to manage it. Close arrest would have meant the cellar.

They used to tie us to a tree, but that is forbidden now. In many ways we are treated quite like men.

An hour after Tjaden and Kropp are settled in behind their wire-netting we make our way in to them. Tjaden greets us crowing. Then we play skat far into the night. Tjaden wins of course, the lucky wretch.

FOREST LOVE by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, beautiful and romantic, becomes cynical when her mother warns her against marrying a poor man. She causes comment when she gives up Mat Tulley and accepts the ardent attentions of Jack Beamer who plans to divorce his rich wife to marry Nancy. On a mountain trip with relatives, Nancy toys with the affections of a handsome ranger, Roger Decatur. In spite of her expressed desire to marry for riches only, she suddenly gives way to Roger's passionate love-making and marries him. At first she is happy in his mountain cabin, but when he leaves on a long trip, she flees to her home. Without informing her family of her marriage, she re-enters the old social life. At a party, Jack Beamer monopolizes her. But Nancy repulses Beamer's affectionate embraces. At home Nancy's letters from Decatur arouse her mother's suspicions. Nancy almost tells her secret. But even Louise shows no interest when Nancy mentions the ranger.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"HOLLENBECK? Sign here, please!" Nancy sighed. She accepted the big, striped box gingerly, as if it had been a bomb, likely to go off at any moment. The fourth in four days. This would have to stop. Things couldn't go on like this.

"More flowers?" papa looked up over his spectacles.

Nancy giggled helplessly.

"Is it a joke, or a bet or what?"

"I think it's a mistake. He must have put in an order at a florist, and forgot to stop it. I wish to goodness he'd keep them," she said, poking with fingers that were gentle in spite of her, at the waxy green paper that covered Jack Beamer's unwelcome gift. Pansies. Baby roses. Gardenias. They looked at her with innocent sweetness. In the movies girls throw away flowers from men they don't like. Nancy always ended by loving hers, and cutting the stems to make them last.

"You ought to speak to him about it," papa said, squinting at them. "Your mother won't like it . . . that maidenhair fern smells nice. Kind of like the country."

Kind of like the country . . . like the woods . . . Roger's woods . . . She laid a piece of it against her lips, breathing in its good green smell . . .

Maybe she could talk to papa! She looked at him with mounting excitement. Maybe he'd understand. Papa, who read the sport page from beginning to end every night and was always talking about crack shots and prize fighters, and men who spend 18 hours in the saddle. Surely he'd appreciate Roger . . .

She came and curled up on the arm of his chair.

"Well, Nancy girl?"

How pretty she was! It was worth it . . . worth all the drudgery and disappointment and failure to have a girl like that! With a smile, all tenderness and pride, he pushed back the papers he had been working over.

They were bills. The plumber's bill for the new bathroom faucets that were put in last December lay on top, and underneath, one older than that. Dr. Deming's bill for Lou's tonsils; he took them out nearly two years ago.

"Well, Nancy girl, what do you want, a new hat?"

Nancy had the grace to blush. "I don't want anything," she said quickly . . . "Papa, you shouldn't wear a collar that's all frayed like that! It's a disgrace. And that awful necktie!"

He grinned. "No one is going to look at an old fellow like me. Not while I have a couple of pretty girls they can look at instead."

"A couple of big, bulking, lazy loafers, that's what we are! Especially me! Running up bills on you when we ought to be out working or something—"

"Tut, tut. Nonsense." But she saw that he was pleased. And then, warningly. "Shh! Your mother will hear. She has one of her headaches. Louise got her all upset talking about some kind of a job with the Associated Charities or the Community Chest or something on that order."

"It's about time one of us did something. Piling up the bills—"

"Oh, that!" He pushed the little pile of them out of sight, smiled at her with false brightness. "That's nothing. I wouldn't feel I was a father if I didn't have a few bills. First thing I know, though, some young fellow will have the job away from me, eh, baby?"

Her heart leaped. She laid her cheek against his "Maybe. I've been thinking . . . papa, you won't mind?"

"Mind? Why I want you to be happy—that's all—" He fumbled for the clean, folded handkerchief he always kept in his coat pocket, and wiped his glasses, scowling at them critically.

"Pops, you old sweetheart, I knew you'd understand!" Nancy's eyes were swimming. The torrent of words she had been holding back for weeks bubbled to her lips. "I've wanted to tell it for so long, and I haven't dared, and nobody would listen—mamma or Louise—"

"What! Your mother wouldn't—"

"No, not really. You know how mamma is. Just because it wasn't anyone she knew she wouldn't take it seriously and—"

Papa was beginning to get nervous. This wasn't what he had expected at all. He glanced apprehensively toward the kitchen door.

"Just because he's a ranger she won't believe that I'm really in love with him, and—"

"Shh! Wasn't that your mother coming?"

"No, I don't think so. Pops, you wouldn't mind a ranger for a son-in-law, would you? He's wonderful looking. Nearly six feet, and brown as an Indian. It's funny, too, with his light hair and blue eyes. And ride! Anything with four legs. He's so strong he could pick me up with one hand. He has, for that matter. But he's the most—"

He stopped her at last. "Now, now, you don't want to lose your head over some fellow you met on a summer vacation. I suppose you met him this summer?"

"Yes, but it's no summer romance. From the first minute we met—"

"Shh! What would your mother say?" He craned his neck over the frayed collar, looking anxiously toward the door. No sign of Kitty. He relaxed a little. Looked at his lovely daughter with love and pity. What a babe she was, getting all stirred up over some good looking cowpuncher. The fellow probably put an arm around her some moonlight night. He knew. He was a young man, not so long ago.

Tenderly he smiled at the quivering girl. Gently he pinched her cheek. "So that's why you stayed away from your dad so long, eh? Having an affair with a cowpuncher, eh? Well . . ." His manner changed. He became the hustling, garrulous Peter Hollenbeck they knew at the bank. "That's all right. But—that's not the kind of man to marry, Nancy. In three months the romance would be gone, and what would be left, eh?"

"Now you take any of the younger men in business. Take Frank Haworth f'rinstance. Solid, substantial citizen. Makes approximately 300 per month." Papa dug a pencil out of his pocket, wrote neatly on the back of an old envelope, "$300."

"Not a great sum. But granting that you could save $500 the first year, at four and a quarter per cent—"

Mamma came in and sat down, picked up the book Nancy had been reading. "Anna Karenina . . . why do you read such outlandish things? You fill your head with crazy ideas!"

Papa went on figuring. "Compounding the interest"

Nancy continued to lean on the arm of his chair. The meaningless figures multiplied under her nose. She thought wildly of calling a taxi and starting back to the mountains tonight. But she was too tired and the family wouldn't believe it anyway. They'd think she was going to see May Belle, Or the Porter girls.

What was the matter with them? Why couldn't they see what was going on all around them? Papa juggling bills, paying this one two dollars on the first, that one ten on the fifteenth. Getting deeper and deeper into debt, shabbier and shabbier . . . Mamma snooping, and poking and prying into things, and getting more off the track every minute . . .

There they sat, elderly innocents giving her advice . . . And any minute Jack Beamer's wife might drag her into the divorce court, or she might go back to the hills and hide . . .

Shakily, almost tearfully, she began to laugh.

"Now what is it?"

"Nothing."

She was really thinking: Won't they be surprised if I have a child!

Wild West Thriller Goes On Radio Show Boat

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

"Ranch 10"—the story of cowboys, cattle thieves and an attractive Indian maiden—will be Hank Simmons' "Maybelle" presentation over WJAS tonight at 8 o'clock. Lots of whoopee!

Gilbert and Sullivan Opera, of which the public gets no fill, will be played up plenty over WCAE at 8 p. m. during the Mobiloil concert and again at 10:30, when "Yeomen of the Guard" will be presented by a select cast of NBC Players.

A Pittsburgh girl who studied under Mme. Schumann-Heink will be heard as guest soloist with the Mozart Trio, KDKA, at 7:01. Carrie Mina Mayer, contralto, enjoys a wide reputation for her singing, and fans will be glad to hear her voice once again.

The spirit of the Vikings will be echoed over KDKA at 10 p. m., when the ABA Voyagers land in Norwegian territory. An octet will give Coleridge-Taylor's "Viking Song."

Cowboys and cattle thieves of Wyoming that take a prominent part in the play's action. A Mexican rustler is enamoured of an attractive Indian maiden who makes no attempt to conceal her extreme dislike for him. Angered, he shoots the girl and fastens the crime on Al McClelland, a prominent cattle man. Complications arise when the later's twin brother arrives in town and is mistaken for the cattle man. A mountain blizzard scene and a frontier court where justice is administered with all possible speed will both be given realistic reproduction by the troupe in what promises to be one of the most thrilling plays ever seen on the "Maybelle's" stage.

The story of "Yeomen of the Guard" concerns Colonel Fairfax, who has been sent to jail for sorcery. Since he twice saved the life of Sergeant Meryll in battle, Meryll and his daughter Phoebe are anxious to save him. Opportunity comes when the brother of Phoebe, recently made a Yeoman of the Guard, is induced to let Fairfax take his place in the ranks and so escape. Fairfax is brought to the lieutenant in charge of the tower.
He declares he is ready to die, but as he has been condemned for sorcery through the plotting of a kinsman who will succeed to his estates if he dies unmarried, he asks that someone be found to marry him at once.
Elsie Maynard, a strolling singer, happens along with Jack Point, a jester, and for a cash consideration she agrees to be blindfolded and married to Fairfax, provided she can leave immediately after the ceremony.
In the second act, the wardens are denounced for permitting their prisoner to escape. Jack Point arranges a false shot, which is supposed to have killed Fairfax, and they notify the Governor that he is dead.
In the meantime, Dame Carruthers informs Meryll that from Elsie's mutterings in her sleep she has learned that Fairfax is the man she married. Fairfax, in order to make a test, makes love to Elsie in Point's interest, but ends by falling in love with her himself. Shortly afterward the pardon, which had been held back by the "evil kinsman," arrives.

Light-O-Matic Tuning, a feature new in radio this year, the invention of Thomas A. Edison, was displayed for the first time in Pittsburgh yesterday at a dealers' exhibit in the William Penn Hotel. New models of the Edison Radio containing this feature—a novel departure in the method of logging stations—met the gaze of several hundred dealers.

Light—the incandescent bulb—which Mr. Edison gave to the world a half century ago, plays an important part in Light-O-Matic Tuning. When the listener wants a station there is a click of the dial, a flash of red light which indicates that the station has been logged at the most sensitive dial setting.

IT IS A FACT... not just a claim . .. that the new-type Atlantic

Gasoline is extra-powered and "knockless." But equally big things about this extraordinary motor fuel are that it is also remarkably easy-starting, clean-burning and complete-consuming. . . . And, you can get it at no extra cost.

The vast resources, the long experience and the constant research of one of the largest and most progressive refining organizations in the world have made the new-type Atlantic Gasoline the most amazingly efficient all-round motor fuel on the market. . . . It is obtainable at all Atlantic pumps and service stations.

KONJOLA ENDED TEN YEARS OF DREAD NEURITIS

Stomach Trouble, Too, Is Routed—Pittsburgh Lady Now Has Glorious Health.

Neuritis, one of the most torturing of ailments, need have no terrors, for Konjola, the new and different medicine, is winning victory after victory over this dread disease wherever this celebrated medicine is known and given a chance to prove its merits.

MRS. OLIVE GOLD

Konjola wins such triumphs, even when all else tried has failed, because its 32 ingredients—22 of them the juices of roots and herbs—all work together, yet each has its own mission to perform in paving the way for the return of new and glorious health. Sufferers are entitled to the truth and the whole truth about the medicine in which they put they money, their faith and their hope for health. Get the truth about this new and different medicine from the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh. Meet him today; see what Konjola has done for others, and then decide what you will do about Konjola. Remember this: Konjola is not a medicine of promises, but of performances; of deeds, not words. Konjola stands on a record of successes, tens of thousands of them, and how wise it is to be guided by the experiences of others who have given Konjola the chance to make them well.

Give thought to the experience of Mrs. Olive Gold, 45 Henderson Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, who made this astounding statement to the Konjola Man just a few days ago:

"Never before have I recommended a medicine for the very simple but sufficient reason that never before did a medicine do what this wonderful Konjola has done for me. I am not exaggerating when I say that for ten years I suffered from the pangs of neuritis. My shoulders were a mass of aches and pains. Often it was impossible for me to comb my hair because it was so difficult to raise my arms. No one can realize how I suffered. My stomach was disordered, too, and no matter what I ate gas formed and I bloated dreadfully. I did not sleep soundly and was run-down in general.

"A friend told me about Konjola, and urged me to give it a trial. I was skeptical, and why not? All the medicines I tried gave me no hope. But I was not long in finding out why this new Konjola is known as the medicine with more than a million friends. Konjola went right to work; I could almost feel it. The neuritis pains became less severe and then, like magic, they disappeared completely. My stomach was cleansed and invigorated. My digestion was restored and my appetite increased. I eat three hearty meals a day and never suffer the slightest bit. I suffered ten years but Konjola made me well. I will praise Konjola as long as I live."

So it goes, everywhere Konjola is put to the test, and no test is too severe for this medicine of medicines.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

There is also a Konjola Man at Dow's Drug Store, 5th and Sinclair, McKeesport—also Dow's Drug Store, 5939 Penn Avenue, East Liberty.

POSTAL CLERKS CHOOSE ERIE

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 24.—The closing session of the eighth annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Postoffice Clerks selected Erie as the meeting place of the 1930 convention and also named William L. Hagle, of that city, president. Other officers selected are: First vice-president, Charles Rupp, Allentown; second vice-president, John Flynn, Scranton; third vice-president, Margaret Young, McKees Rocks; fourth vice-president, R. G. Rumerford, Doylestown; fifth vice-president, A. W. Burkert, Reading, and sixth vice-president, Curden M. Higley, Harrisburg; secretary and treasurer, Thomas L. Donegan, New Castle; state representative to the national offices, Thomas E. McCann, Scranton; delegate to the national convention in New York September 1-7, Harry D. Shaffer, Kittanning; alternate, Ansel F. Crane, Pittsburgh.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the State Federation selected the following officers: President, Mrs. Harry Weinstock, Philadelphia; first vice-president, Mrs. John Robinson, New Castle; second vice-president, Mrs. Effie Hardman, Erie; third vice-president, Mrs. Mervin Higley, Erie; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Julia Heck.

3 Graysville Men Arrested in Raid

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 24.—The rural community of Graysville was stirred when county officials made three arrests of alleged moonshiners. Ray Powers, 26, was arrested as he was about to place three gallons of liquor in a car, according to the police. A short time later William B. Riggs, 37, was arrested after police claim they found him in possession of a still being operated on a farm owned by Oren Powers, 50, the father of Ray Powers. The elder Powers was also arrested.

Three County Rural Carriers to Picnic

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 24.—The Washington County Rural Letter Carriers' Association will join with those of Fayette and Greene counties in a picnic on Labor Day, the place not having been selected. Washington has been selected as the place of holding the 1930 state convention.

Weather Conditions.

There is considerable cloudiness over the country from the plains eastward, but the rainfall was light and scattered except for heavy local rains in the vicinity of the lakes. At Madison, Wis., 3.90 inches of rain fell and at Toledo 2.28. The drought continues in the wheat belt. Relatively high barometer is centered over the Southeast, and projects northwestward, while rather weak centers of low pressure are over Manitoba and British Columbia. Warm weather continues.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary. Stage at Pittsburgh is 9.8 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.6; Dam No. 6, 7.5, and Dam No. 12, 4.6. The dams are up.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

NEIGHBOR BEATEN, WOMAN, MOTHER JAILED

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Boyle's copy is arriving daily. In this and subsequent columns, he records his impressions of Paris.)

PARIS, FRANCE.

WHERE the Boulevard Raspail joins hands with the Boulevard Montparnasse, on the Left Bank, the home of the celebrated Latin quarter, you may sit all afternoon and watch the passing parade with no slackening of interest as the hours wear away. At this intersection there are two famous cafes, the Dome, for one, and across the Boulevard Montparnasse the Cafe Rotonde.

You are not seated long at a sidewalk table of the Dome before you observe a blind man, pacing to and fro, aided by a staff which he does not use as a cane, exactly, it reaching to his shoulders, but which he uses more as a man in water might use an oar or a paddle to guide his way while drifting in a boat. With measured tread he paces back and forth, mutely and blindly appealing for alms.

His picture some day may be hanging in the home of a millionaire who will in time pass out and be forgotten, while the blind man you see will live in oil for many, many years—his features and shabby dress to be studied in centuries to come. He is known as the "Blind Gondolier of the Dome," and he has been transformed into a well-known painting by a celebrated artist, George Bellowes.

The "Blind Gondolier of the Dome," using his staff to guide him strongly suggests just what the artists dubbed his portrait. He is sketched frequently and now forms an important part of the history of this famous cafe, but his shabby clothing and melancholy tread would hardly suggest that in him, you see a man who will be remembered down through many years to come.

It is in this sector where you see restaurants lined with paintings. Artists must eat and when they fail to get money for their work they are not above trading the work of several months for a nice warm meal. Hence the art collections in the cafes and restaurants.

TRAFFIC is directed by the gendarmes who wave a short mace instead of using the stop and go semaphore we are accustomed to. Crossing a busy street is an adventure, for the autos move rapidly, make all sorts of turns, and the streets zig-zag across each other in a dizzy way. I'm going to do my best, but watch out for "Local Boy Loses Elbow in Paris Traffic Jam." I'm half sorry now I didn't bring "nursey" along.

* * *

On a prominent corner, near a railroad station, I observed a package of numbered tickets attached, about headhigh, to a pole. Men and women approached and helped themselves to a numbered ticket. This is a preliminary to getting on a local train where seats and space are at a premium in the rush hours. The number on the ticket entitles you to a place in line awaiting the train, which no one can take away from you. It removes a little of the press when the train comes along.

THE street cars are divided into classes, it being cheaper to ride in one part than another. From what I gathered one must pay a little more to ride up near the motorman. Whether for an additional tax one might be allowed to ring his bell I so far have not discovered, but as an old volunteer firemen who had the job of ringing the bell on the old truck I am now making anxious inquiries.

Horses, drawing quaint wagons of all descriptions, are accoutred with bells that jingle with the rise and fall of the horses' front shoulders, if you know what I mean.

AS I write now and look out from my hotel window into the dazzling lights of the city I am moved to say that this city in no way resembles my native Carrick. It is a city, whose diversified immensities knock you for the well-known loop.

OLD LABOR TEMPLE AS IT VANISHES BENEATH AXES OF RAZERS MAKING WAY FOR NEW IMPROVEMENT OF THE POOR BUILDING

Here axes ring and a famous building in Pittsburgh vanishes, bit by bit. Once the Temple of Syria Shrine before the Shrine moved to Oakland, the building was long headquarters for labor unions and in its auditorium, for instance, a half dozen street car strikes were voted and ended.

WILKINSBURG YARD SCENE OF FIGHT

Fence Paling Used as Weapon In Row, Charges Victim, Suffering Cuts and Bruises

Mrs. Dorothy Phillips, 25, and her mother, Mrs. Ella Sutch, both of 1025 Hill avenue, Wilkinsburg, were committed to the county jail last night in connection with the beating yesterday afternoon of Mrs. Francis Gray, of 1028 Hill avenue, a neighbor.

Mrs. Phillips was charged with aggravated assault and battery and surety of the peace, and her mother with obstructing a process and surety of the peace, according to Justice of the Peace George B. Shields, of Wilkinsburg.

Mrs. Phillips is alleged to have rushed into the yard and began beating Mrs. Gray with a fence paling.

Mrs. Phillips and her mother had barricaded themselves in the second floor of their home when the officers arrived, they said. They escorted Mrs. Simpson to the office of Squire Shields where warrants for their arrest were issued.

Constable Adam Fornoff with two patrolmen then forced their way into the women's home and arrested them.

Mrs. Gray, suffering from several lacerations of the face and body bruises, was confined to bed in her home today, it was said.

BASS BECOMES RESEARCH AID

Dr. E. R. Weidlein, Director of Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, has announced the appointment of Dr. Lawrence W. Bass as executive assistant. Before coming to Pittsburgh Dr. Bass was a member of the scientific staff of The Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York.

Dr. Bass attended Tulane University and the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University, receiving a degree in 1919 from the latter institution. During his senior year at Yale he was a member of the student council, the class day committee, and the varsity lacrosse team.

Lawrence Bass

Dr. Bass continued his postgraduate studies at Yale, receiving his degree in chemistry in 1922. From 1923 until 1925 he was in Europe as American Field Servicee Fellow and Fellow of the International Education Board. During this time he continued his researches and studies at the Universities of Paris and Lille and at the Pasteur Institute.

Dr. Bass is the author of more than 20 scientific papers on the results of researches on the structure of the proteins, the structure of the nucleic acids, the relation of physical properties to structure, photochemistry, and complex salts. He is a member of the American Chemical Society and of the National Research Council's Subcommittee on Biological Properties of Light.

The 18-Day Diet Again

In response to an unabated flood of requests, the Sun-Telegraph is reprinting in daily installments Hollywood's 18-day diet, first presented to Sun-Telegraph readers by Louella O. Parsons, motion picture critic and writer.

SEVENTEENTH DAY

Breakfast—One-half grapefruit, melba toast, coffee; lunch, 1 chop, lettuce, grapefruit; dinner, broiled steak, tomato, celery, olives.

Melba toast is made by cutting white bread very thin—less than one-fourth inch—toasting it very slowly in oven under low fire until crisp and toasted all the way through and then buttering it as desired.

(The eighteenth day's installment of the diet will be published Thursday.)

BOY FUGITIVE RETAKEN

When Richard Troutman, 14, of Baden, Pa., was arraigned before the United States commissioner, it was learned that the youthful federal prisoner had escaped from the detention home of the Juvenile Court, Forbes street, after his commitment there three weeks ago pending the hearing. He had been arrested by postal authorities for alleged theft of a parcel post package containing a bathing suit from a mail box in Baden.

On July 13, according to the boy, he and three others being detained, escaped, and rode freight trains to Columbia, Pa., where they worked for a farmer for a day and then proceeded by freight to Scranton. There they fell into the hands of railroad police, who held them until the arrival of a parole officer from the detention home.

After the hearing he was taken back to the detention home pending trial in court.

PLAN REUNION FOR WAR VETS

The eleventh annual reunion of American war veterans will be held at Kennywood Park on August 31 under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Kennywood Park. It will be a great rally for the veterans who served in past wars.

Members of other organizations who assisted the Army in France also will be invited, and special provision will be made by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for the wounded and disabled ceterans.

To every man and women who served their flag in the late war and all previous American wars the gates of Kennywood will be opened wide. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and Kennywood Park will make every possible effort to provide a reunion unexcelled at any previous time—one that will linger long in the memo of every one who attends as a glorious, happy day of rest and pleasure.

POLITICS STIRS AVALON

A four-cornered fight for tax collector, with one woman and three men in the ring, holds the primary campaign spotlight in Avalon.

With all candidates making a canvass of the borough, predictions are made that the primaries September 17 will see an outpouring of voters seldom equalled in a local election.

WOMAN SEEKS OFFICE

Mrs. Marie G. Scott, the present collector, is seeking renomination. She was elected four years ago, defeating Eric B. Logan, World War veteran, who had been named by council to fill an unexpired term of one year. According to her friends, Mrs. Scott is the support of her father, mother and 14-year-old son.

Logan also has entered the lists again. He served with the Three Hundred and Twenty-third Infantry in France, holding the rank of second lieutenant. In addition to being tax collector for a year he formerly was borough treasurer for four years. He is a member of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

BURGESS UNOPPOSED

Also bending their energies in the race are H. A. Kroemer, well known news dealer, a resident of the borough for many years, and M. E. Rhea, a former councilman for 10 years, and a resident of Avalon for 28 years.

No candidates for burgess have thus far made their appearance against Grant Ritchie, the incumbent, who is up for renomination. Five councilmen also will be named.

SUES PARENTS OF HUSBAND

Claiming that her husband's relatives have alienated his affections and caused him to desert her and their 12-year-old son, Mrs. Anna B. Schafer, of Arlington avenue, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court for $35,000 damages against John D. Schafer and Maria Schafer, his wife, of Edith street, Duquesne. She claims that their son John, whom she married May 24, 1916, has been won away from her by his parents.

She alleged the parents first took their son away from her September 20, 1918. She says that for 10 years, until January 10, 1928, he remained away, when he returned to the city and she asked him to come back to her. The wife says he refused and has been making his home with his parents. Recently she went into desertion and nonsupport court and procured an order requiring her husband to contribute $9 a week to the support of his son.

Man Electrocuted By Wire in Mine

John Roddinski, 35, of Renton, Pa., was electrocuted when he came in contact with an electric wire while at work in Mine No. 3 of the Union Collieries Company, at Renton, late yesterday, according to a morgue report.

5 WOMEN HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Five women were injured slightly when their automobile left the highway and rolled down a 25-foot embankment into a creek near Mt. Royal yesterday. They were removed to St. Francis Hospital by passing motorists. The injured are Mrs. W. P. Beck, of 8971 East Woodrow street; Mrs. Mary Kennard, of 7208 Thomas boulevard; Mrs. Juniata Koegley, of 404 Hutchison avenue, Edgewood; Mrs. S. J. Parsons, of 7711 Snowden street, and Mrs. Samuel Loy, of 7620 Hamilton avenue. They were treated for cuts and bruises.

RUSH SCHOOLS AT WEST VIEW

The opening of the fall term of school in West View will see one new annex virtually completed and another under way, according to members of the school board.

A 5-room addition to the Junior high school is being rushed by Rose & Fisher, contractors. The foundation has been completed and walls are rising. The completion of the structure before September 20 will mean a bonus to the contractors. At the August meeting of the board, A. G. Lowe, architect, is expected to submit plans for a building to supplement the Oakwood grade school.

KIWANIANS PICK DELEGATES

A. W. Stevenson was elected district delegate to attend the state Kiwanis convention which will be held at Hazelton, Pa., September, at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the South Hills Kiwanis Club held in the Mt. Lebanon Lutheran Church, Washington road, yesterday. W. Rhodes McCaskey was elected alternate.

Mrs. Fred Aiken sang several songs and was accompanied by Miss Catherine Morrison, of Ingram.

Kenneth S. Burley led the singing. Mr. Aiken was in charge of the meeting.

Verona and Oakmont Hold Annual Picnic

The annual community outing sponsored by the Verona-Oakmont Board of Trade and the Oakmont Chamber of Commerce is being held in Kennywood Park today. The committee in charge was headed by John S. Wolfe, representing Verona, and John J. Gavin, representing Oakmont. Greek Catholic churches of the Pittsburgh district will observe Rusin Day at the park tomorrow.

Street Fair to Aid Milk and Ice Fund

A dancing platform 38 by 40 feet has been erected at Pointview and Bower streets for the street fair which the children of the Lincoln avenue community will give tonight as a benefit for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund. Dancing will be for adults only but other entertainment has been provided for the little folk.

McKeesport Mayor In Auto Wreck

When Mayor George H. Lysle, of McKeesport, with Mrs. Lysle and several other passengers in his sedan traveling through Greenock on the Boston-Greenock road in the direction of the Youghiogheny Country Club attempted to round a corner near the Greenock public school, a Nash sedan of Mount Vernon, traveling in the opposite direction, collided with the Mayor's car. No one was hurt.

Dogs, Cats to Compete In Bellevue Parade

The dog and the cat will parade together at the Bellevue High School athletic field Friday.

Also, white mice, bantam chickens, turtles, rabbits or what have the boys and girls of Bellevue. It will be called a "pet parade" and will be under the supervision of John L. Hunt, summer playground director.

Two borough policemen will be on hand and judges will present prizes for the smallest, largest and prettiest pets. The procession is scheduled to start at 2 p. m.

Greenock Launches Vacation School

A community church vacation Bible school had its inception with devotional exercises in Greenock Peace Evangelical Lutheran Church in charge of the pastor, W. Blair Claney, Jr., of Etna, Pa., a student pastor, who has assumed the Greenock pastorate until September 1 when he will return to college. The enrollment of the four classes totaled 70 and the teachers' faculty consists of Mrs. Pearl H. Rojohn, Mrs. Blanche R. Lenhart, Mrs. Evelyn B. Heath, Mrs. Marie R. McLaughlin, Rachel Nickolls, Edna Sandmeyer and Vera Heholt.

Eastern Stars Host To Home Inmates

Eighteen women of the Eastern Star Home, Balph avenue extension, Ross Township, will be guests Friday at the annual picnic, of Norwood Herrington chapter, Order of the Eastern Star in West View Park. Mrs. Mayme Bailey is superintendent of the home. Mrs. Margaret E. B. Keller is worthy matron of the chapter. The committee consists of Mrs. Elizabeth McPherson, Mrs. Mildred Springer and Mrs. Marienna Long.

TRUCK CRASHES POLE, 2 HURT

Harry Stevic, 38, was critically injured when the Rieck-McJunkin truck he was driving crashed into and broke a telephone pole and wires in South Side avenue, near Rockledge street, Spring Hill, today. F. P. Boyle, 25, of 5201 Penn avenue, riding with him, suffered an injured arm.

Boyle told police the steering gear snapped and that Stevic was hurled through the windshield.

Allegheny General Hospital reported Stevic's skull was crushed.

Boy Hurt By Auto, Suit Asks $30,000

Damages of $30,000 are asked by Bernard A. Woods, of Forest Hills, on behalf of his son, Bernard, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court against D. Louis McCormick, claiming the boy suffered a broken leg and other injuries when struck by the automobile of the defendant last March 16 at Ardmore boulevard and Lennox avenue.

EXCITEMENT AS M'DONALD YOUTH WENT TO CAMP

RUSH FOR WAITING TRUCK, THEIR GOLDEN COACH FOR TRIP TO FRESH AIR CAMP FOR SUMMER VACATION

A goodly percentage of the youth of McDonald, Pa., impatient, as you see, to get under way from downtown Pittsburgh to the Volunteers of America fresh air camp at Wildwood for a summer vacation in the open. They're part of the camp's second group.

8th Logan's Ferry Blast Victim Dies

The eighth victim of the explosion at the Logan's Ferry plant of the Aluminum Company of America, John Hronrs, died today in the Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington. He lived at 411 Tenth street, New Kensington.

Four other men, still in the hospital from burns suffered in the blast which followed ignition of aluminum dust last Thursday, were reported recovering.

Woman and 2 Men Held After Shooting

Police early today arrested two men and a woman following an alleged shooting in a rooming house at 20 East Lacock street. At the North Side Police Station they were booked as Myra Allen, 58, owner of the place; Richard Johnson, 30, and Philip Rayes, 29, a Mexican, roomers. Police said the woman admitted firing a shot from a revolver during a quarrel with the roomers, and that she had two revolvers when arrested. All were held as suspicious persons.

FIGURES ASKED ON MONUMENT

Council has asked Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, to submit estimates of moving the soldiers monument on Monument Hill, North Side, to a site in West Park favored by the city Art Commission.

Tom Reed, chief of the City Engineering Bureau, urged Council to take prompt action as the earth to be removed in cutting off the top of the hill when the monument is relocated is needed to fill North Side streets above flood level.

Council has passed legislation authorizing the removal and has appropriated $33,000 to finance the project.

The Art Commission has been studying the proposal for some time and was said to have four different recommendations. The favored one seemed to be near Lake Elizabeth in the vicinity of North avenue and Buena Vista street.

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 24.

Mr. Hoover's farm board has already helped the farmer beyond all expectations. They have told the eight million farm relief societies that infest Washington tha they didn't need them, and wouldn't do anything through them.

That's all the aid the farmer has ever needed was just to be relieved of the people who were making a living off of trying to relieve him.

China and Russia have gone to war, but they don't want the news to get out. They want to keep it quiet.

Tokio has given Bromley, our flier, permission to land in Japan. If he hadn't gotten it, he would have had to fly back to Tacoma, near Mount Seattle.

Yours, WILL.

RAILROAD TO SHARE COST OF BRIDGE IN TURTLE CREEK

COUNTY AIDED IN MOSS SIDE SPAN WORK

Pennsy to Pay $123,900, Give Right of Way and Make Fills Needed for Ramps

The County Commissioners today are expected to sign an agreement with engineers of the Pennsylvania railroad, whereby the railroad will pay $123,900 and contribute all the necessary right of way for the new Moss Side boulevard bridge over its tracks and yards in Turtle Creek. The railroad also will make fills for the ramps to the bridge, according to the agreement.

The project, approved by the bond issues of last year, is in Patton and North Versailles Townships. While the county is financing the improvement, it was revealed at the commissioners' meeting yesterday, the railroad seeks to share in the cost due to the elimination of grade crossings and general improvement for their yards. The payments are to be made on a monthly estimate.

SHARE ROAD COST

The county also has agreed to pay half the cost with Harmar Township for a cinder road after the state makes payment of $2,367.43 towards the improvement. The road project is 4,000 feet, extending from Guys Run road at Wilson Farm eastwardly towards Van Tine Farm, and will have 16-foot width at a total cos of $9,000.

Coraopolis Borough, requesting county aid for property damage involved in the widening of State Route No. 75 through State street, has been requested by the commissioners to stipulate the total cost before action will be taken.

PLAN WIDENING

The borough plans to add 20 feet additional to the 40-foot road being built by the state.

The commissioners yesterday approved paying damages in West View, expected to total $8,000, in the improvement of Franklin road to West View Borough line. Frank J. Gollmar, borough solicitor, appeared to ask the assistance.

MAYOR DENIES PLAN TO QUIT

Mayor Charles H. Kline has reiterated that his name will appear on the ballot for another term.

Mayor Kline issued the statement yesterday after his attention was called to rumors that he would withdraw as a candidate to succeed himself for one of various considerations, including an appointment to the bench.

The Mayor indicated that no combination of circumstances could induce him to quit his mayoralty candidacy.

Tobacco Income At Record Level

NEW YORK July 24.—Porto Rican American Tobacco conservative estimates place net income for year ended December 31, 1929, at record level. This is based on expansion in sales during first six months, higher return on Congress Cigar stock held and recent acquisition of controlling interest in Waitt-Bond, Inc. Actual cash earned will approximate $3.50 a share on 200,000 issued capital shares.

In addition to 150,000 shares of Waitt & Bond recently acquired company owns 222,000 shares of Congress Cigar making Porto Rican American one of largest factors in cigar industry. Total sales of three companies under Porto Rican control will exceed $30,000,000 during 1929. Company enjoys practical monopoly in cigaret field in Porto Rico. Estimated net from this source will be about $200,000 this year.

Islam Grotto Holds Outing at Idlewild

The annual outing of Islam Grotto was held in Idlewild Park, near Ligonier, yesterday, and was attended by more than 1,500 members and their families. A special train in two sections transported 1,000 persons to the grounds. The committee in charge of the outing was headed by Elmer H. Maier and George Youden.

DOROTHY A. SCHMALHORST

EX-PUPILS JOIN TECH FACULTY

Grace Ann Sheriff, of Wilkinsburg, and Dorothy A. Schmalhorst, of Cincinnati, both graduates of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, have been appointed to faculty positions at Carnegie for the coming college year, it is announced. Miss Sheriff, who received her degree in costume economics at the Margaret Morrison Carnegie College in 1924, has been named as instructor in costume economics. Miss Schmalhorst, who was graduated with a degree in painting and decoration in 1925, will join the staff of the Department of Painting and Decoration in the College of Fine Arts as an assistant.

Miss Sheriff, since her graduation from Carnegie, has been engaged as a teacher in several high schools in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Last year she taught sewing in the high school at Benwood, W. Va. Miss Schmalhorst has served as ceramic and metal instructor at Wheeling High School, craft instructor at Merrymeeting Camp, Me., and Chunn's Cove Camp, Asheville, N. C., jewelry and metal work instructor at Chautauqua Institute, New York, and is a former holder of a fellowship at the Louis Comfort Tiffany Foundation, New York. Recently she was assistant director of the Windsor Art Center at Richmond, Va.

Man Sought in Mail Fraud Here Arrested

The postal authorities in Pittsburgh were advised of the arrest in New York of Gerald C. Mackrett, former resident of Aurelia street, who is under indictment in the Federal district court on a charge of misuse of the mail in connection with the sale of stock of the Hand Truck Manufacturing Company.

About the time the indictment was handed down in May Mackrett left Pittsburgh and a search conducted by Post Office Inspector George V. Craighead led to his apprehension. Two other defendants, J. V. Matyasovics and J. I. Arbogast, are named in the indictment, both of whom are under bond.

Electors Seek Name Of Socialist Party

Pre-emption of the name Socialist Party has been asked in a petition to Common Pleas Court by five electors of the party making nominations by nomination papers. They say they have adopted the name and claim exclusive right to its use. Those signing the petition are Julius Weisberg, Robert Lieberman, William Adams, David Rinne and Emil Linibach.

INDIGESTION

ACIDINE never fails to banish and keep it away.

This remarkable new discovery really banishes, not merely relieves, indigestion, acidosis, gassiness, sour stomach, sick headache, acid stomach, chronic constipation, head colds and acid rheumatism. It alkalizes, balances excess acid, keeps the whole digestive system sweet and clean.

ACIDINE is the only perfect, modern, anti-acid which is combined with Japtase, a powerful starch digestant—it digests 900 times its own weight of pure potato starch in 30 minutes. Your stomach deserves protection. ACIDINE gives it.

A meat and starch digestant, anti-acid and carminative beyond compare. Soothing to the stomach and intestinal membranes. Slightly laxative, but not excessively so. A really perfect medicine for mother, father, children and babies. Used and recommended by physicians everywhere. Money back guarantee. At all druggists, or write Health Laboratories, Inc. CRONIN CHARGE ANSWERED BY RECEIVERS

Contracting Firm Operators Claim Petitioner Owes $96,727 Shown by Books

Claiming that Harry Cronin is not owed $1,560 by the receivers of the Thomas Cronin Company, contractors, George Vang and George H. Lanz, the receivers, have filed an answer in Common Pleas court to Cronin's petition for discharge of the receivers, in which they state that Harry Cronin owes the receivers $96,727. They aver this is shown by the books of the company kept under direction of Cronin.

ADMIT LEASING SHOVELS

The receivers admit that the Vang Construction Company leased steam shovels from the Cronin company at $350 a month, but deny that the standard rental price is $500. They say the Cronin shovels were in bad repair. They admit the Iron City Sand and Gravel Company, of which Lanz is an officer, rented a Cronin steam shovel for eight days, but say the company is solvent and ready to pay for this shovel. They deny making overcharges for repairs to Cronin equipment.

They admit the City of Pittsburgh owes the Cronin company $18,353 for work on Cambrone street, and say this has not been collected because of a delay in the public works department over the estimates.

FINISH HILL ROADWAY

The receivers say the Cronin company, prior to 1927, under management of Harry Cronin, was a reputable going concern. Then the receivers allege Cronin neglected the business and it became necessary for the creditors to ask for a receiver.

Vang and Lanz acted as a creditors' committee and the first receiver was discharged February 1, 1929. Vang and Lanz, having become officers and directors of the company, took charge of its affairs, until they were appointed receivers October 6, 1928.

De Paul Institute Fund Appeal Made

An appeal for funds for the De Paul Institute, of Castlegate avenue, Brookline, is made to the 700,000 Catholics in the 10 counties of Western Pennsylvania, in a pastoral letter sent out by the Bishop Hugh C. Boyle. The letter will be read in all Catholic churches on Sunday, August 4, and a special collection will be taken up. Sermons dealing with Christ's healing of the deaf mute will be delivered.

Memorial mass in St. Adalbert's Church, South Fifteenth street, marked Pittsburgh Poles' respects for Major Louis Idzikowski, pilot killed in a crash in the Azores in his attempt to fly to America. In the group is Msgr. John S. Gorzynski, celebrant of the mass. On his right is Dr. Carlos F. Schisano, Italian aviation major, and on his left Consul A. M. Ocetkiewicz.

CLARK TO STUDY TAXI PROTEST

Council has ordered Safety Director James M. Clark to investigate a complaint of Seventh Ward residents that the Green Cab Company monopolizes Ellsworth avenue by keeping cabs parked most of the day between College and Maryland avenues.

Robert Garland requested Clark to report his findings and provide a remedy to relieve the nuisance. Garland declared if the people were not satisfied with the department's efforts, the residents would be given a hearing before Council.

The objectors stated that 75 cabs are often parked so closely that a pedestrian cannot "squeeze between them." In case of fire in an abutting building it would take half an hour to clear the streets of cabs, they averred.

The petitioners declared they had taken the complaint to "different city officials" and were told "we can't do anything."

Taxicab drivers also race their motors for long periods and create a noise that "is like France during the war," the letter stated.

West Liberty Ave. Traffic Studied

Council has adopted John S. Herron's motion directing Traffic Engineer Burten W. Marsh to recommend relief for the traffic situation on West Liberty avenue between Liberty tunnel and Cape May avenue. Herron pointed out that traffic has increased to such proportions that street car patrons must get to and from the trolleys at the risk of life and limb. He recommended the installation of stop-and-go signals at the busy loading points.

127-Year Sentence Maximum For Clarke

NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS.)—James Rae Clarke, one of four partners, three of whom were brothers, today faces 127 years in prison if he is sentenced on all of 26 counts to which he pleaded guilty in State and Federal Courts on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The Clarke private bank failed recently for more than $5,000,000. Clarke's wife voluntarily has turned over $200,000 of her own property towards aiding depositors.

Federal and State prosecutors said today they will decide whether the other partners will be proceeded against.

Kittanning Pastor Dies Touring Europe

GROVE CITY, Pa., July 24.—Word has been received of the death in Europe of the Rev. Thomas A. Gibson, pastor of the Kittanning United Presbyterian Church, who was on tour with several other ministers. The Rev. Mr. Gibson was a native of Worth Township. He had preached here on many occasions.

PLAN RIVER TRIP TO ST. PAUL

Capt. Fred Way, Jr., president of the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati Packet Line, will leave the local harbor August 10 for a round trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis, a distance of 4,000 miles. The passenger list will be limited to 60.

The Betsy Ann has been withdrawn from service on the Ohio until October, due to the entry of the Queen City in the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati trade. The Betsy Ann will be the first boat in 15 years to make the trip out of this harbor to St. Paul and Minneapolis.

OPPOSE MORE CONSTABLES IN CITY

Association Tells Court There Are Enough Now to 'Clean Up' Second Ward

Opposition to the McManus-Flannigan-Verona faction's application for the appointment of four deputy constables "to clean up the Second Ward" came from an unexpected quarter when a protest was filed in Quarter Sessions Court by the Constables' Beneficial and Protective Association of Allegheny County, claiming that there are enough elected constables and deputies in the county to cope with the Second Ward vice situation, even if it is as bad as the deposed ward chairman, Owen McManus, informed Judge Frank P. Patterson, when the first hearing was held last Thursday.

Albert Buss, appointed Second Ward constable following the death of Constable James J. McManus last March, had petitioned for the appointment of John T. Sullivan, Leonard G. Delp, Eugene Ford and Frank Keefe to assist him, working out of the office of Alderman G. J. Anderson. He said the latter was using deputies from other wards. Judge Patterson sent for Anderson, who had not been informed of the move on the part of Constable Buss, and held final action over until tomorrow so Anderson may reply.

THE CART BEFORE THE HORSE

Man is only as old as his blood vessels and the stomach controls the blood stream by refining the food into Amnacacid molecules. So we have the cart before the horse. How little we think the stomach controls high blood pressure and most all supposedly incurable diseases! Every organ in the body receives its allowance and maintenance from the stomach. Why do we impose on it? Nobody cares how much—because it has to take what you give it and say nothing until some future date. You get a message from the Kidney—Bright's Disease, Hardening of the Arteries; a message from the Heart—Myocarditis, with what you call Rheumatism produced by toxins in the blood stream; Stiff Joints and painful Muscles. The Liver always trying to do what the stomach fails to accomplish. Give up the fight and the patient drifts into Pernicious Anaemia. The time has come for us to stop dreaming and abusing this wonderful organ that can digest all but itself. Imagine, if this organ could talk and tell its tale of woe, the Radio would never get through. When I examine thousands of people, I always think of the sodbuster whipping the tired horse, compelling him to pull the load. Most fortunately, doctors are being educated through Research Laboratories, seeking the cause and enforcing the Law of Prevention.

A clear skin is irresistible

... in fact, popularity depends upon it

THAT priceless treasure—a clear, flawless, lovely skin—charms, with admiration, the hearts of men.

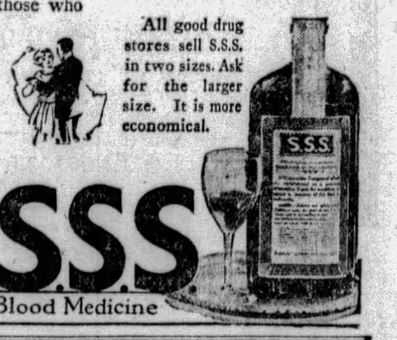
First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely—clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh, and clearing the skin. S.S.S. promotes constructive metabolism (healthy body building). It increases the number of red-blood-cells.

The way to the skin is through the blood. Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.



S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

FIREMEN DISCOVER MOONSHINE PLANT IN HOMESTEAD

BLAZE STARTED BY STILL ON TOP FLOOR

Huge Operation Revealed and Negro Arrested; Other Raids Net Four Arrests

Homestead firemen fighting a blaze in a double four-story frame house at 532 Elm way, Homestead, uncovered a large and up-to-date distillery, according to a report the firemen submitted to borough police. A 300-gallon still was found on the fourth floor, firemen say.

Robert Perry, 24, a Negro, was found in the house and arrested. Police say he is the caretaker of the plant. The still, encased in a concrete foundation, occupied the entire fourth floor, and on the third floor 200 barels of mash were stored. The first and second floors were occupied by Negro families. The fire was confined to the two upper floors.

ODOR CAUSES RAID

The odor of moonshine issuing from a dwelling in Jack's Run road, Bellevue, resulted in a raid on the building and the seizure of a 150-gallon still, and large quantities of mash and moonshine and the arrest of John Butkovich, 60, of McDowell street, yesterday, prohibition agents said. Investigation by the agents disclosed that the odor was created by a loose connection on a drain pipe.

Liquor violations were discovered, agents declared, in raids on the homes of Elizabeth Parlek, of 1016 Washington avenue, and Victor Wlostowski, of 600 Sixth street, both of Braddock, and John Valencic, and John Zonisky, both of Renton, Pa.

ATTACKS EVIDENCE

Thomas White, arrested in connection with a raid by prohibition agents April 20 at 964 Liberty avenue, filed a motion in Federal court asking that evidence seized in the raid be suppressed against him. The "evidence" consists of 10 gallons of moonshine whisky, 11 cases of ale and other alleged contraband, according to the return made on the search warrant.

The motion avers the search and seizure was illegal because the copy of the search warrant handed him by the raiders was not dated and not signed and sealed by the United States commissioner. He claims the description on the warrant of the place to be searched was erroneous and there had not been probable cause for the issuance of the warrant.

A rule was granted by Judge R. M. Gibson on the government to show cause why the motion should not be granted.

COAL MEN WAR ON CHEATERS

Thirty members of the Pittsburgh Coal Dealers' Association, at a dinner in the Fort Pitt Hotel last night, made plans for securing cooperation of the city in passing more stringent legislation governing false weights and measures in the sale of coal by retailers.

The association indorsed the declaration of principles adopted by the National Retail Coal Merchants' Association, which condemns improper preparation of coal by producers, exorbitant freight rates, profiteering, direct selling in carload lots and government ownership.

COUNCIL BALKS PARK SHOWS

Council has deferred action on a resolution from Mayor Charles H. Kline appropriating $5,000 for free Sunday motion picture shows in city parks.

The resolution was submitted Monday with a letter from the Mayor explaining that he proposed to transfer the funds from an account in his office.

Daniel Winters and John S. Herron moved to have the resolution approved, but failed to get support from a legal majority.

The measure was returned to the Mayor with a request for an explanation of how he came to have $5,000 surplus in one of the office accounts.

Moore, Eustace, Fla.; August 18, the Rev. Dr. R. S. Johnston, Fourth United Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Hugh Leith, of the Second Presbyterian Church, Wilkinsburg, occupied the pulpit last Sunday.

Propeller Hits, Injures Schlee

DETROIT, July 24.—(AP).—Edward F. Schlee, co-pilot with William S. Brock on the flight from Detroit to Tokio in 1927, is in Harper Hospital in a partially conscious condition as the result of injuries suffered late yesterday. He was struck by a propeller of a plane at the Detroit City airport.

Dr. Raymond S. Slate, Schlee's physician, said his injuries consisted of a slight concussion of the brain and lacerations of the scalp, left shoulder and left elbow. The doctor said Schlee's condition was "serious although not critical."

Alleged Robber Says He Was Robbed

Max Hills, 34, an orderly at the Passavant Hospital, was arrested early today in connection with the alleged theft of $37.50 from Albert Ekstrand, of 5562 Holbart street, a patient. Hills is said to have left the hospital yesterday afternoon, returning shortly after 1 a. m. today. He said he was robbed of $47.50 at Twenty-ninth street and Spring way. He was held as a suspicious person at the Center Avenue Station.

Shipping Board Asks For Oil Bids

WASHINGTON, — July 24. — The United States Shipping Board has asked for bids for supplying its requirements of Diesel fuel oil at the ports of Balboa or Cristobal, Canal Zone, during the period from September 1, 1929, to August 31, 1930. Requirements are estimated at 25,000 barrels per month. Bids will be opened August 20.

THREE SCHOOLS TO BE CLOSED

The Board of Public Education yesterday authorized the closing of the Obey, Stevenson and Windgap public schools in the former Chartiers Township, as recommended at a committee meeting Monday. Pupils in these schools will be transferred to the Westlake, Shaffer, Harwood, Chartiers and Fairywood schools.

Contracts were awarded for an addition to the Madison School, Milwaukee street, in the Hill district, aggregating an expenditure of $253,590, and the purchase of property of the Lee Tennis Club, adjoining the Lee School, Los Angeles street, South Hills, at a price not to exceed $1,800. The club was granted permission to use the property until it is required by the board.

Contracts for repairs to a number of other buildings also were authorized, with purchase of beauty parlor equipment for the Irwin Avenue Girls' Trade School, North Side, to cost $253.

Two Stores Robbed, Pedestrian Held Up

Two robberies and a holdup were reported to the Detective Bureau early today. Albert Danbern reported that his store at Hazelwood and Murray avenue was robbed of $50 during the night. A case of bath robes was reported stolen from the Model Garment Company, 915 Fifth avenue. Harry Garnet, 5210 Kincaid street, was held up by two Negroes in front of his home and robbed of $13.

FIGHT PUSHED FOR SUSPECT

Assistant District Attorney J. E. Kalson, who returned to Pittsburgh yesterday to confer with District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner on the extradition of Salvatore Accorsi from New York, wanted here on a murder charge, will go to New York tonight to attend another hearing tomorrow before the Appellate division of the New York courts.

Accorsi is wanted in the shooting of John Downey, a state trooper, following dispersal of a Sacco-Vanzetti meeting in Cheswick in August, 1927.

At a meeting two weeks ago extradition was granted, but attorneys for the accused man have taken exceptions on technical points and procured writs to delay his return to Pittsburgh, according to Kalson.

600 ON TRAIN SHAKEN UP IN COLLISION

Engine Crew Averts Disaster In Crash in P. R. R. Yards Near Station Train Shed

The alertness of a railroad engineer in setting his brakes when he saw a train of empty cars approaching head on, averted disaster in the Pennsylvania railroad yards near the train shed late yesterday afternoon.

A train carrying 600 workmen from shops and factories in the Turtle Creek Valley, collided head-on with a train of empty cars leaving the shed. Passengers were shaken up, but no one was injured.

The passenger train was entering the station at 5 o'clock when the engineer saw the string of empties approaching. He applied his brakes and brought the train almost to a halt when it collided with the other engine.

The engine crew of the other train threw on the brakes and leaped to the ground.

KILLING OF TWO CONFESSED

TAVARES, Fla., July 24.—(AP.)—The mystery that shrouded the brutal slaying of an elderly couple in their filling station at Mohawk, on the night of July 6, was cleared away by Lake County authorities, who announced that one of three men in jail here had confessed to the slaying, implicating one of the others under arrest. A special grand jury will investigate the case today.

Officers said H. W. Prescott, an alligator hunter, of Fisherman's Paradise, had confessed he and J. C. Pike, of Winter Garden, beat Mrs. Angie Gillis and Levi Allen to death with a hammer during an argument over payment for soft drinks and money due them for alligator hides they had sold the couple.

Ruffin Rogers, of Apoka, the third man held, Prescott said, sought to assist him and Pike in "framing" a story of an all-night alligator hunt. Rogers is held as a material witness.

COUNTY LOSES ITS FIGHT FOR 'POLISH JOHN'

State Decides Somerset Has Prior Claim to Member Of Jaworski Robber Gang

Frank Mosczenski, 28, known as "Polish John," alleged member of the Jaworski Flathead gang, arrested recently in Buffalo, should be returned to Somerset County authorities according to a ruling yesterday of Deputy Attorney General John Scott, of Harrisburg, referee in a battle to decide whether Allegheny County or Somerset County warrants shall have precedence with Buffalo authorities.

Scott ruled that the Somerset County officials were entitled to the prisoner because they were first to file a warrant in Harrisburg, after learning that he had been captured.

WANTED FOR HOLDUP

District Attorney Lindsay, of Somerset County, said that they wanted Mosczenski for the holdup June 6 of the Central City Bank, at Central City.

Mosczenski was implicated in the holdup by Felix Fertak, "brains" of the Jaworski mob, who is serving a 32-year sentence in the Western Penitentiary.

Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren and Detective John W. Geisler represented Allegheny county.

COUNTY GOT HIM

Despite the fact that Allegheny county authorities were principally responsible for his apprehension in Buffalo, it had no bearing with Attorney Scott, Detective Geisler informed District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner last night.

Chief of Detectives F. E. Vele, of Buffalo, informed of Scott's action, declared that he will not turn over the prisoner to Somerset authorities unless ordered so by New York courts. He assumed this attitude because the Somerset authorities did not participate in his arrest, and knew nothing of it until reading newspaper accounts of the capture.

Careful, Mother! When your baby's fretful, feverish, don't give him something intended for grown-ups! There's no use when you can get Fletcher's Castoria—the pure vegetable, pleasant tasting preparation doctors recommend for babies—which millions of mothers know is safe.

Give Fletcher's Castoria at the first sign something's wrong. See how quickly it will comfort a restless, crying youngster. When Baby has caught cold, it keeps the little bowels from clogging. It quickly relieves colic, gas, diarrhea, constipation, etc., in babies—and older children, too. Keep on with it until your child is grown. Bigger appetite, better digestion, more perfect elimination will surely reward this sensible care. Be sure you get genuine Castoria. Look for the Fletcher signature on the wrapper.

Hands Artists Rave About

Whenever New York artists or photographers want an exquisite pair of hands for "close up" reproduction they call in Annette Grandin. She has hands of rare beauty that can stand "close up" reproduction, because they are so delicately white and smooth.

"The secret," Miss Grandin says, "lies not in any special care, or in the use of fancy lotions, but simply in a skin bleach of my own making. I get three ounces of Orchard White at the corner druggist and mix it with the juice of two lemons. This makes a full quarter pint of a remarkable, and at the same time perfectly harmless bleach. I rub a little into my hands—also my neck and face—every night and this keeps my skin not only clear and white, but soft and smooth."

No Fun on his Vacation

Will you meet attractive people on your vacation? Will they like you? Will that charming girl you're sure to find, side step dates with you? It all depends.

This man has good looks, personality, and money—but men and women alike have avoided him for years. He has a lonely time of it wherever he goes.

Don't fool yourself

Halitosis (unpleasant breath) is a barrier to friendship, affection and business progress.

So many every day conditions cause it that no one is entirely free of it. And since you cannot tell when you have it, the one way of putting yourself on the safe side is to use Listerine as a mouth wash 3 times a day. Take a bottle with you on your vacation—or don't go.

Kills germs—destroys odors

Full strength Listerine ends halitosis because it strikes at the germs which cause odors. And instantly destroys odors themselves. Our free Book of Etiquette is yours for the asking. Address Dept. H 10, Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

Keep Cool, Men

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Hunts Plan Debutante Dinner

WE have little chance to acquire a narrow viewpoint these days, with a perspective widened to include events so far in the future. A great many, in fact the majority, of next winter's hostesses are away from home just now, enjoying breezes a few degrees cooler than the ones sweeping through city street. But every now and then we hear about a party that someone or other is planning for the season to come, making the social calendar just that much fuller.

One of the latest additions to the list of next winter's affairs is a dinner dance which the Roy Arthur Hunts, of Ellsworth avenue, are planning for the Saturday after Thanksgiving, November 30, in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. They will have as their guest of honor one of the debutantes, Elizabeth Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Isaac Biddle Thomas, of St. James street, who will make her bow at a luncheon which her mother will give the day before, November 29, in the Golf Club. Elizabeth is abroad this summer, studying in France, but will return home in September in time to enter her second year at Bryn Mawr.

LISTED among those who are just leaving home are Mrs. James W. Henry and her daughter, Frances, of Bigelow boulevard, and her son and daughter-in-law, the junior James W. Henrys, of the Ruskin apartments. They are sailing Saturday on the Belgenland for France, and when they land the senior Mrs. Henry and her daughter will go direct to Carlsbad to remain for a month. Mr. and Mrs. Henry, Jr., are planning to tour the Italian lake region, and they will all return on the Homeric late in September.

William Booth, of Grant street, Sewickley, and his wife, the former Isabel Grimes, left last Friday, I hear, to motor to Georgian Bay, Ontario, where they will stay for about three weeks. And by the way, Mr. Booth's sister, Marguerite, gave a small bridge party Monday afternoon in her home in Grant street, in honor of Helen Smith.

Mrs. David Herbst Campbell, of Walnut street, has been entertaining a few young people in her home for the last few days, the guests being friends of her daughter, Phoebe Jane. They included Helen Van Sciver, of Haddonfield; William Robert Adams, of Amsterdam, N. Y., and Robert Warburton and Max Miller, of Akron, O. The young folks left for their homes today.

Miss Ethel Christy and her brother, Bayard H. Christy, of Frederick avenue, Sewickley, have returned from Ireland after a two months' tour. Their sister, Miss Abby Christy, went on to New York to meet them when they landed from the Duchess of Bedford, which sailed from Belfast.

AT 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Whitmarsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Whitmarsh, of Princeton place, Swissvale, and Ernest S. Craighead, son of Mrs. F. G. Craighead, of Edgewood, was solemnized in the bride's home by her brother, the Rev. David C. Whitmarsh, of McKeesport, assisted by the Rev. William Hezlep, of Jahnsi, India, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. The bride wore duchess satin and lace with a tulle veil held with a cap of old lace, and she carried a shower of rosebuds. There were no attendants. A reception for the families and a few friends followed the ceremony and later, Mr. and Mrs. Craighead left for a Canadian trip. They will be at home in Edgewood after September 1.

THE wedding of Miss Dorothy Gail McKee, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Claud W. McKee, of Greensburg, and Avra Pershing, of Greensburg, is taking place today at 4:30 o'clock in the McKee home with the Rev. Dr. Frederick Esenwein, of the Greensburg Methodist Episcopal Church, officiating. The bride is wearing white duchess satin and tulle with a veil of tulle banded with satin, and she is carrying a shower of orchids, sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Betty McKee, as maid of honor, appears in white chiffon made with a cape effect, and girdled with salmon pink satin which forms a short train. Her hat is of white horsehair braid and her flowers are salmon pink roses. Similar frocks with girdles of turquoise blue satin are worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Katherine Pershing, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Elizabeth Jamison, of Greensburg; Miss Carolyn Ingles, of Ann Arbor, and Miss Florence Holmes, of Grand Rapids, Mich. They are also wearing white horsehair braid hats carrying salmon pink roses and blue delphinium. Blair Patterson, of Edgewood, is best man and the ushers include T. C. Zellers, of McKeesport; Charles Call, of this city; Carl Robinson, of Philadelphia, and Richard Coulter III, of Greensburg. A reception in the Greensburg Country Club followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Pershing will tour Canada and the White Mountains, and after September 1 will be at home in Greensburg.

THE marriage of Miss Margaret Harriet Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Fleming, of South School street, Avalon, and Ira Robert Cumming, son of Mrs. Amelia Cumming, of Joliet, Ill., was solemnized last Friday at 5:30 o'clock in the Fleming home by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Leith, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg. The bride wore a bouffant frock of ivory satin and her veil was of tulle, an heirloom in the family. She carried roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. J. Wilbur Watkins, of Bellevue, was her cousin's matron of honor, appearing in green chiffon and carrying pink gladioli and roses. Thomas Neely, of Wilkinsburg, was best man and the ushers included J. Wilbur Watkins and Rhys Wolcott. Miss Elizabeth Smith played the wedding music and Miss Catherine Gerwig sang. A dinner in the Highland Country Club followed the ceremony. After a motor trip to the Virginia mountains, Mr. and Mrs. Cumming will be at home in Linden avenue, Edgewood.

THE immediate families and a few friends attended the silver wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beeh, of Marguerite street, Wilmerding, which was held last Sunday at South County Park. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beeh, of Cutler street, North Side, who were best man and bridesmaid at the wedding 25 years ago, were among the guests.

MRS. HELENA A. QUIRK, of North Fremont avenue, Bellevue, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss A. Renelda Quirk, and Paul L. Lindsay, of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Oscar Lindsay, of the North Side, which was solemnized Monday in Chicago by Msgr. Griffin. Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay will make their home in Chicago. Miss Leonore M. Quirk was her sister's maid of honor, and Edward Hennigan, of Chicago, was best man. Before leaving for Chicago, the bride was guest of honor at several parties, among those entertaining being Miss Rose Schopp, of Beechview; Miss Helen McCabe, of the East End, and Miss Lilion Stophel, of Duquesne.

MISS MARY SCULLY, of Howard street, East McKeesport, gave a linen shower Saturday in honor of Miss Dorothy Koons, of East Pittsburgh, whose marriage to Walter MacNary, of Chicago, will be solemnized August 21. Both Miss Scully and Miss Koons are members of the Alpha Delta Sigma sorority, University of Pittsburgh.

Alterations Made At Club Congress

MIDSUMMER visitors to the Congress of Clubs are noting the several changes and improvements being made in the club house. One of the most radical is the new hallway on the second floor, which has cut off entrance from the president's office to the Outlook Alliance room, at the same time making a much-needed entrance into the hallway. The exterior of the club house presents a bright and shining appearance under its new paint. The kitchens also have been repainted and a new warming oven is a recent addition to the equipment. Before the summer is over the Maryland College Club room will be repapered and the ceiling in the lounge done over. All the other wallpapers in the house have been cleaned and the entire place is as attractively cool as a summer resort hotel.

BOGGS & BUHL

REMNANT DAY

FRIDAY—Day After Tomorrow

The first Remnant Day ever held was, as far as records and memory show, Boggs & Buhl's original Remnant Day, a half century ago---a statement which has never been challenged or refuted. Friday will witness the 101st semi-annual Remnant Day at Boggs & Buhl---the beginning of a "Second Century of Remnant Days"---a day that will be made memorable by values exceeding the far-famed record-making values of all the 100 previous Remnant Days.

Friday—the 101st—the greatest of all B & B Remnant Days . . . more people will be served—more purchases made—than in any previous time. Red Ink Prices, rock bottom prices, will do the work—cost given scant consideration in this relentless and sweeping clearance which pokes into every nook and cranny of the store.

Tens of thousands of people crowd into the store on these occasions—communities from hundreds of miles around, from three states, pour into the store in this one great day, literally thousands of thrifty, provident, foresighted shoppers—keen to realize on values that have no parallel.

Ready-to-Wear, Underwear, Accessories, Housefurnishings, of every kind and for every person, included—surplus goods, overstocks, broken lines, odd pieces and lengths—the greater part from the season's best selling lines—seasonable, useful and desirable. From store opening to store closing, values such as are seldom witnessed will meet you on every hand. Remnant Day Red Ink Prices that mean just one thing—the utmost in value-giving—prices drastically slashed.

Store opens at 8:30 Remnant Day—a half hour early—that more may be served, and more comfortably—and to take care of early rising business folk.

BUCCOS' LEAD IN DANGER

SPORT COMMENT

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

McKechnie Comes Back. Friends Are Pleased. Vindication for Bill.

Where Southworth Failed. Weak With Pitchers. The Schmeling Mixup.

BRIDGEVILLE CLUB IN LINE

(NOTE—James J. Long is confined by illness and during his absence this column will be conducted by the sports editor.)

THE many friends of Bill McKechnie, of Wilkinsburg, who were shocked when he was deposed as manager of the Pirates after winning a pennant with them and then beheaded as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals after leading them to the National League flag last season, were gratified beyond words by the news that he has been called back from Rochester, of the International League, to take up the wreck of the Cardinals and try to save the club from complete rout. Billy Southworth, former Pirate outfielder, who was manager of the Rochester club last season, has proved entirely incapable of getting the St. Louis club into anything resembling a winning stride.

Bill McKechnie

McKechnie always has been recognized as one of the headiest of baseball leaders and Owner Sam Breadon, of the Cardinals, who so brutally removed him from the management of the club because of the failure of the Cards to make a showing against the slugging Yankees in the world series last fall, proves himself a sportsman when he eats crow in taking back Bill and frankly admitting he made a mistake. He is quoted as follows in news dispatches from St. Louis:

"McKechnie has made good wherever he has served. I myself took the world series of 1928 too much to heart and now realize that I made a mistake. I still believe that we have the best club in the National League and think that under McKechnie we again will get into the fight for the pennant."

If that isn't complete vindication for Sweet Willyum, of Wilkinsburg, then there is no such animal.

JUST what effect the return of McKechnie to the major leagues in a blaze of glory will have on his announced campaign for the office of tax collector of the borough of Wilkinsburg remains to be seen. According to friends of McKechnie, he was disgusted with the kicking around he had received at the hands and feet of the baseball magnates and was at the point of giving up the game to settle down to a more peaceful role in his home town. The position of tax collector is a lucrative one and his army of friends were organizing to put him over at the polls. That McKechnie may have had an inkling of his return to St. Louis is indicated by the fact that he has delayed opening his fight for the political post while all of the other candidates already have swung into the battle with full vigor.

Owner Breadon, of the Cards, uttered another mouthful when he said that he still retained faith in Southworth, who won the International League pennant at Rochester, a farm of the Cardinals, last year, but realized now that Billy was too young in the matter of experience to cope with the so-called master minds of the majors. McKechnie takes off his chapeau to none of them in this connection. He is quiet and noncombative, but he attains his end through the medium of the soft-spoken word and plenty of old-fashioned plain thinking.

Sam Breadon

SOUTHWORTH'S main difficulty, according to the St. Louis players, was his inability to juggle his pitching staff properly. He had virtually the same corps of hurlers that won the pennant for the Cards last year, yet he had all of them off their stride before the campaign was very far under way. Working them out of turn, failure to send in relief men at the proper junctures and similar other tactical errors were charged against him. Billy is a good, hustling, live-wire baseball man and he was brought on to put more fight and life into the Cardinals. These things he gave them, but at the price of McKechnie's more mature judgment and smoother methods. The standing of the club today is the answer to the question of which system is the better for results.

WE have not heard the last of the Max Schmeling mixup. The New York State Athletic Commission at a meeting yesterday with William F. Carey, representing the Madison Square Garden interests, stood pat on its decision that Maxie must box Phil Scott for Humbert Fugazy at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, before he will be allowed to fight anybody else in New York State, and Carey, while keeping his counsel, intimated strongly that the corporation would take its Schmeling-Jack Sharkey bout elsewhere, likely to Chicago or Detroit or even to Philadelphia, following in the footsteps of the late Tex Rickard, who took his two Tunney-Dempsey bouts to Philadelphia and Chicago and drew record purses with them after running afoul of ukases from the New York commission.

Max Schmeling

THE whole sorry mess in the Schmeling case is the result of Maxie's ingratitude toward the man who gave him his big opportunity, one Arthur Bulow, who brought the "German Dempsey" to the United States and made the connections whereby he was able to get the bouts that brought him world fame. In order to achieve this, Bulow had to "cut in" certain famous New York fistic hangers-on, who eventually succeeding in alienating Maxie's affections. Now Maxie doesn't even want to know or hear of Bulow and won't go through with any matches the latter has contracted for him.

One of these fine days, Schmeling will wake up a sadly disillusioned young man and will wish he had stuck by the friends of his early days. Boxers who toss away their managers on the slightest provocation for new ones seldom get any real breaks and oftener than not wind up wishing they had not listened to the blandishment of interlopers.

SPEAKING of the action of the New York commission yesterday, the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission also made a move in the right direction when it sent on its secretary, Bob Young, from Philadelphia, to clear up the Bridgeville Speedway entanglements which had resulted in the suspension of the new club. Representing Chairman Frank Wiener. Young spent only a few hours in the city yesterday, but during that brief period he had an interview with Max Cryns, the Bridgeville promoter, during which he laid down the law with regard to matches and the conduct of shows. He recognized that much of the club's laxity was due to unfamiliarity with the commission's code and believes there will be no further trouble along these lines.

Frank Wiener

THE Speedway club will have to submit its matches to the commission before announcing them, and main bouts will have to be sanctioned at least five days before they are to be fought, as is the case with other clubs, and the result should be better shows and real protection for the public. Under no circumstances will the club be permitted to show George Godfrey, the Black Shadow, of Lieperville, for the reason that it is understood it cannot afford to pay an opponent who might be deemed a worthy foe for him.

BURKE, MALONE GIVE TALKS AT DINNER

The presentation banquet of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, winding up the affairs of the second annual Western Pennsylvania junior tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, which was held in the blue room of the William Penn Hotel last night, proved a splendid success in every respect.

The tournament winners, Joe Stevenson, John Zamiska, Jr., Chris Paterlini, Carl Scajbarretti and the Castle Shannon Golf Club team, composed of August Book, Mike Sheats, Shern Roni and Adolph Matthews, received their prizes from the hands of President of City Council James F. Malone, who graciously and unselfishly gave of his time to be present to congratulate the winners.

BURKE LAUDS TOURNEY

John Jay Burke, honorary director of the tournament, was the first speaker on the after dinner program. Not only did he laud the event itself as a remarkable piece of work, with regard to making golf history, but he spoke highly of the man who had the foresight of inaugurating it, William Randolph Hearst, whom he praised as the "Mussolini of Journalism."

Burke added:

"There is nothing so pleasing to anyone as to see the competitive spirit displayed by these boys who played in the tournament—and especially those who won. The traditions of the game are founded upon honor, and as such each game these boys play assists them in reaching the proper mark in life.

"The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's tournament this year was a greater success than its first annual event last year, and it was thought at that time no greater height could be reached. I want to congratulate the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, and especially Mr. Hearst, whom I consider the Mussolini of Journalism, upon its unexcelled work," he also said.

KECK IS SPEAKER

Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, also spoke of the tournament, telling the banquet guests that the Sun-Telegraph anticipated holding a similar tournament each year, with the aim of a national tournament in the years to come. He thanked Malone, Burke and the other honor guests for giving of their time to help put the tournament across.

In his presentation speech, President of City Council Malone told the boys that there was nothing worth while in sport or any other branch of life unless the individual gave every effort he had in him. He was proud of the fact City Council was enabled to set aside a day at Schenley Park especially for the staging of the tournament.

WINNERS GET AWARDS

In turn he presented the prizes. First Joe Stevenson, the 14-year-old Greensburg Country Club caddie, who scored a 69 in the tournament, was awarded the William Randolph Hearst trophy, the solid gold medal emblematic of that honor and a set of six matched iron clubs.

Then John Zamiska, of Bentleyville, was given a steel-shafted driver and a gold medal for his work in copping the runner-up honors with a 70 in the tournament and a 74 in the playoff. Christopher Paterlini, of Monongahela, then was rewarded with a midiron and a silver medal for his superb work in copping third honors with a 70 in the tournament and a 79 in the playoff.

TOMORROW—THE LIVING TOMB

CRAWLEY SAYS HE'LL UPSET FIGHT DOPE

Tommy Crawley is sore, peeved, miffed. He resents the implications of some of the boxing fans that he does not shape up as a formidable opponent for Tony Herrera, the Mexican knockout star, of Chicago, whom he meets in the main bout in the Meyers Bowl next Monday night.

The South Sider points to the fact that Phil Goldstein gave Herrera two rattling fights, winning the first on a foul and losing the second on a decision, and he holds the edge over Goldstein in their series which had the fans by the ears. Tommy does not try to pass off his defeats by such stars as Red Chapman and Harry Blitman, who knocked him out, but he does contend that he is bigger and stronger now than before and has been fighting in fine form recently. In his last local appearance, he swarmed all over Battling Gizzy, whom he defeated by a decisive margin in a main bout in the Moose Temple.

"I'll be in there carrying the fight to Herrera," Crawley said, "Maybe he can punch, but I can take it better now than when I was weakening myself trying to remain a featherweight, and I'll be in there punching it out with him to the finish. I'll surprise those fellows who think I do not have a chance with Tony."

Tommy began training on Monday for the battle.

Two of the preliminaries have been arranged for Monday night's show. Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, will meet Paris (Kid) Cangy, of New Castle, in the eight-round semifinal and Leo Mozdy, hard-hitting flyweight, of Erie, will tangle with

Dewey M'Kinney Sets World Trot Mark

ELMIRA, N. Y., July 24.—(AP.)—A world's trotting record for a half mile track was established in an Orange County Circuit race here yesterday afternoon, when Dewey McKinney, bay son of Lord Dewey, with Dill in the sulky, trotted the first heat of the 2:07 event in 2:04½.

Dewey McKinney's time shattered a mark of 2:05½, established by Well Worthy four years ago.

ARCH CHAMBERS DONIE BUSH

Arch Chambers, Western Union messenger boy, delivers message to Manager Donie Bush, of the Pirates, at Forbes Field, bearing congratulations of 200 Western Union messengers for himself and the other Pirates upon their successful Eastern trip recently concluded. He took back a reply of thanks.

OKUN STOPS DANIELS

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—(AP.)—Yale Okun, New York light heavyweight, scored his second knockout over Dick Daniels, young Minneapolis fighter, here last night. After taking two nine counts in the third round, the referee stopped the fight to save Daniels a most severe beating. Each fighter weighed 169 pounds.

BARNYARD GOLF CARDED

The third annual hose show tournament of Edgewood will be held on Saturday afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock. Pitchers are expected to attend from Homestead, Braddock, McKeesport, Charleroi, Greensburg, Everson, and Pittsburgh. The courts are located at Elm and Chestnut streets. William Dickson will be the official scorer.

FANS REJOICE AT M'KECHNIE'S RETURN

Few men, in or out of baseball, have more real friends than Bill McKechnie, of this city, who has just been reappointed to the management of the Cardinals, after having been dropped last winter. These folks, then, will share with Bill the happiness of his return to the big league.

In Rochester, McKechnie carried on like the fine tactician he has ever been, he leaving the International League on the crest. The Cardinals seem to be out of the flag fight of this year, but under Bill's guidance they may be expected to be a consistent winner.

RHIEL IS STAR

Billy Rhiel, hero of yesterday's scrap at Forbes Field, played semi-pro ball around his Youngstown home at the start of his career and later he starred for the Beaver Falls Elks club. Eventually he landed with the Atlanta club of the Southern Association where he was starring afield and at the plate when Uncle Robbie's scouts picked him up.

Besides his hitting power, Billy appears to be one of the slickest keystone tenders who has appeared in the Oakland Orchard this year; at least that was the impression he left yesterday. Rhiel played the role like an old stager; he was get-

Trio Reported As Ace-Hole Members

Three more hole-in-one golfers have been added to that merry company who have succeeded in popping the little ball into the cup with one swipe of the club. Two of the newly-initiated trio are from Edgewood, the third being from the horde of Schenley public linksmen.

W. D. Stewart holed out a tee shot on No. 5 at Edgewood, a short hole, while his partner, R. V. Acken, popped one in on No. 14.

E. J. Burke's drive from the fifth tee sailed squarely into the cup on No. 6.

Game starts at 3:30.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Their first-place position imperiled by the Cubs, the Pirates today faced the problem of defeating the Robins or risk occupancy of the honor position. The parade of the wooden soldiers didn't have much on the array of Pittsburgh pitchers yesterday as it bowed before Uncle Robbie's crew.

Manager Bush is sorely pressed in the slab division with Burleigh Grimes out for an indefinite period and other flingers staggering. Fred Fussell gave a sorry showing as he faced the Robins in the second game and some of those who followed him to the mound weren't much better.

MEINE TO HURL

Heine Meine is Bush's probable selection for this afternoon with a possibility that Jess Petty will go to the mound. The Silver Fox was impressive yesterday in one round and he gave a fine display of his prowess through six innings at the Polo Grounds a few days ago. Uncle Robbie is expected to call upon Watson Clark, who is admitted to be one of the finest lefthanders in the league.

Three homers were struck in the Oakland Orchard as the Robins took the second game of the set. The boys behind the four-sackers were Billy Rhiel, of Youngstown; Babe Herman and Paul Waner.

Time should be taken out to discuss young Billy Rhiel, who was born and reared in the Ohio city. The clever second baseman did something that is seldom encompassed at Forbes Field—he whacked a homer over the leftfield fence with three of his mates on the bases and when the final reckoning was made his four tallies stood out in bold relief. The score was 10 to 7.

Rhiel delivered his telling punch off Carmen Hill in the seventh inning and it was in answer to the Pirate strategy of passing Del Bissonette to fill the sacks. Of course it was good baseball, inasmuch as there was only one out and a crowded diamond meant force plays everywhere and setups for the double play. But Billy put his 175 pounds of Mahoning County man power against the rocket and when last seen it was bounding in the general direction of the Carnegie Museum.

STEVE UNIMPRESSIVE

Hill, by the way, was the fourth pitcher of the afternoon for the Buccos. Steve Swetonic relieved Fussell early, but the North Side boy did not look anything like the pitcher who upset the Giants so prettily a few days back when he relieved the injured Grimes. Larry French went to the rescue of Steve and Larry was impressive, but it was necessary to yank him to make room for a pinch hitter so Hill came to the slab. Petty worked the last round.

MORRISON VICTOR

John Dewey Morrison received official credit for the game, despite the fact that Douglas McWeeny pitched a bit more of the contest than Jughandle Johnny. McWeeny

CITY LEAGUE NINES STAGE FRAYS TODAY

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

WEDNESDAY, JULY 24, 1929 — TWENTY-THREE

SHOEMEN MEET ST. JOHNS; P.V. TESTS LIFERS

By TOM BIRKS.

Two big games will be staged in the City League this evening. Book Shoe will show its stuff at Sullivan Field against St. John. This will be the first time that Griffith has appeared at the Strip field in charge of a club. This game will bring Ray Kennedy, now in charge of the St. Johns club, into the managerial ranks, and Kennedy is going to try and start off on the right foot by stopping the Shoe boys.

The other battle in the loop will find Pleasant Valley tangling with Reliance Life at Reliance field. Herb Jamesin, in charge of the Insurance nine, is working hard to get a winner, and Pleasant Valley, undefeated in this half, is going to have a fight. Nary and Spencer probably will work the game.

HORNES FACE TEST

The Reick-McJunkin nine and five milk wagon loads of fans will stop off at Camp Horne this evening. Manager Stuhlfire is trying to get the Milk boys into the win column, and the Horne nine trying to keep its undefeated record in the second half. This is going to be a real fight.

In the Central League, the W. O. W. nine will meet Harveys at the Salt Works. Mike Jedinak is away on his vacation and Joe Cholko better get that Rox crowd back into its winning ways. W. O. W. has dropped two games in a row. This evening will also see the league leading East Liberty Red Sox swinging into action, meeting the J. J. Boyles at Oakland. East Liberty has copped four straight.

N. S. CIVICS BEATEN

There were few upsets in last evening's sandlot league contests. J. L. Thomas rather surprised the boys by hammering out a 5-to-1 victory over the N. S. Civics, first half City League champions. Sammy Leon limited the Civics to seven hits, which were well scattered. The victors garnered 13 from Heidler.

In the Inter-County League, Homewood defeated Dormont 8 to 0, Bimmy Steel pitching a strong game and giving up but two hits. Walter Waite and Miller garnered these, Waite getting a double and Miller a triple.

In the West Penn League, Verona continued to show its mastery over Wilmerding, defeating the Airbrake nine 13 to 4. North Bessemer downed Universal 5 to 1.

Immaculate Heart won from St. Anthonys 12 to 5 in a North Side Twilight League encounter. Adam Comorosky, Pirate outfield star, was presented with a wrist watch by the Immaculate Heart Boosters' Association and served as base umpire during the fracas.

Immaculate Heart will be host to the Pasttimers tonight in the first round of the Greater Pittsburgh Commission at the West Penn Playgrounds.

BOYLES IN TIE

The J. J. Boyles and the R. L. Irwins played to a 4-4 tie in a Major League game. Bylesby won from Equitable Auto 5 to 1 in the Philadelphia Company League. St. Adalberts downed St. Michaels 10 to 3 in a Spalding West Penn League battle, and Mine Safety won a close 3-to-2 victory over Reliance Reserves in the Commercial circuit.

Hawthorne won from Ingram, 6 to 5, in the Crafton Church League. The Braddock Owls tripped up the Homewood Aces 8 to 3 in a Tri-Boro loop game.

Homestead Grays, who depart on an eastern trip today, downed the Jimmy Smith club 4 to 1 in an independent tussle. Beltzhoover won from the Wagner All-Stars 7 to 2. Book Shoe stopped the winning streak of the crack Ingomar nine, blanking them 4 to 0.

The Grays will play the Altoona Works in Altoona this evening, Lewistown at that city tomorrow, Hilldale in a Negro League game, at Philadelphia, Friday, and a doubleheader with the Lincoln Giants in New Rork Saturday.

REFEREE NAMED FOR TITLE GO

DETROIT, July 24.—(AP.)—Although the formal announcement will not be made until tomorrow afternoon, a few hours before the fight, Elmer (Slim) McClelland, of Detroit, will be named as referee of the 15-round welterweight championship bout between Joe Dundee and Jackie Fields here.

Managers of the rival fighters agreed on McClelland after his name had been submitted to the state boxing commission, along with that of Al A. Day, of Detroit, and Emerson W. Dickerson, of Grand Rapids.

The choice is to be formally approved by the boxing commission when it meets here tomorrow.

ting the jump on balls hit to his left and as a result he robbed several Pirates of potential basehits.

ADAMS STILL HITTING

Sparky Adams continued in his pleasing stride by making two hits. The Robin sharpshooters almost shut the door in the faces of the Waner boys, Brother Paul's homer being a drive that would be caught nine out of 10 times.

Through most of the successful Eastern trip, Donie Bush was able to start and finish with the same pitcher, but his flingers gave him an afternoon nightmare in the second clash with the Dodgers. It would be unfair not to give the Dodgers credit for good hitting, yet it was evident that some of the Pirate pitchers were not even close to form.

PIE, GRIMES BETTER

Pie Traynor and Burleigh Grimes are coming along in a satisfactory manner, according to a statement made yesterday by the Pirate physician. Grimes' damaged thumb is getting better faster than was expected, it being altogether possible that he will be able to go to the mound again in 10 days. Traynor should be ready to take his place in the lineup in a week.

Eddie Meyer, 16, Scores Ace at Westmoreland

Everybody's doin' it — doin' what?—Makin' holes in one.

Edward Meyer, who is 16 years old and lives at 1220 Malvera street, scored an ace at the Westmoreland Country Club yesterday afternoon when he took his little mid-iron (or it may have been a big one) and dropped his tee-shot on the seventeenth hole in the cup. The seventeenth at Westmoreland is 269 yards.

Eddie was playing with Stephen Kaufmann and Robert Bair, and, strange to say, he never had scored one before in his life. Meyer's father, it is said, is awaiting Eddie's case of ginger ale.

who played frequently at Schenley, receive a spade mashie and a bronze medal for fourth honors. Elmer Davis, who won fifth prize, did not attend the banquet, but his gold medal will be forwarded to him.

Co-operating with William Hittner, president of the Castle Shannon Golf Club, who accepted the caddie team championship plaque in behalf of his club, the four individual members of the team, Shern Roni, August Book, Mike Sheats and Adolph Matthews, each received a gold medal. Both Malone and Hittner congratulated these lads as they accepted the reward for their combined achievement in scoring a total of 308 to lead their nearest competitor by 10 strokes.

PRIZES PRESENTED

Other interesting speakers on the program were Charles J. (Chilly) Doyle, baseball editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph; Hittner, a former football star; Al McBride, professional at the Schenley Park Municipal Links; Tom Birks, soccer editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph; Andy Petrolia, caddiemaster at Schenley; Dave Clarke, Castle Shannon Golf Club pro; Carl Shatto, hockey editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph; James Stevenson, father of the champion; Frank Petrolia and Tom Keefe, of Schenley Park; James Miller, of the Sun-Telegraph sports staff, and Champion Joe Stevenson himself.

A very successful evening wound up with three rousing cheers for the tournament winners.

Vern Swartsfager, golf tournament editor, was the toastmaster.

Malcewicz, Stecher Match Is Banned

CHICAGO, July 24.—(INS.)—Those perennial opponents, Joe Malcewicz and Joe Stecher, heavyweight wrestlers, may grapple all they please, but not in Illinois, under a ruling of the State Athletic Commission, which denied a permit for a bout between the two in Chicago, July 31. The commission recalled the matmen have met three times recently, in Boston, in California and Tulsa.

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—(INS.)—Conceded slightly better than an even chance by bettors, Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight champion, will wrestle to a finish with Joe Malcewicz, of Utica, N. Y., at the Olympic here tonight.

YOUNG RUDY BEATS WELCH

BUTLER, July 24.—Young Rudy, of Charleroi, won a decision over Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, in the 10-round final at the Armco boxing show here last night. The decision was given to Rudy after 10 rounds of fast fighting.

Welsh was apparently on a bicycle, making Rudy come after him the greater part of the fight and coming in and going out after a brief exchange. He had the better of the infighting and scored a knockdown for a count of nine.

Chuck Zelnack, of McKeesport, won a decision over Frank Monroe, of Pittsburgh, in the eight-round semi-final.

Chuck Taggert, of Butler, continued his winning streak by scoring a decision over Charley Brodd, of McKeesport, in a six-round go.

Georgie Tomosky, of McKeesport, scored a technical knockout over Jack Evans in the second round of their scheduled six-round bout. Evans was strong in the first, but blows to the stomach stopped him.

$100,000 Handicap Carded March 23

AGUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Mexico, July 24.—The world's richest race is now the Agua Caliente Handicap, with $100,000 added by the Agua Caliente Jockey Club, and it will be run over the new course now being constructed at the Baja California resort on Sunday, March 23. The distance will be one mile and a quarter and the subscriptions and starting fees will make the gross value of the race approximately $140,000.

The above announcement was made by James N. Crofton, general manager of the new racing organization, whose $2,000,000 plant promises to be the most beautiful and unique in the country. The Agua Caliente Handicap is the successor to the Coffroth Handicap which saw its tenth running last March.

KINNEY DIRECT CIRCUIT VICTOR

GRAND RAPIDS, July 24.—(AP.)—Kinney Direct, favorite in the Pantlind Hotel stake, the big event of the second day of Grand Circuit racing in Grand Rapids yesterday, was distinctly on his good behavior, winning the pace in straight heats.

Incidentally, the J. B. Reynolds horse bettered his record on the fast Comstock Park track, traveling the second heat in 2:01¼, one-quarter of a second better than his mark of last season.

Chester Stout, purchased by E. J. Baker, of St. Charles, Ill., for $10,000, won the first event on the card for his owner in pleasing style, taking the first two heats.

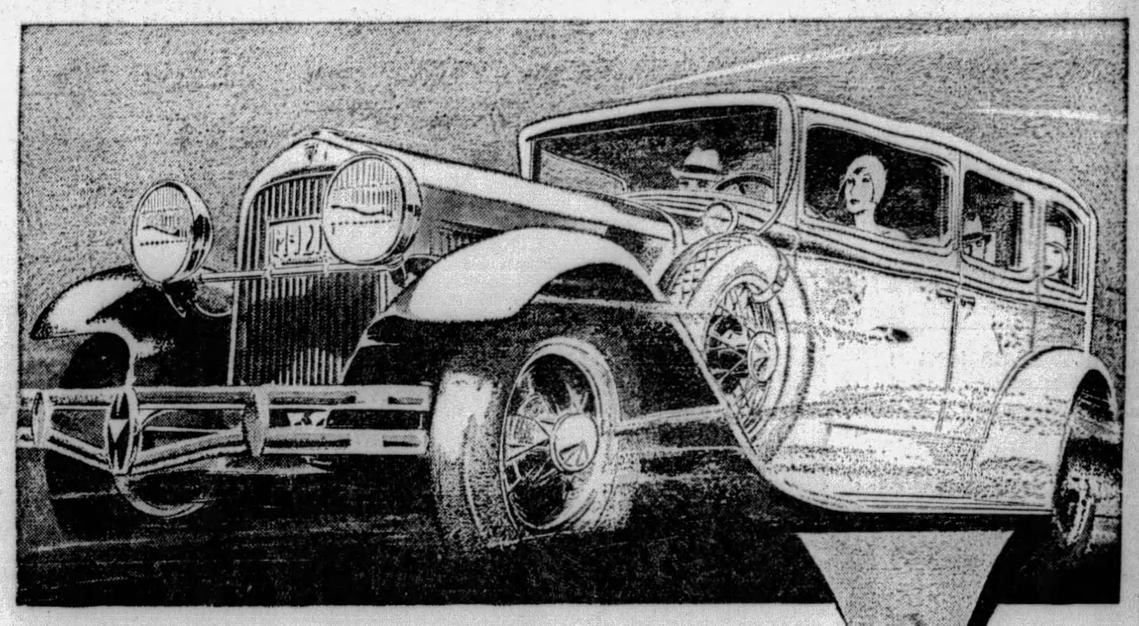
The GREATER HUDSON



Ranked with the costly cars in all except price...

"THE GREATER HUDSON is the supreme buy of motordom," say thousands, fresh from examining the latest and costliest offerings of the day. You may be sure that all who are buying cars today have looked at the latest models and newest cars brought out in the industry. Yet thousands upon thousands bring back the same strong verdict: "There is nothing like Hudson in Performance—in Riding Comfort—in Smoothness—in Good Looks, Distinction and Value."

CENTER TENNIS TOURNAMENT OPENS TODAY

JUNIOR, BOY STARS SEEK CROWN

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

The annual Pittsburgh Center Junior and boys' tennis championships for the purpose of determining Western Pennsylvania's representatives in the National junior and boys' events beginning at Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., on August 12, got under way under Pittsburgh Tennis Association auspices on the Carnegie Tech courts at 10 o'clock this morning.

A limited, but capable, field of youngsters answered the bell in the two divisions and considerable excellent tennis should be reeled off between now and the conclusion of the final tussles tomorrow or early on Friday.

O'LOUGHLIN FAVORITE

Billy O'Loughlin, champion for the past two years, reigns overwhelming favorite to annex junior honors. O'Loughlin topped off a brilliant season as captain of the clever Duke Prep net squad by progressing to the semi-finals of the West Penn senior tournament and, though his performances of late have been a bit below par, it is extremely probable that he will appear to better advantage throughout the current contesting.

O'Loughlin's game is not as varied as it might be, for the former Johnstown lad is inclined to rely too strongly upon a powerful forehand and to neglect development of his backhand and an adequate net attack; but unless local rivals have improved vastly of late, he is still boss of his section, though such hopefuls as the Arensbergs of Shady Side, Alcorn of Mount Lebanon, Broida of Harvard freshmen, and Clarke of College Hill should cause him trouble and extend him to the limit.

BROIDA STRONG

Broida merits special note in the reckoning. The stocky little southpaw has braced remarkably in the past twelvemonth and this fact, combined with his unquestioned courage under the fire of competition, renders his chance by no means negligible. His forehand is deep and fast and he has had sufficient experience to enable him to get the best from himself when the going is toughest.

Paul Elliott, defending his boys' crown, stands without notable opposition. It is axiomatic of boys' tourneys, however, that favorites are not to be too heavily favored, for a brief period of time frequently works amazing change in the relative abilities of the contenders.

RABBIT DENIES HE'S PILOT OF BRAVES

CINCINNATI, July 24.—(AP.)—The Boston Braves will have to struggle along with the services of some other person than the veteran Rabbit Maranville as manager. Maranville said here today that he is not the manager and will not accept the position unless he is appointed for a two-year term, thus interfering with plans of Judge Fuchs, the club owner.

"Judge Fuchs wanted me to take charge of the team on this trip," Maranville said, "and possibly for the remainder of the season. But I refused to take over the club unless he would give me a two-year contract, which would allow me time to build the team over according to my own ideas. I did not want to be a temporary manager. He did not care to do as I asked. I am just the shortstop of the team doing the best I can in my position. I have nothing to do with handling the club."

Johnny Evers is in charge of the team on its present trip and will act as manager at least until Judge Fuchs rejoines the team, which may be in Pittsburgh this week.

LOCAL MEN AT TITLE GO

Most of the local boxing men will be at the ringside in Detroit tomorrow night when Joe Dundee defends his world welterweight title against Jackie Fields over the 15-round route. John L. Hernon and John McGarvey, the Motor Square Garden impresarios, will head one party, and Apples Meyers and Jules Beck, of the Meyers Bowl, another, while Francis Flynn, Moose Club promoter, already is on the scene.

Jackie Rodgers, local Negro bantamweight, has been matched to box Hughey Devine in the main bout of a show at Johnstown, August 15.

Zivic Anthony and Jesse Duke will box the main bout of a card of six-rounders at Clearfield, Pa., Friday night. William Flanagan boxes Jerry Mitchell, Young Sharkey opposes Louis Rusnack and Mike Dugan meets Ralph Stewart in the other bouts on the card.

CHAMPS ON CARD

Andre Routis, featherweight champion, and Mushy Callahan, junior welterweight champion, are on the same card in non-title bouts featuring a show for the Wingate Memorial Fund at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tonight. Routis boxes Al Singer, and Callahan meets Jack Berg. Stanislaus Loayza and Joey Medill meet in another 10-rounder. Les Marriner boxes Tony Fuente and Al Friedman meets Pete Wistort in bouts at Chicago, preliminary to an exhibition by Max Schmeling. Red Uhlan boxes Young George Dixon at Oakland, Cal., and Tony Sanders and Vince Hambright hook up in Cincinnati.

Tommy Freeman, of Cleveland, meets Joe Schlocker at Erie Friday night.

Battling Gizzy and U. S. Carpentier are paired for a return bout at New Kensington next Tuesday night.

Jim McGirr, McKeesport promoter, has his card set for his opening outdoor show in Cycler Park Friday night, when Dominick Profio and Tiger Joe Randall tangle for the third time, with Joe Colombo meeting Mike Cima in the eight-round semi-final, Mickey Solmen and Steve Pollock boxing the second bout and Joey Angelo and Sammy Paris meeting in the opening number.

JONES TO BOX GITLITZ

Murray Gitlitz of New York, and Billy Jones, local Negro heavyweight, who fights out of Philadelphia, have been matched for the 10-round main bout in the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night. Harold Scarney, Youngstown heavyweight, meets Joe Dudas, of Albion, Pa., in the six-round semi-final; Walter Pickard, of Youngstown, boxes Don LaRue, of Toledo, in another six-rounder, and Henry Attell, of Youngstown, opposes Joe Midway, of New Castle, for four rounds and Chuck Taggart, of Butler, will be one of the principals in another four-round engagement.

PUBLIC LINKS TEAM MEETS ALL-STARS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

The annual all-star team matches to defray the expenses of the city's squad to the national public links championship, which will be held this year at St. Louis early next month, will be played this afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, over the Schenley Park course under the direction of Kenneth C. Witherow, district U. S. G. A. public links section committeeman.

A field of 20 stars of private clubs, several of them who have either been national champion or mighty close to it, headed by Richard C. Long, of Stanton Heights, will meet a picked Schenley Park team at 18 holes match play.

The gallery will turn out to see Watts Gunn, famed Atlanta golfer who now makes his home here, for the first time. While Gunn has been playing in this district for several months, few among the muny links clan have had the opportunity to see him make his strokes.

S. Davidson Herron, of Oakmont, former national amateur champion, also may play, although at an early hour this morning it was indefinite. The teams follow:

All-Stars—	Schenley Park—
W. C. Fownes, Jr.	R. G. Barr.
H. C. Fownes II.	B. McFarland.
J. A. Fownes.	R. Graham.

MIXED FOURSOME

A mixed foursome invitation tournament will be held at the Pittsburgh Field Club tomorrow, under the direction of the women's golf committee. Elaborate arrangements are being made for the affair, and a dinner dance in the evening will follow the day's golf.

Clubs invited to participate include Alcoma, Highland, Butler, Greensburg, Stanton Heights, South Hills, St. Clair, Shannopin, Chartiers Heights, Country Club of Pittsburgh, Edgewood, Longue Vue and Oakmont.

TWO ACES AT EDGEWOOD

Two holes in one were scored on Edgewood Country Club links within the last week. The first was made by W. D. Stewart, who joined the ranks of golf's heroes when he sunk his tee shot on the fifth hole. He went out a couple of days later in a foursome with Dr. R. V. Acker, F. W. Rockstraw and R. A. Young—and Acker, taking Stewart's advice, scored an ace on the 135-yard fourteenth hole. Acker used a mashie-niblic.

Tom McKim, of Swissvale, had an unusual experience at the Conneaut Lake Golf Club, according to Georgie Schmidt, the club's pro. McKim drove a 225-yard shot from the tenth tee, and on the first bounce it jumped into the side pocket of J. H. White, of McKeesport, who was playing in the foursome ahead.

Schmidt, by the way, has been ill recently, but he's coming around gradually and hopes to step out and beat par soon again, a thing he has been doing fairly regularly all season.

WOMEN TO PLAY

The Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania will stage a one-day tournament at the Edgewood Country Club on Friday. Play will start at 9 o'clock.

Speaking of women's golf at Edgewood, Mrs. L. G. Riley has been dethroned as the club champion there. Mrs. E. F. Reed defeated her in the championship final, 3 and 1.

Ben Loeffler, pro at the Valley Heights Country Club, reports a big stag party has been carded for that club Saturday, celebrating Governors' Day. The 18-hole medal play will be an invitation affair, with handsome prizes. In the evening two boxing bouts will be staged, one between Kid Tolbert and Battling Lucifer, and another between Tailspin Tommy and Sammy Marino.

Dick Powell, Tracey Brown, Bryan McDonald, Ted Clark and Allan Barclay are to be among the guests of honor.

Movies of the golfers in action and "community" singing will wind up the evening's entertainment.

STAN PHILLIPS BEATEN

A pair of knockouts and two extra-round bouts featured the amateur ring show staged by the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. last evening. Stanley Phillips, veteran amateur, was defeated in his comeback attempt by Robert McDowell, Willow Club boxer.

The first knockout was scored by Max Elling, Willow Club, who dropped Joe Tolus down to stay in the second round. Eddie Hebner, Clairton A. C., knocked out Ralph Blakley, Willow Club, in an extra round.

Johnny Warner, Clairton A. C., defeated Billy Maggarell in a three-round bout. Dick Pritchard, Pittsburgh Lyceum, defeated Joe Scollars, Willow Club, in a fast extra-round bout. Johnny Durso, Pittsburgh Lyceum, defeated Young Pace, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., in three rounds.

Helene Madison Sets New Swim Record

SEATTLE, July 24.—(AP.)—Helene Madison, Seattle swimmer, unofficially bettered the world record for women in the 100-meter event here last night, covering the distance in 1 minute 8 seconds. The world record is 1 minute 10 and was made by Ethel Lackie, now a professional.

Knocking two and one-fifth seconds off her own recognized Pacific Coast record, Miss Madison swam the 100-yard event in 1:02 1-5.

A. A. U. officials will not recognize Miss Madison's feats because they were made in an exhibition swim.

Injures Fatal To Harvard Poloist

NORWOOD, Mass., July 24.—James Mandell, prominent Harvard polo player injured in a collision during a game at Westwood on Monday, died early today in Norwood Hospital. Mandell and George Oliver Clark, II, who also was hurt, suffered head injuries. Clark was still unconscious early today.

CLEVELAND, July 24.—(AP.)—After remaining unconscious for several hours, James A. Wigmore, noted polo player, was recovering today from a concussion of the brain received at the Chagrin Valley Hunt Club yesterday afternoon during a practice polo match.

Wigmore was reported out of danger at a hospital today. He was injured when he fell from his horse, which collided with that ridden by Edwin C. Higbee.

Diegel, Smith 'Hot' For Canadian Open

MONTREAL, July 24.—(AP.)—Leo Diegel, it would appear, is ripe for a successful defense of the Canadian open golf championship he won last year for the third time.

Touring around the Kanawaki course, near here, where the championship opens tomorrow, he clipped two strokes off par figures when he turned in a card of 70 during a practice round. Horton Smith, the Joplin youth who burned up courses right and left during the winter season, was another who toured around in 70.

These two, along with such other American stars as Walter Hagen, Tommy Armour, George Von Elm, Gene Sarazen, Bill Mehlhorn, to mention a few, will be watched closely.

The competition consists of 72 holes of medal play, 18 tomorrow, 18 on Friday and 36 on Saturday for all those within 20 strokes of the leader after the first 36 holes.

U. S. Stars Advance In Canadian Play

TORONTO, July 24.—(AP.)—While first-rank American players were breezing through their matches in the Canadian lawn tennis championships yesterday, the Dominion's two ranking stars, Jack Wright and Willard Crocker, narrowly escaped defeat.

Wright had lost the first set and was trailing 4-1 in the second before he rallied to eliminate Ernest Kuhn, of New York, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2. Crocker dropped the first set of his match with Ron Burnand, promising Toronto youngster, but came back to win, 1-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Donald Strachan, of Princeton, eliminated A. N. Lewis in easy fashion, 6-1, 6-3, and John Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal., downed J. M. Skeaff, of Toronto, 6-1, 6-2.

Helen Jacobs Loses In Manchester Play

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 24.—(AP.)—Five of the eight seeded players in the fifth annual Essex Country Club women's singles tennis tournament advanced to the quarter-finals round. Helen Jacobs, of California, second ranking woman player in America and top-seeded, defaulted her second-round match with Louise Pecker, of Boston. The latter was defeated by Clara Greenspan, New York, 6-2, 6-0, in the third round.

The most surprising upset was scored by Sarah Palfrey, of Brookline, the 16-year-old national girls' champion, when she defeated Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper, of San Francisco, who ranks eighth among American women players, 7-5, 8-6.

DE WANCKER VICTOR

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 24.—(AP.)—Henri de Wancker, French lightweight, last night won a slashing 10-round bout from Mickey Diamond, of Philadelphia. De Wancker scaled 133; Diamond, 135.

NAPIER, JONES BREAK 99 IN SHOOT

J. W. (Jimmy) Napier and H. M. Jones, breaking 99 birds each, tied for top honors in the July shoot of the West Penn Trapshooters League at the Indian Mound traps of the McKees Rocks Gun Club yesterday.

W. D. Jarvis finished third with 97 and there were three tied at 96.

In the handicap event, G. J. Best, shooting with a 20-yard handicap; Emmit Shaw, with an 18 and G. L. Craig with a 22, tied for first place, each breaking 46 targets. The scores:

Correct Baseball Scoring

PLAY NO. 19.

Bishop is on first base and Perkins on second with none out. Haas hoists what is ruled an "infield fly" by Umpire Dineen. Pitcher Lyons drops the ball and throws to Kamm at third. The base runners did not run.

What goes in the box score and summary?

Haas is charged with a time at bat and Lyons is given credit for a putout just the same as if he had caught the ball, as there was no play at third after it had been ruled an infield fly.

CUBS, YANKEES WIN, GAIN ON LEADERS

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 24.—When Bill McKechnie resumes his managerial duties in St. Louis today he will find his task of jacking up the fading champions made easier by the return to form of Grover Cleveland Alexander, his right bower in other pennant campaigns.

The grand old man of baseball showed all of his oldtime skill in pitching the Cardinals to an 8-to-2 win over the Phillies yesterday. Although nicked for 10 hits, he struck out seven batters and did not walk a man.

The Cubs advanced to within a single point of the Pirates by blanking the Giants, 2 to 0, while the league leaders were dropping a 10-to-7 slugfest to Brooklyn. In the seventh inning Pitcher Hill, of the Pirates, filled the bases by intentionally walking Bissonette, a .326 hitter, to get at Billy Rhiel. The Youngstown, O., recruit promptly avenged this insult by lacing the ball over the left field fence, breaking up the party.

REDS, BRAVES DIVIDE

Root and (No Hit) Hubbell staged a pretty pitching duel in the New York-Chicago game, each allowing only four hits. The Cubs converted doubles by English and Grimm into runs.

Cincinnati shattered Boston's winning streak by annexing the first game of a doubiet bill, 9 to 5, but Delaney whitewashed the Reds in the nightcap, 6 to 0.

In the American League the Yankees inaugurated their home stand with a 7-to-5 triumph over Detroit, thanks to the wildness of Earl Whitehill, who passed nine men. Pipgras pitched for New York.

The Yanks cut Philadelphia's lead to 10 games, as the Macks were set down by Wes Ferrell, of Cleveland, 9 to 3, after Rube Walberg had gained a 4-to-1 decision over Willis Hudlin in the first game.

INDIANS ROUT QUINN

In the nightcap the Indians knocked out Jack Quinn in the ninth inning when they piled up six runs. Jimmy Foxx, Connie Mack's mighty farmer boy, duplicated his record-breaking feat of last season by driving a ball clear over the roof of the left field stands.

The fast-stepping White Sox nosed out Washington, 3 to 2, and the Browns, although outbatted by 13 hits to 12, bunched their blows to down the Red Sox by an 11-to-4 count.

MILLER WINS

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 24.—(AP.)—Ray Miller, Chicago, won a decision over Joe Abrams, New York, in a 10-round bout here last night. Miller weighed 134; Abrams, 133¾. Patsy McGrath, New York, defeated Harry Sankey, Chicago, in an eight-round bout. Sankey weighed 126; McGrath, 131¼.

HIGHER MONEY TURNS STOCKS IRREGULAR

Advance in Rate Takes Traders by Surprise; Steels Drop From Peaks

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—Marking up of the call money rate from 7 to 8 per cent turned the course of stock prices irregular today after an opening outburst of strength.

Operations for the advance were not entirely abandoned, however, but were confined largely to the public utility, railroad and communications issues, several of which reached new high ground.

The rise in call money took many traders by surprise as it had been generally believed that the 7 per cent rate would be maintained for the rest of the week. The stringency was attributed to heavy out-of-town withdrawals in anticipation of month-end disbursements, and also to a drawing down of foreign balances in the New York market.

BANKS CLOSED

Except for the closing of three New Jersey banks, most of the day's business news continued favorable. Irone Age reported that "signs of a let-up in the activity of the iron and steel industry are not lacking, but there is no indication of a recession of customary summer proportions." The Iron Trade Review stated that pipe is supplying one of its periodic impulses to the steel market. Another flock of favorable earnings reports made their appearance, Southern Pacific showing a gain of nearly $4,700,000 in income for the first six months over the corresponding period last year.

American Telephone came back into the limelight by soaring more than 6 points to another new high record at 255, recent buying being based on reports of large earnings from its sound picture machine patents. International Telephone was marked up more than 2 points.

Formation of new investment trusts and talk of further consolidations kept speculative interest alive in the public utility shares. Buying centered largely in the stocks of western companies. Pacific Lighting ran up more than 10 points to a new high at 111¾, Southern California Edison climbed more than 3 points and Pacific Gas 2½. General Gas and Electric A was heavily bought, climbing nearly 7 points to a new high at 100½.

B. & M. JUMPS 15

A spectacular jump of 15 points in Boston and Maine to a new high at 142 overshadowed all other developments in the railroad group, but Atlantic Coast Line, St. Paul preferred, Lackawanna, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific yielded to profit-taking.

United States Steel common crossed 210 to a new record price and then ran into a storm of selling which carried it back about 2 points. Michigan and Bethlehem steels sagged below yesterday's final quotations. Motors also turned heavy after an early interval of strength, Chrysler, General Motors, Graham-Paige and Auburn selling ½ to 2½ points below yesterday's close in the early afternoon.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, July 24.—Wheat advanced early on the Chicago market today, but met with increased selling, and gains were more than wiped out. Unlooked for upturns in Liverpool quotations, together with high temperatures and continued drought northwest, were largely offset by news that United States government vessels would not furnish storage room for wheat. Opening ⅝c to 2¼c higher, wheat afterward receded in some cases to well below yesterday's finish. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat, corn starting ¼c to ⅞c up, and then reacting. Provisions climbed.

Wheat values turned downward on announcement that requests had been refused for Gvernment vessels to store domestic wheat pending export shipments from Gulf of Mexico points. Where a big accumulation of railroad receipts with no adequate foreign outlet has brought about congestion. Earlier, the market had shown a decided upward trend, with European prices advancing and crops reported as further deteriorating Northwest. Rapid fluctuations, though, followed price setbacks, advices being current that export business on a large scale in North American wheat was being looked for in some quarters.

No particular evidence of any special European demand today was apparent, however, according to usually well-informed authorities. On the other hand, advices were at hand that drought conditions in Australia were causing alarm, and that today's market strength in Liverpool was based a good deal on the pessimistic Australian crop outlook. Liverpool wheat future deliveries closed today at ¼d to ¾d gain.

PRICE CHANGES IRREGULAR HERE

Blaw Knox Holds Steady as Union Steel Loses Ground; Steel Spring in Demand

Prices displayed further irregularity in the early trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today.

Blaw Knox, which has been one of the strong spots of the market the past few days, rallied fractionally on the opening, but there was a moderate supply offered and the initial price was shaded slightly. On the other hand, Union Steel Casting rallied sharply and sold at the 40-level attained in the upturn Monday. Later it lost the gain. The street hears rumors of a consolidation of the Union Steel and Blaw Knox companies, although the reports are without official confirmation of any kind. In trading circles today the gossip was to the effect that an exchange basis of 100 shares of Union Steel for 87½ shares of Blaw Knox may be worked out although the stocks have not been selling on that basis in the open market. At 40 for Union Steel and 52 for Blaw Knox such terms would be greatly in favor of the former.

Arkansas Gas was under moderate selling pressure in the early market, receding to a price under 15 for the first time in more than a week. However, the volume of sales was not conspicuously heavy and it was felt the greater portion of the stock purchased during the July upturn was still in the accounts of the buyers. Other fuel issues displayed slight changes from yesterday's closings.

The Lone Star Gas Company announced today that the new certificates for the recently split-up stock are ready and requested that old shares be exchanged as quickly as possible.

In the late market Standard Steel Spring developed noticeable strength and added several points to its opening price. The stock had been quiet for several weeks.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 24.—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 4 to 11 points and sold about 25 to 30 points net higher during the early trading on covering and a renewal of commission house buying, which seemed to be promoted by steady cables. The reported failure of expected rains to materialize in West Texas and apprehensions of unfavorable features in the weekly reports of the Weather Bureau were other factors. July sold up to 18.68c and January to 19.39c on this buying, and the market was within a point or two of the best at the end of first half hour. Private cables said continental selling had been absorbed by trade buying on limits in the Liverpool market, but that the cotton cloth market was unsettled owing, presumably, to the wage disputes.

Tobacco Products To Recapitalize

NEW YORK, July 24.—The Tobecco Products Co. has under consideration a plan for changing par value of Class A shares to $100 from present $20 and exchanging one new share for five old and changing par value of common to $60 from $20 and exchanging one new for three old. Also planned to change par value of United Cigar Stores common to $30 from $10 and exchanging one new for three old.

Loew's Earnings Take Big Increase

Loew's, Inc., reports net income of $8,215,034 for 40 weeks ended June 2, equal, after preferred dividends, to $5.51 a share on 1,355,129 common shares versus $377,101, or $5.55 on 1,060,925 common shares in the 1928 period.

START HEARING ON B. & O.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS.)—A fight to gain control of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh railroad, a strategic line in a number of proposed merger plans, got under way today when the Interstate Commerce Commission began hearings on the application of the Baltimore and Ohio to acquire this road through stock ownership.

Extent of the opposition to the Baltimore and Ohio's plan to acquire this road was indicated by the fact that the commission permitted the Wabash, Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and Delaware and Hudson railroads, the Buffalo and Rochester Chambers of Commerce, city of Rochester and the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal Company to intervene.

L. H. Loree, as president of the Delaware and Hudson, submitted a motion to dismiss the application. It was admitted to the record, but the commission said it was manifestly impossible to act upon it at this time.

EVENING Optimism in Market SUN-TELEGRAPH New York Curb Market MARKETS

SHARES AIDED BY CAPITALIST PERMANENCE

Safety of System Leads to Confidence in Future; Radical Fears Vanish

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Optimism concerning the future of shares of selected private corporations has been heightened by increasing evidence of the permanence of the modern capitalist system.

For a time, after the war, while radical political propaganda was widely heeded and soft money advocates broadcast subtle schemes of repudiation, stock prices discounted political fears and hazards. The ratification of the Mellon-Berenger agreement by the French Chamber of Deputies places another pillar of support underneath the modern economic system, on which financial confidence rests. Capitalists and financiers feel enormously encouraged by this further vindication of the sanctity of contract, which is a basic principle underlying widespread business operations.

SPEED AIDS CREDIT

France, it is true, lined itself up with economic orthodox only after infinite delay, and its decision came by a narrow margin of eight votes. The Mellon-Berenger agreement lay on the table for more than three years. The procrastination was in marked contrast to the celerity with which Great Britain acknowledged its financial debt to the United States Treasury. England has definitely sacrificed immediate commercial considerations to the maintenance of its lasting financial prestige and credit. France, on the other hand, has tried to balance short term and long term considerations. As a result of delay, it has time to accumulate enormous cash balances, which gave it an almost decisive role in the world money markets.

The cleaning up of post war financial arrangements by France marks the closing of a chapter in world economic history. The copy book maxims of honesty have been adhered to by the nations except Russia—one by one. The alluring doctrines of repudiation and cancellation have gradually been rejected, though not without liberal concessions by creditor nations.

FALLACIES DISCREDITED

At the same time, monetary heresies, which inflationists argued would mark another and more correct road to virtual repudiation, have been forsaken. The return to the gold standard overseas underlies the great confidence with which American exporters sell unprecedented volumes of merchandise overseas. Easy money fallacies, such as regularly recur in times of stress, have been discredited, and credit has been rehabilitated by honoring traditional financial arrangements. Bourgeois ethics have been reaffirmed.

At home, the current enthusiasm for shares in the regulated industries—public utilities and rails—has been heightened not only by the course of the last presidential election, but also by the trend of judicial decisions, which have tended to strengthen the rights of property. Apart from technicalities, the St. Louis and O'Mallon Railroad decision of the United States Supreme Court was taken to mean that there was no danger that railroad owners would not be fully protected in their property rights.

The present period, in an economic sense, is characterized on the one hand by political conservatism in respect to the rights of private property and on the other by progressivism on the part of management in respect to altering industrial and commercial technique.

HELPS YOUNG PLAN

Internationally, the acceptance of the debt agreement by France paves the way for confirmation of the Young plan for reparation adjustments by the interested governments.

From a short term standpoint, the French debt acceptance deprives the American money market of an artificial easement which might otherwise have resulted. Acceptance of the Mellon-Berenger agreement automatically makes the $400,000,000 French obligation to the American Treasury on account of the purchase of war stocks from the United States Army a part of the general debt. Otherwise, this $400,000,000 obligation would have fallen due on August 1, next. France is just edging in under the wire. If the $400,000,000 debt would have been a week from tomorrow, the method probably would have been to release earmarked gold held for the credit of the Bank of France by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Under the mechanism of the Federal Reserve, this operation would have been equivalent to a gold import, which could be multiplied into up to 15 times as much bank credit.

Of course, the deferment of the August 1 obligation helps to put the Federal Reserve in better control of the credit situation.

PHILLIPS PETE SHOWS GAIN

NEW YORK, July 24.—June quarter consolidated net income $4,897,927 after all charges, but before depletion and depreciation, which accounting items have never been deducted until end of year. Equal to $2.03 a share on 2,406,805 common capital shares, against $3,612,879 or $1.51 a share on 2,388,140 shares in preceding quarter and $3,414,886 or $1.43 on 2,394,571 common capital shares in 1928 quarter.

Six months' net was $8,510,807 or $3.54 a share against $6,519,977 or $2.72 a share in 1928 period.

F. Phillips, president, stated June earnings before depreciation and depletion were at annual rate of over $24,000,000. He explained these earnings were due almost entirely to an increase in variety of produce made and sold by company and that very little net profits have accrued from oil production during the last 18 months owing to overproduction and consequent low prices. He stated gross crude oil production of the company is now approximately 50,000 barrels daily, he believes crude situation will adjust itself at some future date at which time the oil division should be one of largest sources of income.

The company has bought the 35 service stations and 10 bulk stations of the Winters Oil Company of Kansas City, Kan. Thirty of the service stations are in Greater Kansas City, the remainder in nearby towns.

Things That Quickly Wear Out Offer the Most Profit

By B. C. FORBES

THE most profitable businesses are the ones producing and selling things that wear out quickly.

That general rule, although it has many exceptions, is worth considering by young men and also by concerns finding themselves compelled by changing conditions to switch into some new line.

When one sale lasts almost a life-time, it takes constant hustling to find new customers.

THE automobile industry has been the greatest producer of millionaires in the last twenty years. You might off-hand declare that automobiles do not wear out quickly.

But stop and think how the astute motor leaders have solved that problem. They constantly bring out new models which immediately make all those already sold old-fashioned, out-of-date, not desired by those who wish always to be up to the minute! Thus, while the estimate is that the average life of a car is about five years, it rarely is retained nearly that length of time by its original buyer, especially if the car be not of the lowest priced variety, the "fashionableness" of any one model seldom lasts more than one year.

Remember, too, that quite a percentage of motor manufacturers' profits come from supplying parts, for repairs and replacements. It has often been said that Ford made almost as much from sales of parts as from sales of his car.

So you see that the motor industry does not fall under the "last a lifetime" category—very far from it.

THE most popular stocks today are public utilities. Why is this? "Because of hectic consolidations," you may reply. Correct—as far as it goes. But there is a more solid foundation for their advance in market value.

Every baby born is a potential public utility customer. Every home built, every office opened, every store established, every building erected, heat, electricity, gas, telephones, often power. The growth of a community automatically brings growth to the local utility companies.

Not only so, but light and power are consumed right along and the telephone is used daily. This means an endless supply of new customers and ceaseless consumption. In addition, electric and gas appliances of all kinds are steadily multiplying, thus increasing the use of current per customer.

THE oil industry has been notably prolific of fortunes. Users of oil and gasoline don't buy once or twice a year. A gallon of gasoline lasts nearly an hour. Aere, too, the whole trend of our national life favors increasing consumption. More and more families become automobile owners every year, oil burning machinery is coming into greater use, industry is becoming motorized, oil is displacing coal in the home, the rapidly-growing aviation industry is sustained by oil and gasoline. The result is more customers and heavier consumption.

THE Eastman Kodak Company began by making no cameras, only plates. It did not blossom into the ranks of big business until films came into vogue. The company aggressively pushed the sales of its cameras, and made the price attractive, not solely because of the profit in them, but because each camera sold chewed up just so much more film. And while I do not know the actual figures, I have no doubt that George Eastman reaps more money from films, which wear out at one using, than out of cameras which last so much longer. Similarly, the manufacturers of a good many machines, including mechanical office appliances, derive more profit from the constant furnishing of supplies than from the sale of the machine or appliance inself.

"THE greater the number of your sales, the greater the stability of your business," Julius Rosenwald, the sage head of Sears-Roebuck, recently remarked to me. He added that he sent in a subscription for one million dollars worth of the original offering of Woolworth stock because "this was the only business I figured that was better than our own." Most of the goods purchased in five and ten cent stores are quickly consumed. (Incidentally, Sears-Roebuck shares did even better than Woolworth's)

STOCK brokers have been making a great deal of money in the last few years because of the tremendous increase in the number of people who are dabbling in stocks—not merely putting their savings into one investment and holding on to it, but indulging in in-and-out stock trading.

Rapid turn-over is one key to commercial success. Or, as the often-quoted axiom has it, "small profits and quick returns."

Now that there are so many lines of business to choose from, why not give due weight to every consideration before making a definite choice.

J. & L. June Quarter Proves Favorable

Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation's net for June quarter was $6,051,508 after expenses, taxes, depreciation and interest, equal to $8.71 a share on 576,320 shares of common stock compared with $4,241,091 or $5.61 a share for the same quarter in 1928. For six months the net income was $11,305,687, equal to $16.04 a share on common against $7,144,548 or $8.89 a share for the first half of 1928.

Loadings High

H. A. SCANDRETT

President Scandrett Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, who says July loadings are better than those of last year and that the outlook for his road is for third quarter earnings as high as those of the third quarter, 1928.

CAR LOADINGS INCREASE

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(A.P.)—Revenue freight loadings for the week ended July 13 exceeded by 39,707 cars the loadings for the corresponding week of 1928 in reaching an aggregate of 1,064,632 cars.

Compared with the preceding week of this year, the total for the week was an increase of 155,800 cars. Loadings for the week ending July 6 were reduced owing to the observance of Fourth of July.

The American Railway Association reports that the country's railroads on July 1 had 39,638 freight cars on order, the largest number on that date in the last five years. The increase over July 1, 1928, was 24,979 cars.

Grants Wheeling Terminal Permit

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Wheeling and Lake Erie Railway was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to operate in the new Cleveland Union Terminal and to acquire passenger station facilities in the new terminal.

Pending completion of the terminal, Wheeling was authorized to use temporary tracks of Erie and Big Four.

The commission also granted Wheeling authority to abandon a portion of its line in Cleveland, including its Ontario Street Station.

MERGER TREND HAS PUBLIC APPROVAL

Business Consolidations Looked Upon Favorably; Dictated by Economy

While the United States is still a nation of small manufacturers, there has been a very striking trend toward consolidation in recent years, says a review by Dominick & Dominick. On the whole, this trend has been received with public approval. That this confidence in big business is justified is now indicated by a study of the economies to the consumer which consolidations have made possible.

In its report on mergers in industry, the National Industrial Conference Board analyzes for the first time the contribution which the consolidation movement has made to American prosperity. The report indicates that consolidation has by no means been a substitute for good business management, and has not developed unusually large profits; at the same time, it has been able to maintain not only a more stable level of prices, but a lower level of prices, thus directly benefiting the consumer.

PROFIT SURVEY

In the consideration of profits, the Conference Board has taken the pre-war period, as being less subject to abnormal influences than the post-war years. The fortunes of the consolidations formed in the former period were too diverse to make any definite statement possible, but their is no indication that the form of organization was responsible for the profits when they occurred. It was evident that consolidations as such constituted no royal road to profits and were nearly as much affected by periods of general depression as the independents.

On the other hand, it was demonstrated that the combination enjoyed certain advantages in economy such as greater efficiency of output, and the ability to stabilize its operations and to reduce its costs.

SUPERIOR EFFICIENCY

In a survey of 16 major industries, consolidations showed a superior efficiency to that of their independent competitors in 11 out of the total; or, in other words, in 68 per cent of the cases cited, the physical product per hour of labor was greater for the consolidation than for the independent. It also appeared that industrial consolidation have been among the leaders in experimenting with and introducing time-saving methods of production; and to a large extent this is a result of the more extensive industrial research which the consolidation, as a rule, has supported.

RESEARCH IMPORTANT

Research has in recent years become one of the most vital departments of large industrial organizations, and figures secured from 16 leading consolidations indicated that the research expenditure per $1,000 gross sales had increased from $9.08 in 1920 to $13.60 in 1926. On the average today, the consolidations are apparently expending approximately 1 per cent of their gross sales on research. If this policy had been followed by all companies engaged in manufacturing, the total expenditure on research would have amounted to $570,000,000 in 1925, instead of the estimated $100,000,000; hence it is evidence that research is conducted by the larger combinations upon a much more extensive scale than by the independents.

PRICE FACTOR

As far as the public is concerned, the importance of the consolidation is represented very largely in its effect upon prices. Efforts on the part of the modern corporation to take the public into its confidence and keep the public informed as to the character of its service have undoubtedly borne fruit in a much greater confidence in the communal value of big business. In addition, however, it is now statistically evident that corporate combinations have been able to resist partially the general elevation of prices by reducing the costs of productin. Despite the post-war accumulation of the world's gold in this country, prices in recent years have not risen as much in industries affected by mergers as those in the general market.

EFFECT ON COMMODITIES

The commodity price advance for a group of consolidations for the first quarter of the present century was only 20.8 as compared with 117.4 per cent for a group of independents.

The National Industrial Conference Board concludes that "mergers have tended to keep prices down rather than to keep them up. So far as consumers are concerned, therefore, the consolidation movement has, in general, been a boon and not a burden." At the same time, prices have been far more stable among industrial consolidations than among the independents, and the combination has been able to make considerable progress in stabilizing prices as far as seasonal fluctuations are concerned.

AIDS EMPLOYMENT

In general, therefore, the consolidation movement, while not fulfilling the glowing predictions of large profits which have frequently been made, has unquestionably contributed to the economic welfare of the community, both in lower prices and in steadier employment. In a period when important consolidations have become almost a weekly feature of American industry, this demonstration is particularly encouraging.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Handsome Lifeguard

By JACK WOODFORD.

STRIDING idly up and down the beach, almost Grecian in his contours, his skin tanned an effective bronze, Dudley Felton knew that he was something worth looking at.

He had never thought of the matter before in quite this light, not being at all a conceited chap. Almost all of the girls who came to the little North Shore beach, of which he was the life guard, tried to flirt with him. But he had discouraged them, thinking it rather silly that anyone should admire him, a failure, just because he had a nice figure, black hair that stayed put, liquid brown eyes and a lovely personality.

But it was different when Helen showed up. He wanted her to fall for him; but she wouldn't. Dainty, blonde, almost fragile looking, she had, nevertheless, a surprising verve—and she could outswim anybody on the beach. She was so pretty that he could never take his eyes from her while she was upon the beach—and every time she caught him looking at her she snubbed him royally.

Dudley had been a bond salesman. He had also been a real estates salesman, a life insurance salesman, an automobile salesman, and several other kinds of a salesman. He had also been other things, since leaving college—and he had flunked at them all beautifully.

When he was very young he had wanted to be a pirate, then a fireman, then a locomotive engineer, then a policeman. When he grew up the disillusion of his life came when he found that none of the interesting occupations paid very much money. This summer, broke and discouraged, he had gotten his position as lifeguard through the political influence of a friend.

He couldn't swim very well, but there wasn't much need of it. The little beach to which he was assigned was used mostly by children and a few North Shore society people who, for one reason or another, had not fled for the summer.

In the midst of these gloomy meditations, Dudley suddenly saw an excited little girl before him.

"Look! Look!" she exclaimed, "there's something the matter with her." Dudley looked out to where Helen had swam, far out beyond where any of the other swimmers ever went. There was to be seen just a part of her face, floating above the water, utterly motionless. With an inward catch of fear lest he be not able to accomplish her rescue, Dudley ran into the water, went awkwardly into a double-overhand and tore toward the strangely still half of a face floating above the water.

She was even farther out than he had at first supposed, when calculating her position from the shore. He shuddered when he estimated the probable depth of the water where she was. He'd never be able to make it, he told himself bitterly; but then, it would be best to die this way, while trying, at least, to do something worth while.

At last, almost exhausted, he reached her. Put out a hand toward her head. She disappeared under the water, came up sputtering and fighting madly. Dudley knew that it was all up. His mouth and nose and ears and eyes were full of water and he felt as though he had swallowed tones of it. With a superhuman effort of will he stopped struggling and lay quite still in the water. He could, at least, be man enough to drown without dragging a woman down with him.

Half an hour later Dudley regained consciousness to find himself being blown up and deflated like an automobile tire. Hideous pain wrecked him from head to foot.

"Ok," said the doctor who was directing the work of the firemen using the pulmotor. "He's coming around. Let him lie quietly now. His heart's all right." Dudley drifted into a half dose. Vaguely he heard the others about him talking.

"A fine lifeguard! Imagine Helen saving his life." Dudley, when he heard these words, concentrated upon dying. He thought he had succeeded, because blackness came again. But, later, he didn't know how much later, a strange sensation awoke him. He opened his eyes to find two marvelously blue eyes looking directly into his own. The lips that belonged to the owner of the blue eyes were upon his lips.

"Oh!" she said in confusion, seeing that she was caught. "Well . . ." she went on with an embarrassed laugh. "There's no use to pretend now. Yes, I'm crazy about you."

"About me!" echoed Dudley weakly. "Why, you couldn't find a more useless oaf in seven counties. Where am I now? And what on earth ailed you out there in the water?"

"You're in my home. I've made Dad let them bring you here. I was practicing the 'dead man's float' out there in the water. You nearly drowned me when you came out after me."

"Why didn't you let me drown," he exclaimed, almost peevishly.

"Because I like you—lots. I'm so tired of he men. I've always wanted to find a man I could mother; a man who wouldn't make a doll out of me. I'm no Penthesilea in search of an Aeneas, with whom life would be a continual Pythian tripos—as most modern girls are."

Notice to Taxpayers

Office of Treasurer of Allegheny County Room 108 Court House Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

In pursuance of the 21st section of an "Act relating to Allegheny County," approved the 1st day of May, 1861, and of the amendments to said section, approved the 30th day of March, A. D. 1868, I hereby give notice that the tax duplicates for the several wards of the cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton boroughs and townships will be open, and I will be prepared to receive State, county, road, poor, bond interest, etc., park and personal property taxes for the year 1929 on May 1st. Said taxes may be paid during the months of May, June and July now at 5% discount, during August at face, and on and after September 1st the tax plus an added 10% penalty must be paid to the County Delinquent Tax Collector.

Statements will be furnished promptly upon written request, if furnished name, location by ward in the cities of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne or Clairton or boroughs or township. If statement of Personal Property or Occupation Tax is desired, give street address also.

Use of the mail is advised for requesting statements and making payment of taxes. Payments may be made at the Treasurer's Office or through mail by Certified Check or Money Order, payable to John Francies, County Treasurer), and mailed to Room 108, Court House, Pittsburgh, Pa., accompanied by stamped and addressed envelope for return of tax statement or receipt.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Positively NO discount will be allowed on taxes not actually received at the Treasurer's Office before the close of business on July 31st, 1929, nor will Taxes at face be received by the County Treasurer after the close of business on August 31st, 1929. Delay in delivery, by mail or messenger, will not be considered an excuse for non-payment before expiration of discount or face period for payment.

BUGS BAER Says

AN ARMY OF OCCUPATION

"Bugs" Baer

THE most orderly panic in the world is the week-end exodus from New York City to the mountains and the sea-shore.

Over 2,000,000 people knock the hinges off their one-car bungalows and scamper forth to play.

It's an army that is all commissariat. It's ammunition is pickles and sandwiches, bayonets are knives and forks, it's artillery is pop bottles.

And their picnic plates are their shields with hot dogs rampant upon a field of mustard azure.

They leave by railroad, highways, subways, tunnels, street cars, and bridges.

They escape from a town that is a frost-bite in winter and a blister in summer. Some of them are in wagons. Some on foot.

And, every once in a while, you see a miscreant on a bicycle.

They shoot under the Hudson via the Holland Vehicular Tube and they jam the Staten Island ferry until it is as wide as it is long.

They spread devastation throughout the wooded hills and the pleasant valleys. They pick flowers and traffic cops up by the roots.

They talk back to farmers and cows. And it's all in fun. The dwellers of the more fortunate towns do not know how fresh air and sunlight affect an average, sub-normal New Yorker.

At the first shock of personal contact, fresh air and sunlight make a New Yorker sick.

After he gets used to them, it's time to come home. And seeing the New Yorker come home is also a sight for the gods.

He is sunburned, tired and hungry. And we will give all of John Rockefeller's money to J. P. Morgan if either of them ever had a finer sensation in life than to come home in the twilight, sunburned, tired and hungry.

The New Yorker has crammed a month's vacation into 24 hours. He eats fast, he lives fast, he works fast so he must play fast.

New York is a town of a thousand cities, each one with its own habits and its own language. It thinks that the proper color for milk is blue and that sunlight is something you get on a roof.

But when it does manage to get out into the open air, it can get drunk on oxygen and stagger with the aroma of clover.

The fatigued motor cars come winding home at dusk with headlights blinking sleepily. Even though the cars are fender to fender and bumper to bumper, the poor old Manhattanite imagines that he is in the wide open spaces.

There is a long, long trail of ketchup bottles and crumbs extending from the Battery to Peekskill and from Coney Island to the water gap.

Central Park is so littered with paper that it only requires a mammoth string to make it a bundle.

But we know of nobody cruel enough to rob the New Yorker of his sporadic day in the sun. New York is a sad town when it's sad but it's a happy town with an even break.

State Convention Ends. 'Come Again, Sheriff.'

We assume there has been a state of lawlessness in quite a few of the counties of Pennsylvania. The sheriffs of these counties have been in Pittsburgh attending the annual convention of the Sheriffs' State Association, which ends with today's sessions. Yet if there has been an increase in disorder elsewhere because of absence of the chief law officer of the county, we also can assume there has been compensation through the beneficial effect of having so many of them in Allegheny County at the same time.

The customary belief is that the persons with whom sheriffs deal are the ones with real problems. Yet we guess these representatives of the law must have their troubles, too. So they meet annually to discuss them and the methods of improving the business routine of their offices and other matters pertaining to their calling. In addition they become acquainted with each other, which helps in the advancement of public business.

Efficiency is the order of the day and the convention has been found to be a great thing for interchange of ideas in many lines. It is evident our sheriffs have found profit as well as pleasure in them since this is their seventh annual meeting. In bidding them farewell we can say to them something they hear but seldom:

"Come, again, sheriff."

Judge's Action Challenges Freedom of the Press

Freedom of the press the country over is challenged by the recent action of an Ohio judge in punishing for contempt of court two newspaper editors of Cleveland.

Here is an outrage upon justice that will be condemned by every American who holds with Thomas Jefferson that "Our liberty depends upon freedom of the press."

Upon the ground that all gambling is forbidden by the laws of the State of Ohio, its sense of duty to the public prompted a Cleveland newspaper to carry an editorial criticizing an injunction issued by Judge Frederick P. Walther of the Court of Common Pleas restraining the sheriff from interfering with the so-called "contribution" system of gambling at a Cleveland race track.

Thereupon the indignant judge haled the editor of that newspaper and its chief editorial writer into court and cited them for contempt.

In defense of what they believed to be their duty, their counsel, Newton D. Baker, reminded the judge of the right of the press to criticize all public officials, including judges, whenever and wherever such criticism places no obstacles in the path of the processes of justice.

In view of the fact that the editorial criticism to which the judge took exception was addressed to a case that was no longer pending, Mr. Baker contended that no contempt had been committed and cited decision after decision in support of this contention.

And in justification of the editorial criticism as a public duty, Mr. Baker exposed the extraordinary circumstances under which the injunction was issued and charged the judge with being the "dupe" of friends who induced him "to interpose the power of Common Pleas Court between the sheriff and the performance of his duty."

Nevertheless motion for dismissal of contempt charges was denied and both editors were declared guilty and sentenced each to pay a fine of $500 and serve 30 days in jail. They appealed their case to a higher court and are now out on bond.

But public sentiment will not await the judgment of any higher court upon the amazing action of Judge Walther in punishing for contempt these Cleveland editors.

The facts in the case, as clearly set forth by Mr. Baker, will surely win for these Cleveland editors the overwhelming support of public sentiment. They have vindicated the freedom of the press by the courage with which they have performed their public duty.

As for the irate judge who cited them for contempt, found them guilty, and punished them with fine and imprisonment, public sentiment will as surely condemn for outraging justice and bringing his court into actual and deserved contempt.

Neither "the majesty of the law" nor the dignity of the judiciary is upheld by fining and imprisoning two American citizens for fearlessly and conscientiously discharging the responsibility which the freedom of the press imposes.

Surely an Ohio judge should not be permitted to do that which the first article of the Constitution prohibits the Congress from doing—abridge freedom of speech or of the press.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

THIS is a story for bright young people—

Particularly bright young graduates—

Who aren't getting the appreciation they think they deserve.

Helen Foster made me think of it. Helen's an unusually talented girl. She carried off all the honors in high school and college. She's the most artistic girl in her set. She makes block prints and reads terribly deep books and can do the cleverest things.

While she was in college these achievements went over with a big bang. But now that she's home things are quite different.

"My family treat me as if I were a joke," she says. "You'd naturally expect that my younger sisters would come to me for advice, but they don't. They go to our cousin, Alice, who is a very stupid, ordinary person. And it's the same with outsiders. They're interested for a little while and then they drift off—I can't seem to win their confidence or respect.

"Elsie, I don't want flattery. Truly I am not conceited. I simply want people to respect me and I think my record has earned it. Sometimes I wonder if it pays to have intelligence or talent. No one seems to appreciate it."

"I ONLY WANT RESPECT AND I THINK MY RECORD JUSTIFIES IT"—a great many of us have said that. A great many of us have felt that we could buy the esteem and confidence of our fellow men by our clever achievements. But we can't!

IT ISN'T WHAT WE DO, BUT WHAT WE ARE, THAT WINS RESPECT.

The average citizen doesn't care a hoot whether we're talented or not. He doesn't care whether we've put over the biggest bank merger, or written the best seller or performed the cleverest operation—

His respect for us is in exact proportion to our usefulness to him—AND WHAT HE NEEDS AND WANTS AND WILL RESPECT IS A REGULAR GUY WHO IS FRIENDLY AND RELIABLE AND HELPFUL AT LEAST TWENTY-THREE HOURS OUT OF THE TWENTY-FOUR.

And many bright people, unfortunately, do not make that grade. Helen is one of them. Helen's flighty and fussy and full of hangnails. HER TALENTS ARE A WOW, BUT HER HUMAN BEHAVIOR IS A MESS.

AND IT'S HUMAN BEHAVIOR THAT MAKES YOU OR BREAKS YOU IN THE LONG RUN.

That's why quite ordinary people often exercise much more power and command more respect than their clever comrades. They're actually finer human beings—they are of more service in the human ranks.

THE SMARTIE MAY HOG THE SPOTLIGHT, BUT IT'S THE REGULAR GUY WHO HOLDS THE HEARTS.

Bible Passages

David Voweth Service

(Psalm 61)

HEAR my cry, O God; attend unto my prayer.

From the end of the earth will I cry unto thee, when my heart is overwhelmed: lead me to the rock that is higher than I.

For thou hast been a shelter to me, and a strong tower from the enemy.

I will abide in thy tabernacle forever: I will trust in the covert of thy wings. Selah

For thou, O God, hast heard my vows: thou hast given me the heritage of those that fear thy name.

Thou wilt prolong the king's life: and his years as many generations.

He shall abide before God for ever: O prepare mercy and truth, which may preserve him.

So will I sing praise unto thy name forever, that I may daily perform my vows.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

YOU'VE known these people that imagine they have every disease they hear about. There's some long scientific word for them. Anyway, they amuse their friends and torment their families something great.

One of these guys was allowed to attend a medical society convention one time. I guess he was a newspaper reporter or something. Anyhow, he got in and heard one lecture. It was all about the rareness of a disease called pillowilloitis. The poor guy didn't understand much of what he heard, but he was sick when he came out of the place, and he went right to his doctor's office.

"Say, Doc," he says, "I think I got pillowilloitis! I'm practically sure I got it."

"But say," says the doc, "maybe you don't know that that's a disease that is always discovered by the doctors at the autopsy, because the guy that has it never feels it. He always feels perfectly well, and just as though there wasn't a thing wrong with him."

"Oh, Doc!" says the guy. "I got it, I know I got it! You describe my symptoms to a T! That's exactly the way I feel. I'm a victim of pillowilloitis, sure as shootin'."

Storm

THIS is the hour of storm, the breathless hour
When no leaf stirs, no feathered songster trills;
Foreboding rests upon the world, dark power
Broods menacing above the crouching hills.
A sullen roar, like far artillery,
Resounds along the skyline to the east;
Almost we hear the clank of chains, and see
The stealthy movements of a prisoned beast.

Ferocious storm leaps out to crush, to rend
All lesser things that lie within its path;
At last, at last the thunderbolts descend,
At last earth knows unleashed, torrential wrath!
Yet, with the storm, the air is cleared and men
Can see blue skies, breathe freely once again.

'KID RED' VS. 'YOUNG CHINA'

By Herbert Kaufman

ONCE upon a time, let's say a quarter century ago, a certain visiting American editor sat with Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Field Marshal Lord Roberts and super-journalist Stead in a London hotel drawing room, cross-checking the stresses and strains of international relations.

Japanese and Russian intrigue loomed largest in the discussion.

The two Englishmen insisted that German prosperity and foreign trade would continue to veto Wilhelm's saber-rattling ambitions and his dream of Weltmacht.

TEUTON industry would hardly allow a megalomaniac to risk the flourishing fortunes in a continental MELEE.

When the next battle-royal broke, the CASUS BELLI would appear in India, where Japanese mischief-makers were then smuggling printing outfits to revolutionary groups, and the Czar's secret agents could be found as actively engaged, sowing dragons' teeth at Kabul and along the border states.

Yellow perils and bruin snarls filled the room—the dread and untested might of Russia and Pan-Asiatic Leagues were civilization's REAL BUGABOOS.

All of which is called to mind by the storm clouds gathering above Manchuria.

NEITHER local nor European stock-tickers even skipped a fractional beat at word that a hobbled bear and a claw-clipped dragon MAY throw another scrap of paper into the growing pile of repudiated treaties, and re-serve the grudge that Ghengis Khan planted in Muscovy, when Sabutai's hordes looted and ravaged the land.

Finance, commerce and diplomacy have little at stake yonder. Chinese and Russian estates have fallen so low, and their present economic roles are of such slight consequence, that progress will suffer no important inconvenience through this conflict of atrophied and outlaw governments.

Neither bankrupt can command the resources necessary to kick up much of a row.

Both lack munitions, transport facilities, treasury funds and commissary supplies.

None of the powers will extend further loans to debtors who haven't even begun to liquidate overdue obligations.

THEIR combined population of 600,000,000 is a reservoir which can merely furnish as many troops as limited and obsolete arsenals may arm.

And any recent dreadnaught can hammer their collective fleets to scrap-iron without coming into counter gun range.

The three million soldiers with which China is credited are mainly tatterdemalions and banditti, against whom Russia can only hurl a fragment of her huge standing army, because inadequate railways and provender won't permit the employment of major expeditions.

So why bother about the approaching collision? It won't disturb a rebuilt world machine which has long since eliminated the combatant units from its transmission and calculations.

If Geneva is impotent to halt the bout, there will be few thrills in the reports from ringside observers of a slugging match between a pair of ex-heavyweights without a button-blow left in their unwieldly fists.

"Kid Red" versus "Young China" isn't apt to be a star event.

TELEVISION IN COLORS

By Archibald Henderson

ONE of the most fascinating enterprises of modern invention is the transmission of scenes at a distance by radio. Bernard Shaw anticipates this invention in his huge play or series of plays, "Back to Methuselah." He shows one cabinet minister in London watching another cabinet minister disporting himself along the Riviera. Pictures of moving objects, in black and white, in a small field have been transmitted a distance of miles by means of radio. Within a few years, beyond doubt, we are assured of the transmission of moving pictures, by radio, on a commercial scale. This promises to mark an epoch in radio development.

In order to reproduce motion on a screen at a distant point, it is necessary to transmit the entire scene 16 times a second. Already wave lengths of less than an inch have been produced, and it is only a question of time when the desired frequencies for transmission will be available. A long step forward has been taken in the invention of a photo-electric detecting device sensitive enough to be affected under normal illumination by any point in the scene to be reproduced. The problem of amplification has been virtually solved. And by amplification is meant amplifying the original picture of the scene in terms of radio waves which will carry to distant points. The amplification of sound has been so highly developed that today science can amplify a heart-beat so that it is heard on the other side of the ocean!

And now television in color has come. It is still in primitive form, the herald of the more perfect achievement of the future. Only the other day a group of astonished spectators, in the Bell Telephone laboratories in New York City witnessed a man hold up an American flag before the television Argus and a hundred feet away the same flag, in the same colors, appeared clearly upon the screen, which was about the size of a postage stamp. Various objects and scenes were transmitted; a man eating a piece of watermelon, a flower pot of geraniums, a ball with colored stripes, a bouquet of roses of different colors and a young woman in a colored dress.

During the past year engineers of the Bell laboratories have added color to television motion pictures. A year ago, Dr. Hubert Ives anticipated his recent discovery by introducing a radio camera that pictured outdoor scenes for a television audience. The secret of the new invention, singularly enough, was found in the addition of comparatively little new mechanism to the black and white television instrument of a year ago. Light sources, driving motors, scanning disks and synchronizing systems are alike. The same type of amplification is employed. The only new features are the type and arrangement of the photoelectric cells at the sending end, and the type and arrangement of the neon and argon lamps at the receiving end.

How is the miracle wrought? First, a new kind of photo-electric cells has been developed, using sodium instead of potassium. This cell is sensitive throughout the entire visible spectrum; and instead of stopping in the blue-green region, continues all the way to the deep red. These cells are "eyes" designed to see things as the sensitive nerves of the retina of the human eye sees them. So one set of cells has filters or sheets of colored gelatine of an orange-red color; another set has yellow-green filters; a third set has greenish-blue filters.

"The receiving apparatus," says Dr. Ives, "consists of one of the 16-inch television disks used in our earlier experimental work. Behind it are the three special lamps and a lens system which focusses the light into a small aperture in front of the disk. The observer, looking into the aperture, receives, through each hole of the disk as it passes by, light from the tree lamps—each controlled by its appropriate signal from the sending end. When the intensities of the three images are properly adjusted he therefore sees an image in its true colors, and with the general appearance of a small colored motion picture."

The demonstration was over wires, rather than by radio; but this was a detail. The application of colored television to radio on a commercial scale will be very expensive, it appears; and very difficult to accomplish, since it requires the enormous space in the ether of three radio channels 20,000 cycles wide.

MODERN STORE FRONT IN STUTTGART.

In many parts of Europe architects, adopting so-called "modern art" in building, try for startling effects combined with usefulness.

Merchants in this city will be interested in this picture showing the new building of the great Schocken stores, in Stuttgart.

The architect, Herr E. Mendelsohn, is called "one of the notable creative artists of the modern style in Germany."

His friends are proud of the tremendous sweep of these wide store windows.

Other modern buildings in Europe are more striking and surprising than this. But this particular one interests us because it shows a new idea in window display for merchandising.

You could put many dresses, step-ins, "ensembles," bathing suits and other things in this row of windows.

DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Those of us whose squirrel-in-the-cage existence is cast in Manhattan's man-made cliffs, rushing up and down in elevators, fighting our way across streets and burrowing through subway caverns, are always impressed with the roominess in a city such as this.

There is a freedom we never realize on our tight little island. Los Angeles, nearing its second million, will not have the cramping compactness of the metropolis if it should become twice its size. It rambles crazily all over its million acres.

In the most congested districts one comes suddenly upon desolated sections, but drive on and it picks up and flowers again into bustling activity. For this reason there seems always to be room in the most crowded area for a patch of grass, a row of trees or spray of flowers.

Every home, no matter how humble, has front and back yard and a porch. Even the apartment houses and many large hotels have wide sweeps of greensward blooming with a copious variety of flowers. The air is clean and tangy and there is a delightful leisure to the living tempo.

It is from 5 to 8 in the evening Los Angeles expresses its singularly wholesome domesticity. Husbands in shirt sleeves are out sprinkling the grass, wives are in the veranda swings reading evening papers and children in fresh linens are playing "dress-up" games on the lawn.

Los Angeles, after dark, does not rush off to the play, the cafe or the movies. The nights are always beautiful with a moon riding high. Through the damp lit windows in residential sections are glimpses of a peace and content you rarely see from Gotham's pavements.

It is doubtful if any other city its size retires so early. Down town streets begin to clear by 9 o'clock. By 10 they are almost deserted. And the city seems in sound sleep by 11 o'clock. That is true of Hollywood, too, where almost everybody must be up at sunrise and off to the studios.

A Ghetto seems a little incongruous in the far west. Los Angeles has one as distinct, crowded and smelly as Rivington street in New York. It sprawls along Temple street in the middle section of the city. Here one may see bearded patriarchs and the wigged mammas sitting in doorways just as they do back East. While shops have a newer look, they have the same manner. And all day long bargain hunters sweep back and forth haggling and haranguing. The section features a Chinese-Kosher cafe, by the way.

* * *

There is a subway, too, even if a miniature. It is a short span branching out from a midtown subway terminal for a few blocks underground and thus relieves the rush congestion.

The taxicab, save at railroad stations and the larger hotels, is rarely seen. Los Angelans own their own cars. So the taxi industry does not flourish. And a New Yorker gets a sharp impression of the improved appearance of thoroughfares not cluttered up with the gaudily painted and ramshackle contraptions cruising its curbs. What few taxicabs are here are bright and clean. Drivers are in smart uniforms and they open doors, have the proper change and are otherwise polite. Most of them are American boys from the nearby farms or small towns and do not talk out of their mouth sidewise. Neither do their hair and eyebrows meet.

For a short haul in New York the average taxi tip is 15 cents. Out here it is a quarter and often 35 cents, which goes to show people are willing to pay for courtesy and comfort.

* * *

L. A. hooch seems to have authority. A gentlemen tells in the morning papers of priming himself with three fair sized shots to call on a certain lady and tell her their romance was over. Instead, he asked her to elope to San Diego and she did. In an aeroplane!

Los Angeles seems to attract the type of show-offs who used to think they were splitting New York wide open when they bought a bottle of wine at Rector's and hired a hack by the day. Out here they drive about hatless in roadsters and smirk at the ladies.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

THERE are always whiners—be something different.

Take the bad breaks as a part of the general scheme.

You may be tempted often to tell of your hard knocks.

You feel that if people knew they might have more sympathy for you.

But why should you want sympathy?

You are just looking for an excuse for failure.

In case of death of dear ones there is a place sacred to sympathy if it comes from true friends or it is in itself genuine.

But in a case less than life and death your friends have a right to feel that you can pull yourself out of trouble.

At least they should think that you don't want sympathy.

Sympathy in such a case is a reflection on your ability or your stick-to-it-iveness in your running of your own business.

Keep your troubles to yourself—even the best of friends get weary of hearing about them.

Incidentally it is easier to help a brave and courageous man than a whiner.
